All Numeral Listing

New Phone Books In Mail Tuesday

New Thief River Falls telephone directories will be mailed to all telephone users Tuesday, according to J. M. Wilson, manager of the local office of Northwestern Bell Telephone company.

Front cover of the book features Minnesota's recreational facilities in the four seasons of the year, presented in full color, as well as a list of all communities included in the new directory.

The Thief River Falls section will be listed first here, followed by the classified or Yellow Pages, and then listings for other communities in alphabetical order. In last year's directory all communities were listed alphabetically.

Wilson pointed out that Thief River Falls telephone numbers will be shown as several numerals in the new directory. The new numbers are still the same in length and in dialing–the only change is in the appearance.

"We merely translated the two letters of the present prefix, 'M' and 'U', into their corresponding numerals on the dial, '6' and '8'," Wilson said. "As a result, anyone dialing the old numbers will still reach the right phone."

However, it is important for thief River Falls customers to think of their number in its numerical form and to give it to friends, relatives and business associates, particularly those who live out of town, in that form.

Wilson said the use of numerals instead of letters for telephone prefixes increases available number combinations by nearly 50 percent, enough to take care of future growth as well as to make it possible to offer further service improvements.

At the present time, more than half of the telephones served by Northwestern Bell in Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota, Iowa and Nebraska, have seven numeral numbers and 44,800,00 telephones nationwide, or 50 percent of the total, now have the all-numeral numbers.

In time, all telephone numbers will consist of seven numerals.

Assassination Is Voted Top '63 Story

UND Journalism Dept. Conducts Annual Poll

Journalism students at the University of North Dakota, many of whom covered President Kennedy's September visit to the campus, unanimously voted the assassination of the President as the top news story of 1963.

The second biggest story was the Profumo sex scandal in Britain, according to members of classes in contemporary affairs and the newspaper, editing and copyreading, and reporting. However, the President's death and related events had no other story close to it in the rating, said Alvin E. Austin, chairman of the journalism department.

Here are how the students rated other stories: (3) Integration story including the March on Washington and Birmingham bombings. 330 Cases Handled by Judge H. A. Kjos During Past Year

Disposed of More Than Twice as Many Criminal Cases as During 1962

The judge of probate office handled a total of 330 cases this year, it is revealed in the annual summary of activities prepared this week by Judge Herman A. Kjos

A total of 126 persons appeared before Judge Kjos for a variety of offenses, some petty and some of a more serious nature. This is approximately 50 more than in 1962. Of these, 63 were traffic offenses with about 60 drivers licenses suspended for from 15 days to a year, while 24 cases were transferred for processing in the municipal court division. Most of the remaining were petty matters leaving only a half-dozen cases of a delinquent nature during the year. This is about the same number of serious cases brought before the court as a year ago.

In the probate court section, 76 entries were made, 59 new cases, the remainder of miscellaneous nature, eight new guardianships opened, four special administration, while 14 mental hearings were held, this including seniles, mental illness and inebriety cases. This is about the same number of cases as the average year.

In the municipal court division 120 criminal cases were processed and disposed of. This is more than twice the number of cases in 1962. Over $2,000.00 in fines were collected during the year.

Seven marriages were performed during the year by Judge Kjos.

Since Sunday the mercury has not fallen below the zero mark, high and low readings begin Monday 27 and 3; Tuesday, 35 and 19; Wednesday, Christmas Day, 25 and 15; and on Thursday, 8. A snowfall of about two inches arrived Christmas night.

Saturday, with a -31 below zero temperature in Crookston and —33 in Thief River Falls was the coldest December 21 record since 1910 according to Dr. O. C. Soine, United States Weather observer at the Northwest School of Agriculture but the nine-day period starting December 14, when the temperature did not get above the zero mark, did not set a record he said. Official records are not available before 1910.

That record was established in 1916 when, for 20 days from December 9-27 the temperature remained below the zero mark.

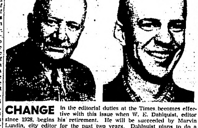
County SCD Adds 35 Cooperators in 1962



CHANGE in the editorial duties at the Times becomes effective with this issue when W. E. Dahlquist, editor since 1928, begins his retirement. He will be succeeded by Marvin Lundin, city editor for the past two years. Dahlquist plans to do a considerable amount of traveling and to keep in touch with Times readers through a personal column.

Basic Farm Plans In Operation now Total 205 in Dist.

Pennington County Soil Conservation district added 35 new cooperators during the past fiscal year to bring the total to date to 378, according to the annual report presented to the board of supervisors by Robert Kloubec, work unit conservationist. Figures used in the report cover the period from July 1, 1962, through June 30, 1963.

Twenty-one new basic farm plans were drawn up during the year, an increase of eight from 1962, to make a total of 205 farms in the county with basic farm plans. Eight plans were revised during the year.

Soil mapping totaled 6,280 acres as compared with 5,480 acres the previous year to bring the total to 142,889 acres. Thirty-six stock water pits were constructed, making a total of 232 such pits having been dug in the district. Drainage ditches constructed totaled 146 miles for a total of 1,218 miles of such ditches in the district.

Reflecting the extreme weather conditions of the year, only 4,660 acres were involved in conservation crop rotation as compared with 8,396 acres in 1962. Crop residue use dropped to 3,857 acres compared with 10,170 acres the previous fiscal year and pasture improvement dropped to 321 acres from 1,399 in 1962.

Other practices included 12 drainage structures, 17 acres of wildlife development, 271 acres of wildlife preservation, 23 acres of tree planting, 321 acres of approved land clearing and 11 group jobs completed. A total of 51 members of 4-H clubs was enrolled in the conservation project and all completed their projects.

"Because of the extremely heavy work load this fall, we had to have five men working to keep up with the work," Kloubec said in reviewing accomplishments of the year. "Pennington County Fair association received technical assistance from our SCS staff on land leveling and drainage. Our conservation farmer of the year was Norman Peterson of Sanders township."

Members of the board of supervisors include Oscar Houske, chairman; Harold South, vice chairman; Raymond Parnow, secretary; Melvin Scholin, treasurer; and Merle Dugen, elected last year as supervisor.

Gordon Jelle is conservation aide with Sheldon Peterson, Verner Arveson and Richard Severson as district aides.

'63 Wool Program Marketing Year Ends December 31

County ASCS Reminds Growers to File Their Reports for Past Year

Producers were reminded again today that the 1963 marketing year under the national wool program ends December 31. According to Winton Knutson, chairman of the Pennington county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee, this means that payments for the current 1963 year will depend on completing all details of marketing either wool or lambs by that date. Marketings completed after December 31, 1963 will be eligible for payments for the 1964 marketing year.

The chairman explained that the 1963 marketing year under the wool program has been shortened to nine months in order to shift the wool marketing year to a calendar year basis, beginning in 1964. Because this is a change from previous programs, he declared, some producers may let the deadline slip by, thinking that they have several more months before the current program's end.

He urges therefore, that producers make sure that all details of the 1963 sales are completed not later than December 31, 1963. This includes passing title to the buyer, delivering the wool to the buyer either physically or through documents transferring control to the buyer, and having available all information needed to determine the buyer's total purchase price.

Applications for 1963 marketing year payments under the National Wool Act may be filed with ASCS county offices up until January 31, 1964. The chairman points out that, since the program year will end earlier than usual—on December 31, the 1963 payments will likely begin in April of next year instead of late-summer, as under previous programs.

Sheriff Richards Asks Caution in Driving on River

Warning of the dangers in operating cars and snow-cats on the rivers in the Thief River Falls area was issued today by Charles Richards, Pennington county sheriff.

Greatest danger, aside from the possibility of thin ice, lies in the possibility of accidents involving cars and snow-cats or vehicles and children skating on the river. Richards urged the public to operate vehicles on the ice in a safe manner and to resist the temptation to skid or slide vehicles on the ice.

Christmas Mail Volume Is Down

Slight Decline Noted From December in '62

Mailing at the Thief River Falls post office during the period extending from December 1 through December 24 showed a slight increase from the same period in 1962, according to a report released today by R. J. Dryden, postmaster.

Packages mailed declined only .001 per cent from 7,924 in 1962 to 7,916 this year. The peak day of December 18 this year had 693 packages mailed as compared to 870 packages on the peak day of December 17 a year ago.

Cancellations declined four per cent from 272,347 in 1962 to 261,301 this year. The peak day was December 17 in both years with 26,665 cancellations in 1962 and 23,961 in 1963.

"Sectional center parcel post, packages for towns in this area and mailed direct to Thief River Falls for distribution, bypassing St. Paul and eastern terminals, averaged 30 sacks a day to a peak of 70 to 80 sacks a day in the 10-day period preceding Christmas," Dryden said.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the kitchen of
MRS. WALTER NETTEBERG

As I write this, on the day following Christmas feasting, the thought of food isn't particularly intriguing, but by the time you housewives read it, your Christmas baking may all have found its way into appreciative tummies and you need to think of replacements. These smackin' good bars, definitely not for calorie counters but too delicious to resist, occasioned for Mrs. Netteberg many requests for the recipe. MINIATURE MARSHMALLOW BARS

½ cup melted butter (full measure)
¾ cup peanut butter
1½ pkgs. caramel or butterscotch chips
1 pkg. chocolate chips

Melt all together in a double boiler, stirring occasionally to hasten the melting of the chips. Remove from the fire and beat until smooth. Cool enough so that the marshmallows over which you will pour the mixture will not melt.

Have ready in a large mixing bowl:
1—10½-oz. miniature marshmallows
1 cup shredded coconut
1 cup chopped walnuts

Blend these last three ingredients with a fork, and pour the cooled mixture over them, folding in carefully until thoroughly mixed. Pour into greased pan, 9 by 13 inches in size. Set aside to cool. Cut into bars.

Mrs. Netteberg has been teaching the 4th grade at Washington school for a number of years now. Her "loves" include children, housekeeping, music; and in the past she has done considerable fancywork . . . embroidering, tatting, crocheting, and much sewing. # of Rhyme & Reason

by MARV LUNDIN

HOW DO YOU WRITE AN OBITUARY FOR A COLUMN? This writing marks the end of the appearance of "Rhyme & Reason" as a regular feature in the Monday edition of the Times. A shift in the editorial staff is responsible for this column's demise.

With the retirement of W. E. (Bill) Dahlquist, from editorial duties effective January 1, a new editor of this paper has been named. The new editor is a tyrant. With the change in administration, this column is the first thing to get the editorial axe. Without regard to personal feelings or public or private sentiment, the new editor, has decreed that "Rhyme & Reason" shall be no more.

The blow is softened somewhat in that the new editor is also the author of this column. Actually, the 'Omega" of "Rhyme & Reason" is due to the press of editorial writing duties which this writer has now assumed. Under the circumstances, the labors of a personal column would be an added burden, and in fact (as the lawyers say) a bit unnecessary.

So it is with a note of sadness that I bid farewell to my column—a weekly task which has been both stimulating and gratifying for the past 34 months. It is with a feeling of apprehension that I take up the challenge of filling the editorial columns with thought-provoking material twice each week.

To the faithful readers of "Rhyme & Reason" in the past I would like to express my most sincere appreciation. It is my hope that they will read the editorial columns which will contain comment previously made in this space. Without readers, writing is a useless task.

ANOTHER THING I DIDN'T KNOW: An ellipse about three-fourths by five-eighths inch is the area on the rail that a railroad car wheel touches at any one time. This is the "secret" which enables a railroad to transport huge tonnage at high speeds with a relatively small amount of power consumption. Under today's regulations, each tiny ellipse can bear a maximum load of 32,875 pounds. The stresses built up in the rail as the wheel moves along are similar to those that would be caused by a succession of blows with a 16-ton sledge hammer.

This means that a 100-car train, made up of 100-ton capacity cars, weighing 26.3 millions pounds and stretching more than a mile long, is supported at any given moment on an area totaling only 294.4 square inches—a little more than two square feet.

A woman was expecting three calls one day—from Wally, the mechanic working on the family car; Chuck, her cousin in town for the holidays; and Pierre, her hairdresser. The phone rang and a man's voice said hello.

"Wally?" she asked. "No," the man's voice said. "Chuck?" "No." "Pierre?" "No." The call was from the woman's clergyman who, after a brief chat, hung up the phone—most likely feeling sorry for the woman's husband whose name was Bill.

TAKE HEART AT AGING

Years in their passing give no thought to time;
No matter your pitfalls or ladders you climb,
You're sure to grow older. But take heart, my friend,
Whether you're starting or nearing life's end;
Time marches on with perpetual tread,
But when you stop aging, then, brother, you're dead.

Library Board Gives Of Time and Talents

by Virginia Gjernes
Assistant Librarian

The term, "chairman-of-the-board" usually brings to mind a picture of a rather pompous individual grasping a coupon clipper while seated at a mirror-polished mahogany table, addressing his cohorts. When you add "of your Carnegie Public library" the mind's eye image changes. You visualize, instead, a working member of a laboring team of citizens who serves you earnestly, energetically, intelligently and unselfishly. Board members receive no remuneration for time and energy spent so extravagantly in your behalf.

Your library board is comprised of nine men and women appointed to their positions by the mayor in office at the time a vacancy occurs. Currently, the chairman is Raymond J. Ulferts, elected by his co-workers last year. Vice-chairman is Elmer Andersen and Richard Mabey serves as secretary. Three established committees—grounds, building and budget—require the joint efforts of these gentlemen, plus board members A. E. Jacobson, Mrs. Hans Chommie, Mrs. Lloyd Bennes, Mrs. L. B. Hartz and G. A. Belto Jr.

Your library governing body is those whome they serve, housewives, businessmen, teachers and government service employees. Therefore, they view the library from every conceivable angle so that needs of the users are met. Individually, they are interested in many things as well as the library.

These interests range from their own children to their grandchildren, to creative works, gardening, sports, other organizations benefitting various segments of humanity, reading, traveling and homemaking. There is scarcely an avenue down which at least one member hasn't found an interest, including model railroading and photography.

All are busy in their own way, leading their own lives, yet none is too busy to meet once a month to do whatever he or she can, and all that they can, to make your library the best!

The tenure of service for the current members ranges from 11 months to approximately 20 years. Naturally the library has changed somewhat—but not the housing nor the aims. The number of volumes has increased tremendously; the population served has increased, naturally, for as the Thief River Falls area has grown, so borrowers have increased. Percentagewise, the borrower-public outnumbers the population increase, which means more of the people are reading more of the books, papers, pamphlets and periodicals made available to them.

The latest figures available (1962) show 90,595 volumes were loaned to 4,553 borrowers and that 21,227 books crowd the shelves. There are 4,845 registered borrowers. The indications are that 1963 figues will show an increase in all four categories. The available figures also show that 8,000 reference questions were asked of, and answered by, the librarians serving you. These 1962 figures were taken from the fiscal year's statistical report to the library division of the State Department of Education at St. Paul.

The main business of your public library board is to set the policies and to mark the pace of growth of the institution. Then, it is up to the librarians to see that the policies are carried through and to the men, women and children of this city to see that the pace is maintained. Use of the library by citizens of this city and the surrounding area dictates the number of librarians required to assist them and to carry on the every day business of the establishment.

The board members are responsible for the personnel, furnishings, maintenance and expenditures of the library. Their recommendations are presented to the city council for approval. The board governs the library according to patterns set forth by the library division of the State Department of Education and is bound by city council rulings.

The public spirited members currently serving you have seen many innovations over the years. A great many of these are not obvious to others because citizens, generally speaking, are aware only of visual changes, such as the enlarged selection of books and the subjects covered. There has been a change in registration procedure; installation of an automatic check-out machine and system; the organization of the "Friends of the Library"; improvement of the surrounding grounds; and outlining of an effective public relations program designed to acquaint more people with the available facilities.

The work of the library board is essential to the mental well-being of the people. Since it is essential it follows that it is a never-ending proposition. Though current members may be replaced by others, the needs of the future will never be stagnant but will be forever moving forward. Knowledge of the needs will be passed from the retiring members to the new representatives of the public.

The members have dreams for the future. One of these dreams is a new library building so the public can be served better as they try to be kept constantly informed of the changing world. Another forward step the board would like to see taken by the people of Thief River Falls would be the establishment of a multi-county library with a bookmobile for serving those dwelling throughout Pennington and the neighboring counties, whether in towns or on farms. These are just two of the projects each and every member of the board would like to work toward and help develop in the future.

However, the members of the board can only work and wish, watch and wait. While they are so occupied, the people they serve so well can cooperate with their representatives by becoming more aware of the problems confronting the board members and by supporting them when suggestions are forthcoming for the betterment of your library.

Each member is aware of the monetary problems facing the operation of the library; each is aware of the necessity of maintaining the library and for bettering the facilities. The minds of the people do not stand still, therefore the library and its services cannot, must not, be dormant, but must move ahead and keep in step with the growth and development of the city.

The members of the board, individually and collectively, are working for the continued development of your library—they are working for you—each of you, all of you.

PEPPERS for the family table are supplied by a Mango pepper plant owned by Mrs. Eric Derocher at 1218 Duluth av. N. For three years Mrs. Derocher has kept the plant outdoors in the summer and taken it in for the winter months, harvesting four or five green peppers a year. Raised from a greenhouse seedling, the productive plant bears fruit and flowers at the same time. Among other unusual plants, Mrs. Derocher has a citrus plant including orange, lemon, tangerine and grapefruit plants.

March of Dimes Is Set for Month of January

The 26th annual March of Dimes was given its official kick-off last week by Governor Karl F. Rolvaag when he issued a proclamation declaring the month of January "March of Dimes Month".

The Governor read the proclamation to Jay P. O'Connor, Minnesota State March of Dimes chairman, and urged all citizens to contribute generously to the support of the campaign. The proclamation stressed the need for funds to finance research and medical treatment centers for birth defects and arthritis, continued assistance to polio patients, and support of the new Salk Institute for Biological Studies.

Mr. O'Connor explained that since the National Foundation-March of Dimes turned its attention to birth defects and arthritis, it has established 44 birth defects centers and 25 arthritis treatment centers across the nation. "Last year," he added, "The National Foundation initiated the Minnesota State March of Dimes arthritis special treatment center at the University of Minnesota Hospitals, with Dr. Ralph C. Williams as director. In addition, during 1963, the National Foundation issued research grants to University of Minnesota scientists totaling $189,754."

O'Connor recalled that ten years ago there were 2100 cases of polio in the state of Minnesota. "Today, five years after the Salk vaccine, only four cases have been reported. This is a proud victory over one of the world's most dreaded cripplers, and the victory belongs to the American public who made it possible through their contributions to the March of Dimes. Just as polio was defeated, we are confident that birth defects and arthritis will also disappear from the American scene."

The March of Dimes will continue through the month of January, and will be climaxed with the traditional Mothers March, the door-to-door solicitation which is the major source of funds for the March of Dimes.

Hearing Held on New Bank in EGF

No Opposition Voiced Against Proposed Bank

Six witnesses testified Friday in favor of granting a charter for a new Citizens State Bank at East Grand Forks at a hearing before the Minnesota State Commerce Commission.

The proposed bank would be capitalized at $200,000 and Herbert Paulson of Neche, N. D., would be president.

Commission members said there was no opposition with the exception that State Sen. Claude Allen of St. Paul has been questioning witnesses to determine if establishment of the bank would affect the pending application for a proposed State Bank at Oslo, 20 miles north of East Grand Forks.

Witnesses heard at the session were Henry G. Tweten, attorney; Gerald C. Ryan, a business man, Leonard Driscoll and Michael Jacobs, both aldermen, all of East Grand Forks; L. A. Brink, former district judge, and R. C. Nelson, both of Hallock.

Diets of Older Folks Call for Improvement

The food you eat may mean the difference between good and poor health in later years.

Diet troubles seem to grow worse with age, studies show, and from childhood on at a greater rate among females than males. By the time people are 65 or older, their diets are often lacking in some of the essential nutrients needed for good health. Most usual shortages are calcium, ascorbic acid (vitamin C) and the B vitamins thiamine and riboflavin.

Diets faulty in these nutrients could be corrected, says Carolyn Offerdahl, home agent, by greater use of milk and cheese to increase calcium and riboflavin; by the use of citrus fruits and citrus juices to step up ascorbic acid; and by more bread and cereals to increase the thiamine and riboflavin. More meat would help rise the level of B-vitamins.

Cutting calories with advancing age is in general a desirable practice because expenditure of energy is much less. However, in reducing calories, it's important not to lower the nutrient quality of diets, Miss Offerdahl says. High-calorie deserts, cakes, and candy would be omitted without reducing important nutrients.

Achievement of good diets is more than a question of know-how. Older people like others, must have sufficient income to buy a good diet. They must also be convinced that food makes a difference in health in the later years, and that money spent on an adequate diet is well spent. Research has proved time and again that good nutrition can add years to life and contribute to greater enjoyment of the later years.

Projects totaling $7,235,000 in cost were either underway or completed during the season, Larson said. A list of projects, keyed to the identifying numbers on the map above, is published in the accompanying story.

$7,235,000 In Projects On 1963 Dist. Highway Program

C. M. Larson, Minnesota district engineer headquartered at Bemidji, reports that his district is in the final phase of closing out a construction season in which $7,235,000 in highway projects were underway or completed.

The Challenge Of The New Year

By Flora Allison

I hear the clearly-ringing invitation
Of another new year's welcome-bells
And I am called once more into acceptance
Of the challenge that their yearly message spells.

Again a New Year's volume spreads before me
As yet unmarked, untouched, unspoiled
To be marked with some achievement
For every day that I have toiled . .

Each year presents me with occasions
For doing deeds of value to the ages . . .
To justify the right of my existence
I must write something worthy on those pages.

Give me help, O Lord, that I may pass it onward
Leaving my deeds thereon without sense of shame,
And then, upon its final, closing pages
To affix, without one small regret, my name!

HOW THEY FLY...

Six New Years — count them! Six sets of good resolutions — remember them? And now another year coming up . . . all too quickly . . . how they seem to rush by!

As always, the beginning of another year is a good time to consider how much happier and better life is when God is in it. And just as important is the resolution to share this knowledge with others.

True, any Sunday can be a new beginning. But strengthened by past experience, make this year a truly memorable one. Start taking your family to church regularly. Claim your birthright of peace and forgiveness in sincere worship.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

As we look forward to the New Year our thoughts turn naturally to the records of the year that is drawing to a close. This is the season for inventories and balances; the time to total up our assets and liabilities; and measure our progress in terms of tangible losses or gains.

Before closing the books on 1963 we wish to express our sincere thanks to those who favored us with their confidence and from whom we have collected a type off satisfaction that our cash boxes are not equipped to register.

We are established in our businesse and professions to provide particular services, and we invite patronage with assurance that the goods and services we sell will be dependable and of good value. Our books tell how we have done in terms of dollars and cents. They do not record however, the many pleasant experiences we have had in dealing with considerate people, and the kindnesses we have collected through these personal relationships. In the language of the trade, "It has been a pleasure to do business with you."

And In The Spirit Of The Seaon, We, The Business and Professional People of Thief River Falls, Extend To All Of You Our Best Wishes For The New Year And The Hope That 1964 Will Bring To You

Editorials . . .

A New Year

"The sun is just rising on the morning of another day, the first day of a new year. What can I wish that this day, this year, may bring to me? Nothing that shall make the world of others poorer, nothing at the expense of other men, but just those few things which in their coming do not stop with me, but touch me rather, as they pass and gather strength:

"A few friends who understand me, and yet remain my friends.

"A work to do which has real value without which the world would feel the poorer. A return for such work small enough not to tax unduly anyone who pays.

"A mind unafraid to travel, even though the trail be not blazed. An understanding heart. A sight of the eternal hills and unresting sea, and of something beautiful the hand of man has made.

"A sense of humor and the power to laugh. A little leisure with nothing to do. A few moments of quiet, silent meditation. The sense of the presence of God.

"And the patience to wait for the coming of these things; with the wisdom to know them when they come."

—W. R. Hunt

Stepping Aside

In "As You Like It," Shakespeare reminded us that "All the world's a stage, and all the men and women merely players. They have their exits and their entrances, and one man, in his life, plays many parts, his acts being seven ages."

Inevitably we grow old, if we live long enough, and there comes a time when the old must step aside and make way for those who follow. And that is what I am doing. From now on Marvin Lundin will write the editorials and I will emerge from behind the editorial "we" and start writing in the first person "I". Marvin Lundin is favorably known in the community, he is a bundle of energy, well qualified, participates in many community activities and needs no introduction.

I am not saying good-bye because I expect to be around quite a while yet. With forty years of newspapering behind me, I will always like the smell of ink. I intend to do some travelling and report to you regularly through a personal column. And there still are a lot of things I want to grumble about. Thanks for listening.

Bill Dahlquist.

In Tribute

For 40 years the names of Bill Dahlquist and the Thief River Falls Times have been as synonymous as pie and coffee. Throughout the state he is much respected in the journalism profession—and to be recognized in one's own profession is indeed a tribute.

As the new editor of the Times, it will be my duty to follow in the footsteps of Mr. Dahlquist. To assume such a task—to grasp the reins after another driver has held the lines for 40 years—is indeed a staggering challenge. It is my fervent hope that the legacy left to me by the retirement of a great editor from the editorial scene can be carried on in acceptable fashion.

For the average person to understand the contributions made by Mr. Dahlquist to this community and to his chosen profession would be impossible. Over these many years much of his work has been lost in the many facets which engulf a progressive community, but it is there. His value as a newspaperman lies not only in what he has written but in what he has accomplished.

The assembly of words into a readable editorial is, in itself, not a difficult task. To take issue with events and people is, however, not at all easy. An editor must, in accomplishing his purpose, run the risk of losing friends or alienating others whom he may or may not know. I feel that Mr. Dahlquist has placed his profession above all else, and this is certainly to his credit.

Aside from the editorial tasks, Mr. Dahlquist has served this community well. As a state senator he fought for northwestern Minnesota and the things he believed to be of benefit to it. Blessed with a keen mind and avid interest in many things, he has made use of his gifts in many ways. More often than realized, his work behind the scenes has been the turning point in projects hailed as local or area successes.

Those who know Bill personally, as has been my priviledge in the three years I have been with the Times, know him as a man with an unusually fine sense of humor. He is a well-read and a deep-thinking individual. His opinion in controversial matters is well respected and his persuasive ability is uncommon.

As he states earlier in this editorial column, he will commune with his readers through a personal column. Since this will give more latitude to utilize his wry humor, I look forward to receiving, reading and using it in future editions. Working as a subordinate to an editor of his stature has been a sincere priviledge. Attempting to fill the void his retirement will leave will be a monumental task.

Politics Always Uncertain

Mercer Cross, Minneapolis Tribune staff writer, thinks Congressman Odin Langen will be hard to beat in the next election. He bases his conclusion on the assumption that the Republican party in the enlarged 7th district is better organized and that the D. F. L. party is still divided.

We of course hope he is right. Langen has enough seniority to hold strong committee assignments. He is a man of integrity and he tends to business. To replace him now would not be in the best interests of the district. But Langen and his friends should not be encouraged to believe that his reelection is a certainty. Confidence is good but overconfidence can be dangerous.

Good Example

According to the Land O'Lakes News turkey growers in the nation this year produced 92.7 million turkeys this year, which is about the same number as last year. In the year 1961 the total was 108.1 million birds, the bumper crop that brought less money and heavy losses to all growers.

The interesting thing about this item is the fact that the production adjustment back to a more realistic market need was accomplished by the industry itself, without government controls or subsidies.

The industry is to be commended for this example of good management in production control and also for setting a good example for other segments of agriculture that could and should rely more on self-help and less on government assistance.

Along this line the following observations by Charles B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation are interesting:

"For the first time in 30 years, many farmers are shifting their interest from Government farm programs and are looking to their own resources as a means of improving farm family income. Most farmers now know that it is impossible to legislate prosperity into agriculture. They realize that it is not politically feasible for Congress to enact effective production controls. They know that farm family income is the result of price times volume, minus costs. Legislation to reduce production reduces the volume that can be sold by the individual farmer, increases unit costs and reduces farm income. . . .

"During the few months since the wheat referendum, we have experienced an awakening interest in exploring the possibilities of improved marketing and bargaining programs of farm products through non-Governmental means and also increased interest in farm record-keeping projects. Many farmers now know that better farm income can be earned by producing what consumers want—not what some politician or Government planner hinks they should want.'

Regents Should Resign

The Regents of the University of Minnesota have issued a lengthy statement in support of the principles of "academic freedom" in the operation of a public school such as the one for which they are responsible. The argument started following the publication in the Minnesota Daily, the University's newspaper, a letter writen by Prof. Mulbord Q. Sibley, of the University's political science department, that was understandably controversial. In this letter, among other things, Prof. Sibley expressed the following opinions.

"I should like to see on the campus one or two Communist professors, a student Communist Club, a chapter of the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism, a Society for the Promotion of Free Love, A League for Overthrow of Government by Jeffersonian Violence, and anti-Automation League and perhaps, a Nudist Club. No university should be without individuals and groups like these."

The Minnesota Daily has of course been criticized for giving space to such rot. But the disturbing thing about this incident is the fact that the Regents of the University have defended the publication as a proper demonstration of academic freedom. The members of the Board of Regents have done themselves and the state a great disservice by giving approval to this statement by a faculty member. Our reaction is that they all should resign. We agree completely with the following reaction of John Weber, editor of the Murray County Herald:

"This is extremism to the nth degree. Perhaps it sounds good in the interests of academic freedom—but to us it sounds disastrous in the interests of the nations' future.

"If Sibley's suggestions were to be brought about our entire educational system would have to be reorganized. Personally, this writer would not object to his sons studying Communism — as long as he knew what he was studying, as long as he was impartially presented with both sides of the picture, and as long as he had reached the age of reason.

"Some youngsters, when they first set foot on the University campus, are perfectly mature and able to investigate the subjects suggested by Sibley on a mature and impartial basis. Others are mere children — children who could be easily led into situations that would result in the ruin of a lifetime.

Interesting Opinions . . .

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

Accepting some roast turkey, but refusing the stuffing, the little boy explained: "I don't like to eat it and I don't know why the turkeys eat it, either."

Eveleth Six Bows to Prowler Team 2 to 0

With goalie David (Nobby) Erickson turning in a shutout performance in the nets, and with the two forward lines skating well and playing solid positional hockey, coach George Schlieff's Prowlers defeated the Eveleth Golden Bears, 2 to 0, on Friday night in the opening game of the Holiday tournament being played at Roseau. In the second game on the evening's program, coach Oscar Almquist's Roseau Rams defeated the Alexander Ramsey team of St. Paul, 5 to 2.

In play on Saturday night, the Prowlers were to meet the Alexander Ramsey squad at 7:30 p. m.; and the Eveleth Golden Bears will play the Roseau Rams.

In Friday night's opener, the Prowlers moved into a 1 to 0 lead late in the first period when Jerry Forsberg banged a shot past goalie Tom Prinkkila and into the west net at the 11:27 mark.

The Prowlers gained some valuable game "insurance" in the opening minutes of the second period when John Weigelt, from in close, slapped a rebound shot into the net. Don Mathieu, who along with linemates Elroy Frolland and John Weigelt, played a strong game for the locals, had taken a shot at the goal.

Erickson well-earned his shutout as the youthful Eveleth club, with only three seniors on the squad, had twenty-two shots on goal. The Prowlers had fourteen shots that were kicked out by the Eveleth goalie.

Bonus Is Paid for Billboard Control

New York Is Fourth State to Get Payment from U.S.

New York became the fourth state recently to receive an initial bonus payment for controlling outdoor advertising adjacent to the Interstate highway system.

Othr states receiving bonus payments are Kentucky, Virginia and Maine. Sixteen others have entered into agreement with U. S. Bureau of Public Roads.

The bonus represents one-half of one percent of the cost of constructing the rural portions of the Interstate system, and is offered as an incentive by Congress to states which will restrict display signs along the Interstate.

The agreement to which the states enter with the BPR provides for limiting displays to on-premise signs advertising activities being conducted at a place within 12 miles from where the displays are located. Informational signs authorized by law and informational signs in the interest of the traveling public are also permitted.

The 16 other states that have billboard controll agreements with the BPR are Connecticut, Delaware, Hawaii, Maryland, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pensylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

Legislation was recently enacted by Congress giving other states, which have not yet acted, until July 1, 1965 to take advantage of the bonus offer.

Stillwater Trims Local Quint 71-38

Prowlers Were to Face North St. Paul Saturday

The Stillwater Ponies, exhibiting a well-balanced scoring attack, defeated the basketball Prowlers, 71 to 38, in a game played at Stillwater on Friday night. Saturday the Prowlers were scheduled to meet the North St. Paul Polars at North St. Paul.

The Stillwater squad, shooting at better than fifty per cent from the field in the first half, hitting on seventeen field goals in thirty-two tries, gained a commanding 36 to 17 lead in the first half of play. And the Ponies maintained that advantage throughout the second period.

Rich Nelson, with 14 points, led the Prowler scorers and shared the game's high point honors with Stillwater's Mike Campbell, who notched six field goals and a pair of free throws. The Prowlers' Bob Olson tallied nine points to earn runner-up scoring honors for coach Jack Junker's squad.

Doctors Advise on Care of Frostbite

Don't Rub Affected Part with Snow, Medics State

A Saint Bernard coming to the rescue with a cask around his neck is not the answer to frostbite, neither is rubbing the affected part with ice or snow, says the Minnesota State Medical Association.

Those commonly held notions about first aid for frostbite are useless. Instead, it is better to administer a hot, nonalcoholic liquid such as coffee, and thaw the tissue as soon as possible. Rubbing with ice or snow only delays thawing and increases the chance of gangrene.

The first signs of frostbite are a "pins and needles" prickly feeling and then numbness. The affected part is first white or gray. It turns bright pink just before frostbite develops. The victim feels cold and usually is not aware of the frostbite. When the affected area is warmed, it becomes red and swollen, and large blisters may develop. Usually it is best not to open blisters.

It's important to warm the frozen part rapidly. This can be done best by getting the victim indoors into a warm room and immersing the part in lukewarm—not hot—water. A warm wet towel can also be applied. Lacking heated water, use warm blankets.

Treat the frozen part gently and let circulation reestablish itself naturally. Don't massage. When the part is warmed, dry it gently and encourage the victim to exercise fingers and toes. Don't use hot water, hot water bottles or heat lamps over the area.

Until the victim can be moved inside, cover the frostbitten part with a warm hand or woolen material. If fingers are frostbitten, have the victim hold his hand in his armpit, next to his body.

READY for a pass in front of the goal in the Thieves and Old-Timers hockey game Wednesday night is Marv Jorde of the Old-Timers squad. The former Prowler and University of Minnesota player, an all-state high school center in 1954, slapped in four goals for the victorious Old-Timers, including a three-goal hat trick in the first period. Jorde is currently coaching at St. Paul Park.

SHOWING some of the old form which made him an all-state high school goalie in 1954, Jack Hoppe makes a gloved hand save of a shot in this action photo taken in the game between the Thieves and Old-Timers Wednesday night. Hoppe came out of the nets to make the stop as Tony Poole of the Thieves skates in with high hopes of a rebound shot. Hoppe had a busy night in the goal for the Old-Timers but his team outlasted the Thieves 9-8.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

It's An Attraction

It is unfortunate that the Thieves and Old Timers hockey game had to be played on Christmas night. The game had been slated for Thursday, but due to the fact that several of the Old Timers are in highschool coaching ranks, Marv Jorde for one, and these boys had to return to their coaching duties on Thursday, the game was pushed ahead to Christmas night.

Their game has become quite an attraction, and not only for the senior hockey fans, but for the players as well. Many of the Old Timers make it a point to be here for the game. It surely brings back pleasant hockey memories to see such "boys" as Swede Lund, Sid Vrna, Mike Hajostek, and others performing on the Arena ice. And, except for Paul Bedard, who is a Canadian "transplant," the oldest Old Timer in action was Swede Lund.

Swede, who is teaching at Devils Lake, was a member of the 1945 Prowlers, the first year that hockey was recognized as a major sport by the State High School League. Swede was a freshman that year. In 1947 he, along with Marlow Davidson, was a co-captain of the Prowlers football team; and later in the season he was elected captain of the Prowlers hockey squad. Swede played his college hockey at North Dakota U.

On Christmas day, Swede joined Joey Poole and Marv Jorde to form a potent scoring line for the Old Timers. Poole was a former North Dakota U player, too, and the smooth-skating center gained All-American honors as a Sioux. And Jorde, who played his college hockey with John Mariucci's Minnesota Gophers, played right wing for the Old Timers, and it marked the first time that Joey and Marv had been hockey line-mates.

The Old Timers, by a 9 to 8 score defeated the Thieves, but it must be mentioned that the Thieves were without the service of Jerry Westby and Bob Ahles, a pair of experienced defensemen.

Incidentally, the Thieves will meet coach Cliff (Fido) Purpur's Grand Forks Warriors here on Sunday. The locals had been billed to meet the Crookston Pirates, but changes in the schedule has moved the Warriors into the Arena against the Theives. And this should be an entertaining affair, with Purpur's squad being anxious to reverse that 8 to 4 loss they absorbed from the Theives a couple of weeks ago.

Birch Point Action

A number of the local hook-and-line anglers have been fishing the Birch Point waters of Lake Of The Woods, and they all report having success in catching walleyed pike.

Vern Nelson and Web Maves have installed their fish house up there, and this week there will be a couple more houses put out on the ice at Birch Point. Vern and Web inaugurated the season by making a limit catch, and included in the string were a couple of five pounders.

On Christmas, Lloyd Sambelson, Don Harbott, and Earl Arnold fished the area, and this trio, too, reported good luck. Lloyd, Don, and Earl, though, did not fish from a dark house. They braved the elements, and with the stiff breeze that was sweeping the lake, the elements were rough enough. They used the hook-and-line method of angling, with a plain hook, baited with a minnow, being attached to a 20-pound monofilament line. And even with this 20-pound test line, Sam lost a walleyed pike that he estimated would have weighed in at more than ten pounds.

Oh yes, just a note to local fishermen who plan on doing some fishing in Minnesota waters, the 1963 fishing licenses expire as of New Years Eve. After the first of the year a 1964 license is a "must". Manitoba gives the anglers a bit more leeway as the province's license, the 1963 license, is valid until March.

The First Bonspiel Winners

It was the Reuben Jorde rink that finally put the stoppers on the winning streak of the "kid" rink of Wayne Liden, when, in a 'spiel finals last week, Jorde scored a win.

The young Liden rink with Jimmy Amundsgaard, Ken Ose, and Dave Halvorson as rinkmates, had made a shambles of the bonspiel hopes of a number of the club's "name" rinks. Among some of the rinks that were beaten by the youngsters were the Wally Tunberg rink, the Jim Muzzy Rink, and the Ken Liden rink.

Activity at the Fair Grounds curling arena will be at a bee-hive pace following the New Year. Several leagues will be in competition and then of course there will be the usual "challenge" matches. And all this activity leads up the year's curling feature, the States-Dominion bonspiel. Entries for the States-Dominion 'spiel are already begining to arrive.

'U' M. Horticulturist Offers Suggestions

The plants you received for Christmas will decorate your home for a long time if you satisfy their needs for light, moisture and the proper temperature.

Your poinsettia plant is especially fussy about temperature; in fact, it's as sensitive to drafts as any human being. Because it is a tropical plant, it likes to be in a room that's between 70 and 75 degrees F. Temperatures below 60 degrees F. or above 75 degrees F. will shorten the life of the blooms. Setting it near a window at night, near the door or a cold or hot air register will mean its quick demise.

C. G. Hard, extension horticulturist at the University of Minnesota, says that poinsettias thrive best if kept in bright light, preferably sunlight, during the day. Keep the soil in the pot moist, using water of room temperature. If the plant is allowed to wilt, the leaves will turn yellow and drop.

Bright light and sufficient moisture are also requirements of other flowering plants of the Christmas season, Hard says.

DECKED OUT in new coats of paint with appropriate signs, the two 4-H club buildings at the Pennington county fairgrounds are a tribute to interested workers and an enterprising club. Julian Lendobeja, adult leader from the Kratka 4-H club, painted the buildings and erected the signs. Club members working on the sign project were Wayne Ptacek, Peter Lendobeja and Paul Wold with assistance from Greg Kauppila, Greg Gustafson, David Wold and Gordon Kauppila. Benhard Wold, shop project leader in the Lucky Four club, supervised the project. Signs consist of two large clovers and lettering, all made of exterior plywood and painted green. Members working on the project will receive credit on their juni or leadership and shop records, according to Miss Carolyn Offerdahl, county home agent.

Marshall-Beltrami Soil Conservation Work Progresses

Marshall-Beltrami Soil Conservation district added 16 new cooperators during the past year for a total of 297 and completed 15 basic farm plans for a total of 146. Statistics on the operation of the district are included in the annual report prepared by Robert Kloubec of Thief River Falls, work unit conservationist for the district.

A total of 7,380 acres were soils surveyed during the calendar year of 1963 with a total of 144,146 acres now having been surveyed. Six acres of wildlife area treatment were added to make the total of that land use now 27,246 acres.

Other practices carried out in the district this year include the following: rotation grazing, 234 acres; conservation cropping system, 2,097 acres; crop residue use, 1,880 acres; pasture planting, 849 acres; tree planting, 44 acres; farmstead windbreaks, 11 acres; pond construction, 12 ponds; surface field ditches, 65 miles; mains and laterals, 14 miles; ACP referrals processed, 144; water control structures, six; and wildlife preservation, 243 acres.

Listed as the three outstanding accomplishments of the year in the district were the following:

(1) Crop variety and fertilizer plot stablished on the Robert Prestebak farm with plots labeled so farmers could see results during the year. A discussion was held at the plot in July with members of the Marshall county extension staff present.

(2) Fifty-five acres of trees planted by district cooperators set a record for most trees planted in any one year.

(3) The board went on a tour of the district in October and selected Bertha Landsrud and son Alvin as the outstanding conservation farmers of the year.

Among other accomplishments was the clearing of the Mud river of brush and trees to help alleviate flooding.

Members of the board of supervisors include Lyndon Magnuson, Grygla, chairman; Ole Prestbak, Goodridge, vice chairman; Oliver Howland, Grygla, secretary; Peter Aune, Gatzke, treasurer; and Grant Satre, Grygla, elected last year as supervisor. Ralph Rundell is conservation technician with Lawrence Neuschwander and Robert Verboot as district aides.

Skare To Succeed Anderson as Red Lake County Agent

Former Soils Agent In West Otter Tail County Begins Work January 20

Elmo L. Skare, formerly extension soils agent in West Otter Tail county, has been named agricultural agent in Red Lake county, beginning January 20. Skare replaces Abel Anderson, who recently resigned.

Skare's appointment was announced this week by Robert Larson, chairman of the Red Lake county extension committee, and Howard Newell, northwest district extension supervisor for the University of Minnesota.

Skare has been at Fergus Falls in West Otter Tail county as soils agent since December of 1959. In addition to his efforts in soil improvement, Skare was active in other areas of agricultural extension, including youth activities. He coached a 4-H dairy judging team that took part in the Red River Valley Winter shows at Crookston.

Before taking the extension post at Fergus Falls, Skare was a soil conservation service worker here for three years.

Skare grew up in Clearwater county, was a 1956 recipient of the Peavy-Van Duesen-Harrington award and received the Luverne Noyes scholarship for college work. He studied at the state college in Bemidji and at North Dakota State University, where he received his B. S. degree in 1957. He is married and has four children.

Former Resident Jumps from Car To Ecape Train

Recorded in the Windom newspaper recently was a narrow escape from death by Mrs. Dick Jeffrey of that city. She is the former Pauline Ulshafer, daughter of Albert Ulshafer of Thief River Falls.

As she was driving down an icy hill, she noticed an approaching train and applied the brakes on the station wagon she was driving. Application of the brakes sent the car skidding toward the tracks.

As the car slid closer to the train, she opened the door and jumped from the moving car, sprawling on the icy street so near the tracks she felt a current of air from the train as it passed. The car crossed the tracks ahead of the train, hit the fender of a parked car and continued down the street before a bystander jumped in and stopped it as it rolled up on a sidewalk.

Mrs. Jeffrey retrieved her car, continued driving it until she found her husband who took her home, and then went into shock. She suffered no serious injuries.

Homer McCoy Makes Living Doing What He Likes Best

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

"After my many mis-spent years in hunting and fishing, I was finally able to make them pay off." This statement was made by Homer McCoy, son of the late Dr. J. E. McCoy and step-son of Mrs. Julia McCoy of Thief River Falls, who is a writer for Walt Disney studios in Hollywood, Calif.

Homer's father came to Thief River Falls in 1936 to practice medicine—a profession which he followed until his death in September of 1950. While Homer can't logically consider Thief River Falls as home, he does maintain a strong attraction for this community and states that "Minnesota is still the number one state in the nation".

It was in 1959, after an extended trip to look after business interests in Minnesota, that Homer joined the Disney staff at ". Uncle Walt's mouse factory". Since that time he has written scripts for several full-length wildlife pictures and a number of television programs.

One of his efforts, a two-hour, two-part television show entitled, 'Sancho, the Homing Steer", was nominated by the Writer's Build of America for the best-written

EDITOR of the shotgun section of Guns & Ammo magazine, Homer McCoy visited in Thief River Falls last week. Son of the late Dr. J. E. McCoy, who practiced medicine in Thief River Falls until his death in 1950, Homer is also a script writer for Walt Disney studios in Hollywood, Calif. His script writing talents have been used on a number of locally-familiar television programs.

WINTER fishing on the rivers in Thief River Falls seem to be more popular than ever this year, and one of the reasons for the increased interest is shown above. Clifford Sater of Thief River Falls, angling from a darkhouse near Squaw Point on the Thief River, captured this 21½-pound northern on Tuesday. Sater was using a minnow for bait when the big fish hit about 12:30 p.m. Use of a 50-pound test line enabled him to land the fish in a few minutes.

Maruska, Skaar Discuss Actions Of Legislature

Senator, Representative Speak Monday Noon at Meeting of Rotary Club

Sen. Harveydale Maruska of Angus and Rep. Andrew Skaar of Thief River Falls, serving this area in the Minnesota legislature, were guest speakers Monday at the noon meeting of the Thief River Falls Rotary club.

Senator Maruska concentrated his discussion on the highway situation, stating that northwestern Minnesota is being short-changed in the state's highway program. He particularly cited Highway 2 as the most heavily traveled freight highway in the state and noted that very little work is planned on that highway.

Reason for the charge, Maruska said, was that the state is using its highway funds to take advantage of federal grants for the interstate highway program in the metropolitan area and southern Minnesota. He said the one cent additional tax on gasoline, adopted at the last session, was sponsored primarily by rural legislators to assure funds for work on rural roads.

Figures presented by Maruska indicated that the Bemidji district has been allocated $8,101,000 for the next biennium—lowest of any district in the state. Other budgets include Duluth, $40 million; Brainerd, $20 million; Detroit Lakes, $27 million; Minneapolis $72 million; Rochester, $44 million; Mankato, $19 million; Willmar, $9 million; and St. Paul, $72 million.

Plans in the Bemidji district call for only 37 miles of concrete surfacing and 127 miles of grading and bituminous surfacing, the senator said. He added that Pennington county now receives some $226,000 for maintenance and construction of county state aid highways.

Rep. Skaar briefly discussed the education bill, noting the provision made for establishment of junior colleges, and stated that the bill also premitted the state to take advantage of any federal aids that might be forthcoming in the future. He said the budget for education had been increased by 13 per cent or $48 million during the session.

Calling attention to state appropriations, Rep. Skaar also noted that welfare ranks number one in the number of state employees. In second place is the highway department with education ranking 11th and agriculture 13th.

HAPPY HOMEMAKING

PENNINGTON COUNTY HOME AGENT

Hi

Here's a delicious recipe for sunflower cookies that I got from Mrs. Harland Knutson. You may wish to try them. They are good!

Two-thirds cup white sugar
Two-thirds cup brown sugar
1 cup shortening
2 eggs
1 teaspoon hot water
1½ cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups quick oatmeal
1½ cups sunflower meats
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream the shortening and add the sugar gradually. Add one egg at a time and cream after each addition. Add the hot water and vanilla to the creamed mixture. Add the dry ingredients. Drop by teaspoons on a greased cookie sheet. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes.

Are you wondering when to wear and when to not wear gloves? Gloves are the mark of a well-groomed lady, and like all social graces, glove wearing has its own etiquette. Tradition and common sense are combined to give us the basic "Do's" and "Don'ts" for when and when not to wear them. I will pass on the following suggestions to you:

Do wear gloves while you are shopping or driving. Wear gloves to show respect in a place of worship and keep them on throughout the service.

Do "go gloved" to all luncheons and dinner parties. If the event is informal, leave your gloves with your coat when you arrive. Keep them on for formal occasions — while dancing or going through a reception line. But do remove them as soon as you sit down at the table.

Do not eat with your gloves on. Wearing them while applying make-up or playing cards is not only improper, but soils them quickly. Avoid wearing jewelry over gloves, with the possible exception of bracelets.

Do not carry your gloves. They are as essential to your costume as a skirt zipper and should be carefully co-ordinated.

The care of your gloves is important. Tugging to get a glove off or on will split the seams. Work it first over your fingers, then over the thumb. To remove a leather glove, turn the wrong side half-way back over the hand. A glove should always be smoothed flat when not worn. This practice applies to gloves in your lap as well as those in drawers. Storing them in the plastic bags they came in reduces wearing and washing.

Never store soiled gloves. Different cleaning methods are advised for the many fabrics of which they are made. Check directions for cleaning before you buy.

Homemakers Plan To Make Brochure Of Interest Items

Local Points of Interest To Be Included; Council Members Will Cooperate

Organization of local items of interest into an informational brochure has been undertaken as a project by Pennington County homemakers, according to Miss Carolyn Offerdahl, county home agent. A planning session for the booklet was held Monday afternoon at the county courthouse in Thief River Falls.

Attending the session was Larry Simonson, extension specialist, who told the group about similar projects undertaken in other areas. It is expected that the booklet will be a preliminary phase of forming an area tourist brochure for the Thief River Falls territory.

Homemakers attending expressed an interest in having a booklet of available attractions where they could take out-of-state company for visits of interest without spending much additional time traveling. They believed that a tourism booklet could be developed from the information to be compiled.

In a letter being mailed by the extension office to home councilors of Pennington county homemakers clubs, Miss Offerdahl is asking that club members list attractions they would like to see included in the brochure. Councilors will bring these lists to the home council meeting in February to assist in compiling the brochure.

Included in the booklet will be various types of recreation available, industries, diversified farming enterprises, unusual machinery hobbies and hobbyists, crafts and miscellaneous attractions which local residents take for granted.

Homemakers attending the session were Mrs. Ernest Swanson, Mrs. Edgar Naplin, Mrs. Oscar Houske, Mrs. Wilbur Hallstrom and Mrs. William Kruse.

Further information will be presented on the brochure as information is compiled by the county home council.

Negro Leader Named 'Man of Year' by Time

The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. a leader in the Negro drive for civil rights, has been named Man of the Year by Time magazine. He is the first Negro to win the award, begun 37 years ago. The news magazine said King "has made himself the unchallenged voice of the Negro people—and the disquieting conscience of the whites."

Area's Top Ten News Stories Are Selected

Selection of the area's top 10 news stories for 1963 was completed this week by the Times editorial staff. Taken into consideration were overall reader interest, impact of news on the public or relative importance to this area. State and national events, such as the gubernatorial recount and the Presidential assassination, were discounted in considering local stories.

Rated as number one was the over-all school situation in the Thief River Falls district. A twice-defeated bond issue was passed by the voters in March; bonds totaling $1,495,000 were sold at 3.43 per cent; three board members were reelected by large margins in the school election; school enrollment increased by 85 pupils over 1962 on opening day to 2,810; and building contracts were let in October for a total of $1,168,725 or $140,265 below the architect's estimate.

Second place in the balloting was given to the record building construction of $3,100,000 for which permits were issued by the city of Thief River Falls. This was far greater than any previous year and included several large projects.

In third place was the community effort put into the Pennington county fair. Under a new managing organization, the county fair had its grounds improved by volunteer labor and, although hurt by rain on the final day, had good support for a four-day run.

Given fourth place were a number of tragic traffic accidents, headed by a two-car crash on December 1 in which three Thief River Falls teenagers were killed. A number of other traffic fatalities were noted in Pennington county and the surrounding area.

In fifth place was the biennial convention of the Northern Minnesota Education association which attracted 1,500 educators to this city. Speakers were Dean Berkeley, Adolph Rupp and Bennett Cerf, all nationally-known figures.

Drownings ranked in sixth place in the voting. A four-day search was made for the body of Roger Smaky who drowned in the river near St. Hilaire; Carol Forfang of Hallock drowned at the Tindolph park pool, touching off a campaign for a new swimming pool; and Robert Steitz drowned in a gravel pit. The three drownings occurred in a two-week period.

Seventh place was awarded to the city election in which four new members were elected to the seven-member city council. The election was notable for the lack of interest shown with only two contests on the total ballot.

In eighth place was the airport improvement project planning for which the Federal Aviation agency had indicated participation of $119,650 of the $212,200 project.

In ninth place was the perfect weather conditions which prevailed throughout the area, permitting farmers to harvest a good crop after two bad years due to drought and excessive moisture. The growing season was near perfect and the harvest season was almost entirely free of rainfall.

Tenth place was given to the city street improvement project, for which $271,000 was expended in 1963 for curb and gutter, sewer and bituminous surfacing as part of a two-year program.

In Retrospect

—BY BILL DAHLQUIST—

For whatever excellence the Times may have achieved as a community newspaper, most of the credit must go to two old-timers on the reporting staff. Norman Holen as news editor, now in semi-retirement, and Huck Olson as sports editor, have been tops in their respective fields.

Turning to Norm Holen's record first, he joined the Times staff in 1930, bringing with him an interesting writing and reporting background. A childhood injury had kept him out of school several years but he completed his high school course in three years at what was known as Minnesota College in Minneapolis. It was at this church-supported boarding school that he did his first reporting for the school paper, of which he later became editor.

At the University of Minnesota his record followed the same pattern and he was elected editor of the Minnesota Daily for the school year 1916-17, a sizable job as a sideline while acquiring an education. Following graduation he came to Thief River Falls where he was employed for a period of two years in his uncle's bank. In 1921 he moved to his home town of Argyle where he assisted his father in his interests there and as another sideline operation he became editor of the Argyle Banner. In this capacity he contributed a column in which he combined wisdom with wise-cracks much the same as his present personal column. At that time the Literary Digest carried as a regular feature a page of short quotations borrowed from the press of the nation. On this "Topics in Brief" page, The Argyle Banner was quoted quite regularly.

A vacancy occurred in 1930 and Norm was invited to join the Times staff. We are sure his wife Grace, who had been Grace Wilson of Thief River Falls, encouraged him to accept the invitation and for the Times the news problem was solved for a period of many years.

Week in and week out he has been grinding out great gobs of good copy and the Times has never been in trouble because of slipshod reporting as long as Norm has been at the desk. He has definite convictions of his own and occasionally he does a little needling in his own column. But he has kept his own opinions out of the news he has reported and edited. Under his direction all groups and factions have been given fair treatment in the news columns of the Times.

There was a time when most cities of the size of Thief River Fals or larger, had several newspapers. Now there are few small or medium sized cities that have more than one newspaper, and the publishers of newspapers in a one-newspaper town generally recognize their greater responsibility in a fair and impartial presentation of the facts of the events and activities that are of public interest.

Most readers, I believe, find the opinions of reporters and editors interesting provided they are presented as opinions. The Times has encouraged all reporters to express their views in their own opinion columns. This makes it easier for them to keep their own views out of what they report. And in this spirit, speaking for myself, I am satisfied that Norm Holen has done an excellent job in handling his news responsibilities, in the best interests of both the Times and the community.

Homer McCoy Is Wildlife Writer At Disney Studio

television show of 1962. It finished second in the final balloting. He has also written scripts for such television programs as "Maverick", "Lassie", "Charlie Chan" and "Death Valley Days" and a number of others.

In addition to his work with Walt Disney, Homer finds the time to be shotgun editor for Guns & Ammo magazine, a monthly publication well accepted by shooting enthusiasts throughout the United States and Canada. The magazine is available regularly at Thief River Falls news stands.

Following graduation from the University of Minnesota in the 1930's, Homer went to work for the Associated Press in Chicago and New York. After four years of work on the wire service, he began free-lance writing and had a number of fiction stories and feature articles published in the New Yorker, Colliers, Esquire and a number of outdoor publications.

Migrates to Hollywood

With an adventuresome spirit, he then took his writing talent to Hollywood where he began script writing for Hal Roach and Universal pictures, doing much of the writing for Hugh Herbert comedies. His career was interrupted by World War II when he spent the period from January of 1942 to December of 1946 as a naval gunnery officer, seeing considerable service in the Pacific theater of operations.

After the war he returned to Hollywood and his writing career. The rise of television provided additional opportunities for script writing—a highly specialized field for which there is really no formal training offered. Scripts contain not only the narrative or dialogue but also the directions to actors, stage movements and instructions to the director.

Change in Movies

There has been a great transition in making of wildlife movies, McCoy said. Disney's first full-length films, including "The Living Desert" and "Beaver Valley," were assembled from film footage taken over a period of time and the script was written to conform with the film. In present films, the script is written first to provide the story, and the photography is then done to fill the requirements of the script.

"I have finished a half dozen pictures which will likely be released during the coming year," McCoy stated in his Times interview. "I just finished a picture on the life story of a wolverine." The wolverine is said to be among the most wary and intelligent of all North American animals.

Work with a wildlife studio and a firearms magazine, which includes testing of guns under range and field conditions, comes as close to perfection for a man of his interests as any occupation could. He enjoys the call of hunting and plans to be back in Minnesota during the grouse, waterfowl and pheasant seasons next fall.

Social Security Man Tells Farmers How to Qualify for Payment

Self-employed farmers are virtually assured social security protection for themselves and their dependents by a special provision in the social security law according to Walter D. Kistler, social security district manager at Grand Forks, and Mr. Sateren, district director of Internal Revenue.

Kistler stated that farm owners and operators who have a gross income as little as $600 a year can get social security credit by using an optional method for figuring their net annual earnings.

"Now, before filing annual federal income tax returns," said Mr. Sateren, "is a good time for farm owners and operators to familiarize themselves with the optional method for figuring earnings in years when the profit is low. This is time well-spent."

Sateren summarized the optional provision as follows:

(1) If a farmer's gross income is at least $600, but less than $1800, he has the option of counting either his actual net or two-thirds of his gross farm income for social security credit.

(2) If the gross farm income is more than $1800 and net farm earnings are less than $1200, a farmer may use either his actual net earnings or $1200; if a farmer's gross income exceeds $1800 and net farm earnings are $1200 or more, he must use the actual amount of his net earnings.

Mr. Kistler said that the option enables farmers with low incomes to obtain credit toward social security retirement and disability benefits as well as survivor benefits for their families in the event of untimely death. He emphasized, however, that a farmer must declare net earnings of at least $400 (whether the actual net earnings or the optional method is used) to get social security credit for the year.

Information regarding taxes and tax return forms can be obtained at the Internal Revenue Service Office at Grand Forks. Questions about old-age, survivors, or disability insurance should be taken up with the social security office at Grand Forks.

Police Department Investigates Six Traffic Mishaps

$1,240 Estimated Damage Results from Crashes; Fish Houses Vandalized

Several traffic accidents were investigated by the Thief River Falls police department during the past several days. Two of the mishaps were the result of cars attempting to avoid hitting cars turning in front of them and two were of the hit and run variety.

During Sunday night a car owned by Diane Reed, city, was parked on the east side of the street in the 700 block of Duluth av. N. when struck by an unknown vehicle. About $50 damage was done to the Reed car and the case in under investigation.

A second hit and run accident occured during the morning of January 1 when a pickup truck owned by Noral Lalvedt, Rugby, N. D., was parked at 931 Main av. N. and struck by an unknown vehicle traveling north on Main. About $190 damage was done to the truck with the case under investigation.

At about 1 p. m. on Monday a car driven north on Horace avenue by Faye Fuller, city, was struck by a car driven by Hillard Koop, rt. 5, TRF. The Koop car was traveling south on Horace avenue and turned out to avoid hitting a car driven by Melvin Stene, city, and making a left turn in front of the Koop car. Damage was estimated at $175 to each of the Koop and Fuller cars.

On Tuesday at 11:05 a. m. a car driven by Joy Gillespie, city, was traveling east on Eighth street and turned into the left lane to avoid striking a car driven by Joseph Peterson, rt. 2, Trail, which was making a left turn. The Gillespie car collided with a car driven west on Eighth street by Joel Rosengren, rt. 5, TRF, causing an estimated $250 damage to the Rosengren car and $200 to the Gillespie vehicle.

At about 9 p. m. on Tuesday, a car driven east on Third street by Myrtle Olson, city, was struck from the rear by a car driven by Clyde Davis, city. About $200 damage was done to the Davis car and none to the Olson vehicle.

The police department is also investigating the vandalism of five darkhouses located on the Red Lake river near the Horseshoe in Thief River Falls. Several items of fishing and heating equipment were stolen and some damage done to the houses.

Prowler Sextet Trips Crookston

The hockey Prowlers, after losing a 2 to 0 game to the Alexander Ramsey team at Roseau on Saturday night, coach George Schlieff's squad moved back into the win column on Monday night by scoring a hard-earned 3 to 1 victory over coach Bob Strand's Crookston Central Pirates. The game, which was played at Crookston, was a Region Eight conference tilt. On Saturday, Jan. 4, the Prowlers will play a doubleheader. At 6:30 p. m. the locals will meet the Indus squad; and at 8 p. m. the Prowlers will play the Williams Wolves.

On Saturday night, at Roseau in Holiday tournament play, it was a big and veteran (ten of the Ramsey squad members are seniors) Alexander Ramsey team that outlasted the Prowlers to score a pair of goals in the third period to record a 2 to 0 win. The Roseau Rams defeated the Eveleth Golden Bears, 3 to 1, to become the tournament's lone undefeated team.

On Monday night, in a Region Eight conference game that became quite rugged in its later stages, the Prowlers scored a 3 to 1 victory over coach Strand's strong Crookston Central club.

John Weigelt's goal, into the north net from close in at the 3:21 mark of the first period, gave the Prowlers a 1 to 0 lead that they held until the opening minute of the second period when the Pirate's Jim Brolsma, getting a centering-out pass from Chris Myrold, beat Dave Erickson to knot the score.

That 1 to 1 score was broken by Dennis Sullivan at the 3:32 mark of the second period when his backhanded shot, from 15 feet out, found the net.

And in the third period, which was marred by heavy checking by both clubs, the Prowlers added a goal when Don Mathieu and Elroy Froiland, the locals' co-captains, combined for a "picture" score. Mathieu carried the puck from center ice and into the Crookston zone, and, after feinting the lone defenseman into making a move, Don flipped a pass to Froiland, and the sturdy left winger beat goalie Vind with a shot to the far corner.

Thieves Rally to Tip G. F. Warriors

The senior hockey Thieves, after trailing by a 3 to 2 score at the end of the first period, and held to a 4 to 4 draw at the end of the second period, erupted for five goals in the third period to defeat the Grand Forks Warriors in a Northwest Hockey league game played on the Arena ice here Sunday afternoon.

The Thieves will travel to Crookston on Sunday afternoon for a 2:30 p. m. game against coach Bud Salem's Pirates. And on Wednesday night, Jan. 8, the Crookston Pirates will play a return game, meeting the Thieves in an 8:00 p. m. game on the Arena rink.

In Sunday afternoon's league tilt here, coach Cliff Purpur's Grand Forks Warriors, with Tom Bossaletti scoring a pair of goals and veteran Ron Geatz adding another, gained a well-earned 3 to 2 lead over the Thieves in the first period. Eddie Holmes and Dale Wennberg notched the local's first period tallies.

With the Thieves scoring a pair of goals, by DelRay Offerdahl and Holmes in the second period, and with Jerry McCarty scoring for the Warriors, the game entered the final twenty minutes of play in a 4-all knot.

The game did not remain in the scoring deadlock very long as in the first minute of the final period the Thieves' Jerry Westby, with some deft stickwork and elusive skating, came into beat goalie Greenwood at the 0:30 mark. Chip Strand and Wennberg, in assisting Westby to maneuver thru the defense by taking and returning a pair of passes, gained assists on the goal. Less than two minutes later, at the 2:05 mark, Westby, again showing fine rushing ability, scored to give the Thieves a 6 to 4 lead. A pair of goals by Larry Poole and singleton by Wennberg boosted the Thieves' game score to 9 to 5.

WINNER by two lengths in his second start at Turf Paradise at Phoenix, Ariz., was Little Tea Aera, a five-year-old gelding owned by A. F. Holzknecht of Thief River Falls. In the race run on December 21, Little Tea Aera covered the six furlongs in 1:11.3 to beat No Talk and Khals Charm. The finish of the race is shown in the above photo. Charles Steeck was the jockey in the race with C. D. Irion as trainer. In his first race at Phoenix, Little Tea Aera finished in third position. He paid $20 on a $2 bet in the second race and would have paid $213 on a $2 bet in his first running.

CROWDED conditions prevailed in front of the Eveleth Bears' net in the first period of the hockey game played at Roseau on Friday night as the Prowler line of Dennis Sullivan (10), Paunl Peterson (15), and Buzz Olson (16) test the Bears' goalie Tom Prinkkila. The Prowlers defeated the Bears, 2 to 0, but did not score in this instance as Prinkkila succeeded in "freezing" the puck.

ANXIOUS moments for Prowler goalie Dave Erickson as a loose puck bounces around in front of the net during the Alexander Ramsey vs. Prowlers game at Roseau on Saturday night. Fortunately the puck was cleared into a corner before a Ramsey player could take advantage of the scoring opportunity. The Prowlers, giving up two goals in the third period, dropped the decision to the St. Paul squad, 2 to 0. Pat Munt is the Prowler defenseman, while Ramsey's Jerry Christensen is doing some stick-work in effort to "find" the puck.

DALE Wennberg, player-coach of the senior hockey Thieves, finishes off a solo rush by whipping a shot past goalie Terry Greenwood of the Grand Forks Warriors in the 3rd period of Sunday's N.W. Hockey league game played here. The Thieves, with a 5-goal burst in the third period, defeated the Warriors, 9 to 4. On this scoring play, Wennberg had hooked the puck away from the Warriors' Gary Granum in center-ice, and although harassed by Grand Forks' Wayne Ostlund, the former Prowler raced in for a close-in shot at the Warriors' goalie.

Prowlers Lose in 2 Holiday Games

The basketball Prowlers returned to town late Sunday afternoon from a two-game, and losing trip to the Twin Cities area. On Friday night the Prowlers dropped a 71 to 38 decision to a highly-rated Stillwater squad. On Saturday night, playing at North St. Paul, the Prowlers lost to the Polars, 72 to 47.

Coach Jack Junker, disappointed with the play of the Prowlers against the Stillwater Ponies and the North St. Paul Polars, has been drilling the squad this week in preparation for the cagers' next game Friday, Jan. 3, when coach Stan Otness brings his Fosston Greyhounds here for a game in the local gymnasium. The Greyhounds are one of the top-ranked teams in District 30 competition this season.

It was a tense and jittery Prowler squad that met the North St. Paul Polars on Saturday night, and the game was resolved in the first period when the Polars gained a 16 to 4 lead. In this first period the Prowlers could garner but one field goal, and notched a pair of free throws, as the Polars racked up eight field goals.

The Polars out-pointing the Prowlers at a two-to-one rate, tallied 26 points in the second period while the locals were adding 12 points to their total. North St. Paul held a lop-sided 42 to 16 lead at the intermission. The second half, which found North St. Paul utilizing their reserves, was played on near-even terms, with the Prowlers holding a 31 to 30 edge in the point scoring.

The Prowlers had three players scoring in double figures with Rick Jensen having 13 points, Bob Olson scoring 12 points, and Ken Larson adding 10 points.

He returned by way of Chicago where he visited at the home of his other brother, Dr. Harold Torgerson of the School of Commerce of Northwestern University.

Jerry's Promising B Squad

That's a fine group of big and strong youngsters that coach Jerry Westby has on his Prowler B hockey squad. On Monday evening, playing a preliminary to the Crookston vs. Prowlers varsity game at Crookston, the B squad scored a 6 to 1 win over coach Dave Hendrickson's Crookston B's.

The "big" line of the B squad, and the boys dress for the varsity games, too, has Monte LeMoine and John Olson at the wings, and Wayne Smith at center. These three boys will have fine size and will be a strong-skating line for the varsity Prowlers the next couple of years.

Manning the blue-line for Westby's squad are such boys as Jon Hunt, Dave Wegge, Roddy Carlson, and Merle Sampson. And they provide goalie Jeff Noel with ample protection.

Other forwards that are impressive are Danny Brouse, Billy Poole, Chuck Bedard, Bill Dicken, and Denny Sampson. Billy Poole is the last of Elmer's sons to play hockey, and if he can approach the ability of Joey, Jackie, Larry and Tony, well, he'll be a good one. And Chuck Bedard, being the son of Paul Bedard, has been reared on hockey, getting a lesson every day along with his breakfast oatmeal.

The hockey B squad will be given their most strenuous test on Friday, Jan. 10, when coach Frank Macloch's Roseau B squad will be here. Game time is at 6:30 p. m.

It's an Idea

While it is pretty far-fetched to hope that the event will come to pass, it would be enlightening for the Twin Cities high school hockey coaches and officials if Vic Lindquist and Joe Vinet would be assigned to whistle several of the state tournament games.

Joe and Vic, who have become fixtures as the officials of the Region Eight tournament, worked the holiday tourney at Roseau on Friday and Saturday. And it's a joy to watch the finesse and dispatch with which they move these games along. It's evident, too, that the boys respect the authority of the two Winnipeg officials. It's uncanny the way that they can spot the personal feuds that develop, and they can snuff out this rough stuff in a hurry. Joe and Vic would have been welcome at Crookston on Monday night, and then perhaps much of the heavy checking into the boards, and the slashing, would not have occurred.

Incidentally, Vic, in March, will be celebrating his 56th birthday. He's surely a young 55-year old judging by the manner in which he skates around on a hockey rink. Of course he can't compete with tireless Joe Vinet, but then who can?

They Have Problems

The Prowler cagers are in a four-game losing streak, and the odds are that this streak will be increased to five as they meet the Fosston Greyhounds here on Friday night. Coach Stan Otness' Fosston club is rated as a title contender in District 30. And on Saturday, Jan. 11, coach Bun Fortier and his Bemidji Lumberjacks will be here.

The chief problem confronting the Prowlers is that the boys have lost their confidence, and they have become tense and jittery. Basketball, being a game in which delicate touch is a necessity, cannot be played well by players who are as tense as a tightly-drawn fiddle string. And that's been the trouble with the Prowlers in their last three games.

The boys have plenty of desire, and they are in condition to put out over one hundred per cent, but in their anxiety to please their coach, and the fans, they just compound their errors.

Coach Jack Junker has reshuffled the lineup for Friday's game here against the Greyhounds, and it is hoped that this drastic move will ease some of the personal pressure that has been developing.

Last year the Prowlers edged the Greyhounds, 64 to 61, and Fosston has lost such players as Mark Carlin, Dave Swanson, and Chuck Matson from that squad. But coach Otness has center Jim Wheeler, forward Stu Lade, and forward John Guldberg as a nucleus for this season's team.

Wurst Will Head St. Thomas Fund Raising Campaign

Robert A. Wurst of Thief River Falls has been named alumni chairman for the Thief River Falls-Crookston area in the College of St. Thomas program for great teaching. The program is designed to raise $6 million for academic needs of the St. Paul archdiocesan liberal arts college for men.

Wurst will be working under Dr. Frank Blanchard, Alexandria, northwest Minnesota chairman and will be organizing volunteer workers to personally solicit about 25 alumni of the school in the Thief River Falls-Crookston area.

THIEF RIVER FALLS TIMES

Volume Fifty-three Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota Thursday, January 2, 1964 Number One

1964 Looks Bleak for Farmers, Says Langen

"The American farmer faces a bleak 1964'," declared Representative Odin Langen Friday as the Congress prepared to fold up shop and go home for the holidays. "The only New Year's greeting coming from the Department of Agriculture," added Langen, "is a chilling forecast of another year of falling farm income."

The Minnesota Congressman noted that beef prices to our cattle raisers are down again this week. "I have warned all year that such commodities as beef, cream and other agricultural products have been imported in such increasing quantities that the price to domestic producers was being reduced. My charges were vigorously denied and nothing was done to correct the worsening situation. But now that the horse has already been stolen, it's interesting to note that the Department of Agriculture is finally admitting that imports do affect the price paid to domestic meat producers. It is hoped that this sudden 'vision' by the Department will result in a firm stand for the American agricultural community during next year's tariff talks."

The Congressman - farmer from Northwestern Minnesota also said he is amazed to note that Congressional leaders and the Agriculture Department are now crying crocodile tears for the farmer following 12 months of failure to even recognize farm problems. "For instance," said Langen, "the leadership is now talking about voluntary programs for wheat farmers. But during the last Session of Congress all they actually did was try to influence the outcome of a national referendum and refuse to consider wheat legislation submitted by myself and other members of Congress.

"Besides," added Langen, "the voluntary approach isn't exactly new. This was my suggestion five years ago."

Langen said it was strange that the Washington leadership should just now get around to consider the plight of the wheat grower. "Wheat legislation should have been enacted last summer, when it would have done the most good. The winter wheat is already seeded and the rest of the wheat producers are in a position of not being able to make adequate plans for the coming growing season. Any legislation at this late date is a political boondoggle to cover up the refusal by the leadership during the past year to even talk about farm problems."

Quackgrass Evils Create Problem

Effect on Other Crops is Hard to Account for

Quackgrass has been found guilty as a cropland culprit, but so far the judgement is based on circumstantial evidence.

At any rate, University of Minnesota research shows, the malevolence of quackgrass is apparently not a result of any poison exuded by the growing roots or rhizomes of the weed.

More likely, plant physiologists say, the quackgrass is elbowing out the other crops in the competition for plantfood, light and water. Furthermore, quack residue decaying in the soil may yeild some substances that account for damage to othr plants.

The problem isn't restricted to quackgrass alone. Researchers at the University have been attacking the quackgrass situation for years as one of a more general problem of inter-plant competition—why one plant often wins out over another in the infighting.

Much early evidence pointed to the possibility of some kind of poisonous substance in quackgrass. Extracts from Quackgrass plants seemed to have a stunting effect on alfalfa and other crop plants.

More recent research however, shows that the effect is probably due to something else. Plant pathologists, John Ohman and Thor Kommedahl at the University tested liquid extracts from quackgrass roots, and found no harm done when this liquid was added to a solution containing fertilizers, in which alfalfa or oats were growing.

Yet, many tests have shown that alfalfa, and oats growing in a nutrient solution with quackgrass show yellowing and stunting—symptoms of real plant sickness. Farmers have seen the same effects in the field.

The question is still why.

After reviewing similar studies around the country, Ohman and Kommedahl conclude that the harmful effect may be due to a variety of things, including competition for light water, and plant nutrients. Quackgrass may be able to draw available nutrients away from other plants—especially nitrogen and phosphorus and potassium to a lesser extent.

'Miss Minnesota' Gets Driver Award

Sharon Carnes Honored by State Automobile Ass'n.

Sharon Marie Carnes, "Miss Minnesota" of 1963, received the first 1964 Golden Wheel Driver Award from the Minnesota State Automobile Assn., January 2 at a breakfast at the Minnesota Press club in Minneapolis.

Arthur C. Tomlinson, executive secretary of the motoring organization, presented the award to Miss Carnes marking the start of a 60-day program of rewarding the good drivers of Minnesota. Any driver in the state who has driven the past five years without a violation or accident is eligible for the award.

This year's Golden Wheel Award is a handsome gold-plated medallion, the size of a half-dollar, with a gold key chain attached. On the back of the award is the inscription: "Awarded for a Perfect 5-Year Driving Record."

C. L. Bowar, traffic and safety director for the Minnesota AAA, said the basic idea of the two-month project is to prove there are rewards for good driving, as well as penalties for bad.

"We hope this Golden Wheel Award will inject a positive note into the traffic safety effort in Minnesota," Bowar said. "Violators deserve penalties but the good drivers just as surely deserve some reward."

This is the third consecutive year the state motoring organization has given a Golden Steering Wheel Award to Minnesota drivers who qualify for it.

Motorists may apply for the award at any AAA office or AAA service station in Minnesota.

10-state Power Pool Extends to Manitoba

Mid-Continent Area Power Planners (MAPP), a 10-state electrical power pool covering the largest area of any power pool, today became international in scope when the Manitoba Hyrdo-Electric Board joined the group. A memorandum of understanding was signed by MAPP and Manitoba Hydro officials this week.

Manitoba Hyrdro is the first Canadian member of MAPP. Its headquarters are in Winnipeg and it is the principal power generating agency in the province. It serves rural Manitoba and suburban Winnipeg as well as being interconnected with and supplying a considerable portion of the power requirements of the municipal utility that serves the city of Winnipeg.

Manitoba Hyrdo's electric system is already interconnected with the systems of adjacent utilities in Canada supplying service in the province of Saskatchewan to the west and the province of Ontario to the east. Taken in conjunction with the other members of the MAPP organization these systems together constitute the framework of a potential integrated transmission grid blanketing the mid-continent area of both United States and Canada.

The agreement between MAPP and Manitoba Hyrdo permits the exchange of ideas and the co-ordination of electrical planning by power suppliers on both sides of the international border. Before construction of any transmission lines is begun, authorization and approval must be obtained from the appropriate American and Canadian organizations.

The purposes of MAPP, as previously stated and as indicated in today's memorandum of understanding signed with Manitoba Hydro are to provide an organization for co-ordinating the activities of its members in planning, constructing and operating an integrated electric power system utilizing the latest technological developments in high voltage transmission, generation facilities and fuel sources. MAPP's official position of offering membership to all adjacent power suppliers including government agencies and its recognition of the right of existing municipal generating systems to share in the benefits of integrated regional planning are both reiterated in the present memorandum of understanding.

"Manitoba's Hydro's interest in joining MAPP is the same as that of other members of the organization—to bring to its customers the best possible service at the lowest possible cost," said W. D. Fallis, general manager of Manitoba Hydro. "Integrated regional planning, with its elimination of duplicate reserve capacities and its full use of existing and planned facilities, will continue the historic downward trend of electric costs to the ultimate consumer."

Another mutual advantage to Manitoba Hydro and other MAPP members of integrated operation is the fact that it could provide an additional market for the huge hydro-electric potential of the Nelson river in Manitoba, estimated at over 4,000,000 kilowatts and capable of development at relatively low on-site costs.

First steps in implementing MAPP plans for a regional power pool were taken recently when preliminary work was begun on an extra high voltage transmission line connecting the Twin Cities with Milwaukee and Chicago that is expected to be in full operation in 1966. Eventually a network of extra high voltage lines will be built connecting these cities with St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha, Des Moines, Minot, and Winnipeg, among others.

With the addition of Manitoba Hydro, membership in MAPP now includes 22 power suppliers in 10 states and one province. Among these are 14 investor-owned electric companies, six generation and transmission co-operatives composed of 74 distribution co-operatives, the Omaha Public Power District, and Manitoba Hydro, a Crown Corporation. MAPP members serve 3,000,000 power consumers in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Montana and Wyoming. Manitoba Hyrdro, newest MAPP member, serves 200,000 customers directly & supplies a portion of the power requirements of a municipal utility with 140,000 customers.

Why Take Sides?

A report from Paris, written by Harry B. Ellis, chief of the Paris Bureau of The Christian Science Monitor, says that Secretary of State Dean Rusk has urged our Nato allies to favor the Soviets in their disagreements with the Chinese. Well, his recommendation may have some merit. But based on our own experience, we have found it to be pretty good policy to keep our nose out of the neighbors' quarrels, expecially when both of the quarreling neighbors seemed to be unfavorably disposed toward us.

We have a lot of respect for both the Russians and the Chinese as peoples. Both nations have good cultural backgrounds. The cultural background of the Chinese probably comes closer to measuring up to our standards of excellence. We have little confidence in the integrity of either of the governments. But our guess is that it would be to our best interests, and in the best interests of world peace, if we tried to get along with the people of both China and Russia. The good will of both of whom could be important to our own future well-being.

Headed For A Peak

There is no question about the fact that our country now is enjoying prosperity. As President Lyndon Johnson has pointed out our gross national product is now running at a rate of $600 billion a year. That's fine, and we don't want to throw cold water on the President's enthusiasm. But let's not overlook the fact that those are 36 cent dollars. Which raises a reasonable question as to whether or not, if we managed by unsound practices, to work that gross national product up to $1,200 billion a year would those who follow us be playing with 18 cent dollars?

All the statistics indicate that we are headed for a peak of prosperity during the coming year, which happens to be an election year. There is a reasonable question as to whether or not, when we reach the top of that peak there will be a level plateau where, under good management we may be able to enjoy a stable economy, or if, on the other side of that peak there will be a depression? On the other side of all the peaks we have seen there invariably has been a depression. Maybe this one will be differenet.

President Johnson also pointed out that while we are enjoying what appears to be prosperity, there also is unemployment and poverty, indicating that he is properly concerned about such matters. Isn't there a possibility that we have unemployment and poverty that can be attributed to some extent to the fact that we have priced ourselves out of world markets? And isn't it possible that a part of the reason why we have priced ourselves out of world markets may be attributed to our 36 cent dollar?

Return to Free Choice

Auto body shops in this area and throughout the United States are hailing recent action in federal district court in New York as a boon to business. The action involves a civil suit filed by the justice department, charging three trade associations representing 265 insurance companies with restraint of trade in violation of the Sherman Anti-trust Act.

The agreement by the three associations to stop coercing, intimidating or boycotting auto repair shops and automobile damage appraisers should also be of interest to the public. It returns to a car owner the right to make a free choice as to where his car will be repaired with insurance adjustments.

Associations involved were the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies, New York; American Mutual Insurance Alliance and National Association of Mutual Casualty Companies, Chicago.

According to the justice department, the defendants had set up a combined national claims committee, with regional subcommittees. The committees, it was charged selected specific auto damage appraisers in each locality, controlled their fees and induced member companies to channel adjustment of claims to these appraisers and to boycott others. It also said member firms were induced to assign repair work to shops that accepted these "sponsored" appraisers' estimates, to the exclusion of other shops.

The government also charged that the defendants induced member companies to channel automobile material damage repair business to those shops which would, (1) accept the sponsored appraiser's estimate as to the cost of repairs; (2) give a price discount on replacement parts; (3) maintain hourly labor rates at a figure which is considered the lowest possible rate in the area; and (4) accede to the sponsored appraiser's determination of time allowances.

The consent order agreed to by the three associations prohibits them from sponsoring appraisers, from inducing any company to do business or refuse to do business with any appraiser or repair shops, and from controlling prices for auto damage appraisals or repairs.

It should be acknowledged that all insurance companies are not involved in the case, but it should also be called to attention that many of them are. When a loss occurs to an automobile, the insurance company holding the policy is obligated by law to pay for the repairs and/or replacements. The recent action in New York should guarantee a policy holder the right to determine where his car will be repaired.

Rent Controls

In New York City they are still arguing about rent controls, which date back to a war that was fought many years ago. Most of the large cities adopted rent controls at that time to protect tenants from the unreasonable demands of landlords who, during a period of restricted building, were in a position to make unreasonable demands.

Here in Minnesota, and in most states, the controls were dropped shortly after the war ended. But in New York city the tenants are still protected, but the protection is of doubtful value.

The New York Times points out that rent controls have resulted in an inadequate supply of housing for those in the lower income levels. Those in the higher income levels can afford to pay the rentals justified by increased construction costs. The older rental properties are neglected in terms of maintenance and year by year the low income tenants are forced to live in more squalid quarters.

The law of supply and demand has notable shortcomings, but it has a lot of merit too. Most of the time, when the government steps in and attempts to do the regulating that should be done by the law of supply and demand, the public suffers. And generally, the ones who suffer most are those whom the regulations are supposed to protect.

The Cut-Back

The reactions to the announcement that a few of the nation's many military installations are to be closed down indicate what a terrific uproar there will be from communities all over the country where payrolls are maintained by military spending if and when we finally do get down to the business of putting an end to this sort of wasteful production. Our preparation for war is a fifty billion dollar boondoggle year in and year out.

It isn't easy for the drunkard to quit drinking gradually and a sharp cut-off does create problems. It wouldn't be well for our economy to end all of our military operations at one time, but as long as we are not threatened by invasion, and have a surplus of nuclear bombs with which to retaliate in the event of nuclear attack, we should start now in cutting back in our military program.

If over a period of five years we reduced our military expenditures from fifty billion to twenty-five billion, we could start reducing the debt and provide substantial tax relief. The fuzzy thinkers in Washington like the idea of reducing taxes but they want to spend still more money and put us further in debt. Their program would lead inevitably to the breakdown of our economy. In the meantime we probably would have some pleasant years, spending more as we borrowed more. That would probably be in the best interests of the present politicians. But it wouldn't be in the best interests of the economy and those who would inherit the wreck.

The people of Germany tried to solve their problem the easy way at the end of the first World War. They learned the hard way that prosperity could not be maintained with printing press money. Following the second World War the people of Germany recovered the hard way. They had learned their lesson.

Vietnam, Why?

Over in southeast Asia, in a country called Vietnam, we are at war. Just how we become involved in this war is not clear. As far as we know, war has not been declared officially. We are just fighting and many of our soldiers have been killed.

Secretary of War McNamara has just returned from a visit to Vietnam to see how things are going. All is well, he says. We should win this war in another year. But there are conflicting views that justify some doubts as to why we are there in the first place and as to why we should continue to fight there without the support of what we normally consider to be our allies. The following comments of the National Observer merit consideration:

"Policy over Vietnam—if it can be called that—has taken a series of setbacks in the past two weeks.

"The war against the Communists there has taken a sudden and decided turn for the worse. The military junta members who overturned the Diem government amid the murder of its leaders are falling out among themselves. In the maneuvering, the best fighting general has been sent out of the country into a diplomatic post.

"Moreover, the junta has taken to jailing its opponents. Freedom of the press has been curtailed. Nor has the grisly business of Vietnamese citizens burning themselves to death to dramatize grievances ceased. There have been at last four immolations since the junta took over.

"And whatever the course of events the United States now bears a certain measure of responsibility that once it did not bear. For it encouraged coup-d'etat in Vietnam, the coup that brought this junta to power.

"But the history, thus far, of this ill-advised adventure in foreign policy in South Vietnam holds at least one lesson, and it is applicable at home as well as abroad. When the clamor goes up for great change, there ought to be some questioning of change to what."

May Get Permits to Move 12-foot Trailers

Effective January 1, and for the first time in Minnesota, the movement of over 10-foot-wide house trailers and mobile home combinations will be authorized on trunk highways of Minnesota.

In line with the approved policy of the American Association of State Highway Officials (AASHO), transportation permits will be issued for movement of 12-foot-wide mobile homes, except for lengthy movements where other means of transportation are feasible and available.

Applications for transportation permits for over-size combinations not to exceed 10-foot widths may be made at any of the 16 highway maintenance offices in the state or at central headquarters in St. Paul. For those over 10-foot-wide, applications must be submitted to the central office, State Highway Building, St. Paul 1.

In addition to the completed application for 12-foot-wide movements, the applicant must furnish a copy of the bill of sale, invoice, bill of lading, title card, or other official paper stating the make, model, and serial number of the mobile home as well as the name of consignee and origin and destination. The name of the insurance company carrying the liability policy and its limits must also be furnished.

There are many other requirements which must be met before permits will be issued. For example, permits are issued for a single trip only, and movements are restricted to certain times, certain highways and by highway and weather conditions.

Trailers and mobile homes may not exceed specified dimensions, must have license plates, adequate brakes, warning flags, wide load signs, and in some cases have escort vehicles. There are also definite requirements for the towing vehicles.

The highway department emphasizes that all applications for permits will be closely examined to determine whether the move can be made by other means of transportation. A permit, if issued for 12-foot-wide mobile homes, will be coordinated with the Highway Patrol as each movement must be checked by a Minnesota Highway Patrolman.

Complete transcripts of the transportation permit policy are available at all highway maintenance offices as well as at the maintenance section, State Highway Building, St. Paul 1.

Peace Corps Tests In TRF January 11

Placement Test to Be Given at Postoffice

The next Peace Corps placement test is scheduled to be given nationwide on Saturday, January 11 at 8:30 a. m. The non-competitive aptitude tests will be administered at 825 major cities throughout the United States, including the postoffice in Thief River Falls.

All applicants for Peace Corps service are required to take the placement test as well as submit a questionnaire. Those who have not completed a questionnaire will be asked to do so immediately after the testing. No applicant may take the test more than once without special permission from the Peace Corps.

The placement test itself is composed of a 30-minute general aptitude test (made up of verbal, mathematical and spatial problems) and a 30-minute modern language aptitude test. The latter is designed to provide an indication of one's probable degree of success in learning to speak and to understand a foreign language. Knowledge of a foreign language is not needed to score well on this aptitude test, nor required for entrance into the Peace Corps.

To take the placement test applicants must be American citizens at least 18 years of age. There is no upper age limit. Married couples may apply if they have no dependents under 18. A college education is not a requirement if an applicant can offer a certain skill or experience. Liberal arts college graduates with no special "skills" are often used as teachers and community development workers.

The project calls for constructing 10.3 miles of TH 35 from the north junction of TH 23 to Willow River and four bridges, in Pine County. Work is to begin May 1, 1964 and be completed in 150 working days.

On another big project, Woodrich Construction Co., Hopkins, submitted the apparent low bid of $1,271,549 for paving 7.6 miles of TH 35, between the junction of TH 19 and the C.M. St.P.&P. railway tracks near Elko in Rice and Scott counties.

U. S. Insurance on Crops Gains in '63

Program Protects Nearly $500 Million in Crops

Nearly $500 million in farm crop production investments were protected by federal crop insurance in 1963, the U. S. Department of Agriculture reports in a year-end summary. This $500 million of protection is the highest in the 25-year history of federal insurance.

Some 25,000 additional farmers became policyholders in 1963. Acreage and number of crops protected rose sharply in 1963. Nearly 420,000 crops on 13 million acres were insured against production cost losses from natural hazards. This is 50,000 crops and over 3.5 million acres above the 1962 crop year.

This is the second straight year of over 30 per cent increase in farm production expense protection, a total of $200 million increase in the two years since the crop insurance service changed from an experimental to an action program of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

OUR SAVERS EARNED $306,000 LAST YEAR

Advice to the gentleman who paused outside our office (and to thousands like him):

YOU WONDERED whether you should start a regular savings program for the new year. You and your wife were talking about it the other day. About those school expenses coming up. About that house you plan to buy . . . someday. And a nicer vacation trip.

You were taking the important first step toward saving . . . looking ahead to the future . . . making plans. Now for the second step . . . making those plans realities through profitable saving.

Our savers know how profitable saving can be. Safe and convenient, too. The earnings they received last year alone will help pay for many things they once looked ahead to.

Our advice to you, sir, is to come again soon. Don't stop outside. Come in and open an account of your own. Then add to it regularly. It's one of the best decisions you'll ever make!

All courses will run for eight weeks with the exception of beginning and advanced knitting which will run for seven weeks and speed reading which will continue for 16 sessions, meeting twice each week. Registrations for each course will be accepted and processed at the beginning of the first scheduled class meeting, Aune said.

The class will meet on Monday and Thursday from 7:30 to 9 p. m. and total 16 sessions.

The course is said to impart skills which can increase reading speed from 50 to 165 per cent and which sharpen comprehension and improve the ability to concentrate. Organizational meeting of the class will be held January 9 at 7:30 p. m. in room 211 at Lincoln high school.

A beginning date for golf classes to be held in the spring will be announced later. John Moum will be the instructor for the course.

Deaths up, Births Fewer Here in '63

155 Deaths and 281 Births Listed in Pennington Co.

With a few belated reports yet to be received, a total of 155 deaths was reported for Pennington county in 1963, it was announced Friday by Henry Storhaug, clerk of court. The figure represents a substantial increase over the 1962 total of 123, and also is higher than the 148 reported for 1961.

Northwestern Hospital listed 281 births during 1963, a decline from the 355 reported in 1962.

Storhaug's office also revealed that 100 marriage licenses were issued in 1963, compared to 83 in 1962 and 109 in 1961, while last year there were 16 divorces compared to 18 in 1962.

Miss Margaret Sherack returned to her studies at the St. Francis Hospital school of nursing on Thursday after spending the holidays at the home of her mother, Mrs. Marie Sherack.

FIRST baby of 1964 at Northwestern hospital was Jon Stewart Nessen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Nessen of 609½ Eighth st. E., Thief River Falls. He made his appearance at 9:31 a.m. on January 1, weighed in at six pounds, six ounces and was 19½ inches in length. Mrs. Nessen is the former Marlene Jablinske of Thief River Falls and her husband operates a bulk milk truck for Thief River Falls Cooperative Creamery association. They have one other son, Michael, aged 5½ years.

More Electricity Used Here in '63

Electric current handled by the municipal distribution system in Thief River Falls in 1963 increased by 3.5 per cent to a total of 23,167,298 kilowatts, it was announced today by Morris Owen, superintendent of utilities. The total compares with 22,374,092 kilowatts in 1962.

During he year the water turbines set a ten-year record by producing 3,622,100 kilowatts as the result of an increased flow of water in Red Lake river. The big bulk of the supply of current, however, was supplied by the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation from Garrison dam, this source providing 19,538,098 kilowatts. The Diesel units in the local power plant, serving as standby power for emergency use, provided only 7,100 kilowatts.

The peak load for 1963 was 4,906 kilowatts, a gain of 8.7 per cent over the 1962 peak of 4,513. Production by the water turbines was quite uniform throughout the year, ranging from a low of 253,600 kwh in September to a high of 353,800 in December.

June was the low month for current consumption with 1,673,940 kwh, while as usual December marked the peak with 2,226,736.

Owen also reported that the municipal water treatment plant registered a gain of 25,408,200 gallons of water pumped, or 12 per cent, in 1963 over 1962, the figures for the two years being respectively 234,832,300 gallons and 209,424,100. The highest daily pumpage was 1,141,300 July 26. Pumpage by months varied from a low of 16,736,500 gallons in February to 25,002,000 in July, when rain was lacking.

Goodridge Vote on Proposed Merger of Churches Set

Five Churches To Vote January 29 on Merging Into One Congregation

All five churches that were recommended to merge by a specially-appointed reorganization committee will vote on the proposed merger at 8 p.m. Wednesday, January 29, according to Dr. David M. Brown, chairman of the Goodridge Lutheran church reorganization committee. Congregations included in the proposal are Rosendahl, Goodridge, Telemarken, Zion and First Lutheran, all of Goodridge.

If the new church is formed by a merger, Dr. Brown said, it would form a parish with Bethany and Eklund churches as recommended by the committee.

To become effective, the merger vote must carry by a two-thirds vote of those voting in each of the churches. If one church does not obtain a two-thirds vote, the merger will fail.

If the election carries, a meeting of the new congregation would be held to consider a constitution and by-laws, name for the congregation and election of officers.

The parish relations committee, headed by Roy Wiseth, has recommended that the five churches completely dissolve their present organizations; that a joint parish council composed of members from each of the church councils be formed; and that care of parsonages and cemeteries be the responsibility of the joint council.

In a poll of the committee, United Lutheran church received the greatest number of votes as a possible name for the new congregation if formed. Others given support were Faith Lutheran and Hope Lutheran. If formed, the church would be named by a vote of the members.

The proposed church would have a baptized membership of approximately 480 people, confirmed membership of 330 and total budget of approximately $16,000.

Reorganization Session of County Board on Tuesday

The Pennington county board will conduct its annual reorganization meeting Tuesday, electing a chairman and vice chairman and appointing standing committees to serve during the coming year. Among other items of business to be transacted will be the selection of jurors for service at the 1964 terms of court.

Firestone Store In T. R. Falls Will Open This Week

Veto Chepulis Will Manage Wholesale and Retail Operation Here

Firestone Tire and Rubber company has leased the former Forkenbrock Motor company building in Thief River Falls and expects to open the Firestone store for business about the middle of this week. The building is located in the 200 block of Horace av. N.

Manager of the store will be Veto Chepulis, an employee of the Firestone company for eight years and most recently territory manager with headquarters at Bismarck, N. D. His wife and six children will join him in Thief River Falls when housing accommodations have been secured.

The store will handle tires, batteries and automotive accessories, serving as a retail outlet and as a warehouse for dealers in the territory. The store will serve dealers west to the North Dakota border, north to the Canadian border, east to Bemidji and south to Mahnomen. A three-man staff in addition to the manager is expected to be employed here.

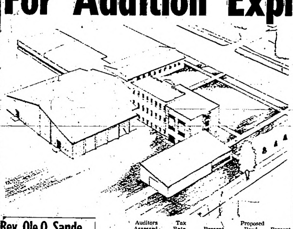
Goodridge School Plan For Addition Explained



Formal action to place a bond issue for school construction before the voters in the Goodridge district is expected to be taken by the board of education at its next meeting on Wednesday, according to Dr. David Brown, superintendent of schools. Tentative plans call for the election to be held on Thursday, Feb. 13.

Discussion of the bond issue will take place briefly after the regular program of the Goodridge Parent and Teacher association meeting Tuesday evening. A public mass meeting will be held prior to the election and a representative of the architectural firm will explain the building program at that time

The proposed additional building would add a gymnasium and six high school classrooms to the present buildings and permit the elimination of three one-room buildings now in use. Plans have been prepared by the architect—Wells, Denbrook and Associates, Inc.

A bond issue of $228,000 is proposed to finance the cost of the new buildings, Supt. Brown said. This would not not permit new locker rooms or the modification of the old gymnasium stage to convert it to a music room. These changes could be made later as the money becomes available.

Tax Information

"Based on retiring the bonds in 20 years with an interest rate of five per cent," the superintendent said, "the district should have a mill rate increase of 32.78 mills. Added to the agriculture rate of 107 mills for the present year, this would make a total agricultural rate of 139.78 mills."

Because of homestead exemptions, ditch taxes and other assessments, it is not possible to get the present tax using the tax rate and the assessed valuation, Dr. Brown added. In order to give residents of the district an idea as to how the bond issue would affect their taxes, a table was prepared. It cites the example of an individual taxpayer in each township and includes figures in the accompanying table.

Township	Auditors Assessed Valuation	Tax Rate Mills	Present Tax	Proposed Bond Levy	Percent Increase
Goodridge	$834	237.39	$254.72	$27.34	10.7

Fire Destroys 30 Tons of Alfalfa On Koglin Farm

Fire nearly destroyed the winter hay supply and a large hay shed on the Ed Koglin farm located six miles southwest of Goodridge early New Year's morning. Due to the alertness of a young motorist and the Goodridge fire department, a possible calamity was averted. Quick action of the people involved kept the fire from spreading, however, and the loss was limited to about 30 tons of stacked alfalfa hay.

Mike Scott, a local resident, was driving by the Koglin farm about 0:15 a. m. when he noticed flames from the cattle yard. By ringing the doorbell and pounding on the door he succeeded in rousing the sleeping household. Scott then drove to a neighbor who had a telephone and notified the Goodridge fire department. After reporting the blaze he returned to offer further assistance in fighting the rapidly growing haystack fire.

Meanwhile, Koglin and his sons, Glen 25 and Kay 18, hurriedly dressed and ran to the cattle yard. A short string of stacks to the south of a 150-ton capacity pole barn was ablaze. A southwest wind was driving the flames toward the barn and several adjoining stacks which had recently been moved in from the fields to provide an estimated 100 tons of winter forage for the Koglin's Hereford cattle. Koglin started his bulldozer while his sons cleared hay away from the building with a tractor-mounted hay loader and a pitchfork.

The prompt arrival of the Goodridge fire department and their efforts in wetting down the south wall of the shed helped keep it from catching fire from the raging stacks scant yards away.

Koglin plowed through two fences in order to get his bulldozer behind the burning stacks. The wind, which had shifted to the northwest, and the stream of water directed by the firemen enabled him to eventually push the burning stacks away from the building. The origin of the fire was thought to be due to a short in the electric fense, Glen Koglin reported.

Elona Beth Anderson Is Bride of Gerald M. Moen

Elona Beth Anderson and Gerald M. Moen were married December 14 at the First Lutheran church of Middle River by the Rev. Duane Nelson. Two hundred guests attended as the couple repeated their vows in a Christmas setting of lighted Christmas trees and floor baskets of red carnations and white mums, in the double-ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Anderson of Middle River and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Moen of Newfolden.

A prelude of nuptial music was played at the organ by Miss Bonnie Hallk of Newfolden. Susan Nelson of Newfolden, soloist, sang several sacred numbers.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a floor-length gown of white imported velvet, the wateau back flowing into a chapel train. Her floor-length veil of illusion with re-embroidered Alencon lace, featured a tear-drop pearl at the forehead. She carried a white Bible with white roses, red carnations and holly.

Marsha Rose was maid of honor, and the other attendants to the bride were Mrs. James Anderson, her sister-in-law, and Kathy Moen, the groom's sister. They wore floor-length dresses of red velvet and pillbox hats of white fur and formal white gloves. Their cascade bouquets were of white mums, red carnations and holly accents.

Colleen Anderson, niece of the bride, and Kim Hjelle, the groom's niece, were flower girls. Dressed in white dresses with red velvet sashes, and red and white headpieces, they carried red rose petals in baskets. Brian Anderson, the bride's brother, was ring-bearer. He wore a black tuxedo and black bow tie. The train of the bridal gown was carried by Greg and Donn Anderson, nephews of the bride.

Best man was Richard Moen, brother of the groom, and James and Richard Anderson, the bride's brothers, were groomsmen. Earl Anderson, brother of the bride, and Ken Hjelle, brother-in-law of the groom, ushered the guests. All wore black tuxedos and white carnations, which was also the attire of the groom.

A reception was held in the church parlors and given by the bride's parents. Hostess was Mrs. Earl Anderson, and the guests were registered by Susan Schenky. The bridal table was served by Susan, Judy and Sandra Anderson, cousins of the bride.

A four-tiered wedding cake trimmed with white bells and with touches of red and silver, was baked by Mrs. Earl Anderson, sister-in-law of the bride, and cut and served by Mrs. Tilmer Peterson and Mrs. Helen VonWald, aunts, respectively, of the groom and bride. Mrs. Lloyd Anderson and Mrs. Irvin Peterson poured. At the gift table were Mrs. Marvin Moen, Pat Sourdiff, Mrs. Gerald Gillund, and Sylvia Griffin. Punch was served by Sharon and Diane Moen, sisters of the groom. Mrs. Marion Cater was in charge of the kitchen and was assisted by Mmes. Eddie Johnson, John Luoto, Gerda Johnson, Calmer Brenna and Alex Cwikla.

Guests attending were from Montana; Fargo and Grand Forks, N. D.; Minneapolis, Thief River Falls, and Newfolden and Middle River.

The bride graduated from Middle River high school and the Area Vocational school here. The groom attended the Newfolden high school and served with the U. S. Navy. He is employed by the General Tire Company in Minneapolis, where they are at home.

National Guard to Defer Recruiting

Minnesota Units Now About 400 over Limit

Overstrength of the Minnesota Army National Guard and a government economy program make it necessary that Guard units conduct their recruiting on a highly selective basis until strength is down to the figure authorized by the National Guard Bureau, Major General Chester J. Moeglein, Minnesota adjutant general, said today.

Being approximately 400 overstrength puts Minnesota's 47th Division at 10,118 men, an all-time high. The authorized strength is 9,687 men and should be met within the next few months.

An intensive recruiting program, initiated about eight months ago when the Guard was almost 600 understrength, was cut off when the authorized strength was reached in October; however, enlistments continued to be greater than normal attrition losses, and now recruiting must be cut back until attrition losses bring about the desired strength.

"Young men with a service obligation," General Moeglein said, "should continue to contact their local armory, as an opening will be available from time to time."

Humphrey Backed for Second Spot

Leads Associated Press Poll for Vice President

Sen. Hubert Humphrey emerged Friday as a figure to be reckoned with in the national political picture, following an Associated Press poll that listed his as top choice for the Democratic vice presidential nomination.

In the Twin Cities for a round of speeches and party conferences, Humphrey said he was "honored and flattered" by the poll, but aware the decision is not entirely his to make.

Other DFL leaders were openly jubilant at the results, which also turned up a smattering of support for Sen. Eugene McCarthy.

The purpose of the Eye Bank is to act as clearing-house between persons donating their eyes after death and the individual physician who will perform the sight-saving operation of the transplant.

Food Prices May Be Higher in 1964

Increase Expected to Be Less Than Last Year

Look for the price of food you put into your market basket to be a little higher in 1964—but the increase shouldn't be as great as it was last year.

Because of rising incomes, though, you'll actually spend less of your income for food—only 18¾ per cent, ¼ per cent less than in 1963, reports Mary Ryan, extension marketing specialist at the University of Minnesota. The proportion of disposable income spent by the average American for food dropped from 23¼ cents out of each dollar in 1951 to 19 cents in 1963.

Unless unusual circumstances occur, prices of food from livestock products should average about the same as last year, but beef, eggs and other products in large supply may be priced a little lower.

Food prices in the Twin Cities area increased an average of 2 per cent between November, 1962 and November, 1963, slightly more than for the United States as a whole, Miss Ryan said. Biggest price increases came in fruits and vegetables, cereal and bakery products and dairy products. The increases in these groups were only partially offset by an average decline in prices of meats, poultry and fish during the year.

The advance in food prices in 1963 was greater than that in previous years. A number of unusual factors influenced this upward trend. The winter freeze in Florida caused retail prices of citrus fruits and winter vegetables to rise sharply. Reduced supplies of other fruits harvested during summer and autumn resulted in an increase in average fruit and vegetable prices. A third factor was the higher price of sugar which affected prices of foods containing this sweetening.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the kitchen of

MRS. GLORIA BUGGE

Getting away from the yen for holiday food, and yet wanting something you haven't tried before, perhaps? I'm sure you'll like this dish, which has something of the exotic in its name and ingredients. If your family is small, you can still make this in quantity, and freeze some of it for some busy day or for serving to unexpected guests.

Mrs. Bugge is one of the busiest women I know, and she calls this main dish simple to fix, and cites this fact as one of the reasons for its popularity with her. That's for me, too. But I too, want something that tastes good, even though I am busy, and this can be prepared in the evening, when I can simmer the chicken while catching up on the day's chores, and I can serve it for supper the following night, or freeze it, for later.

Chicken Chow Mein

Boil until very tender, 1 chicken (a spring chicken is fine, but an older one does nicely).

Cool, and remove the meat from the bones. Dice.

In another pan, cook until tender, in a small amount of water,
3 or 4 cups diced celery.
2 medium-sized onions, chopped

Add to the diced chicken. Add:
1 large can mushrooms (use the chunks and pieces, for economy, if you prefer; they make the dish just as tasty.)
2 bouillon cubes, dissolved in hot stock
1 can bean sprouts
1 can chop suey vegetables
4 tablespoons molasses
salt and pepper to taste
½ to ¾ cups flour mixed with water to a smooth paste.

Use the liquid from the canned vegetables to conserve their precious nutrients. Also use the soup stock from the chicken. Mix all ingredients together and bring to a boil. Thicken with the flour paste, and when smooth serve over chow mein noodles, with soy sauce.

Since this requires no baking, it takes very little effort in preparation. When freezing, the chow mein noodles are omitted, and the mixture poured over them at serving time, as when serving it freshly cooked.

Mrs. Bugge, too busy with her thriving upholstry shop to have much time for hobbies, says that she enjoys sewing, fancywork, picknicking, music, and reading, especially magazines. If she had time and opportunity she would also like to travel. She has been in the upholstering business for 18 years, and turns out beautiful work, a fact we can personally attest to.

There are three girls in the family. Janis, who is in secretarial work, and Sharon, who worked in the radio and television industries but has now settled for proofreading for several dailies. Both live in Jacksonville, Florida. Both are married, and Sharon is the mother of a lively son under a year old. Suellen, the youngest daughter, is a sophomore at Lincoln high school and lives at home.

HAPPY HOMEMAKING

by Carolyn Offerdahl

IIII

Now that the holidays are over and everything is back to normal, you may be wondering what to do with the little extra time that you have on your hands. The Pennington county Seed and Feed show on February 7, with its emphasis on wool, offers opportunity. Maybe you would like to begin working on exhibits. The lots for entry are skirts, dresses, suits and coats, crocheting, knitting, modeling and miscellaneous. From these lots you can see that there is variety, and there should be one to fit your talent. Now is the time to begin working on feed and seed show exhibits.

Great strides have been made in developing plastic top surfaces which so closely match the color and grain of the wood used in chests and tables that it usually takes an expert to spot them. Although a forgotten cigarette or spilled nail polish would spell disaster for a conventional wood finish, the plastic tops resist these and many other problems. In many cases, if you find a table or chest you like, it can be ordered with or without the plastic top.

While on the subject of wood, here are a few quality tests for wood furniture if you are in the market for a chest, a dresser or a wood bookcase. First of all, rock it to see if it wobbles. If it does, it is flimsy. Pull out a drawer to see if it glides freely. Swing out a door to be sure it does not drag on the bottom of the chest.

Look for dust paneling between the drawers. These panels seal the drawer compartments into individual storage sections. While checking the drawers, check on the drawer joints. Interlocking dovetailing indicates good construction. One last place you may look is along the tops of the drawers and doors to make sure they are properly aligned.

If you look at the above things carefully, you should have good luck in selecting good quality wood furniture.

Psychologically Speaking . . .

by DR. PAUL HAUCK

Western Mental Health Center
Marshall, Minn.

In Cooperation with Pennington County Association for Mental Health

Hypnosis, a Window To the Unconscious

"You are falling into a deep sleep".

One of the most amazing facts about people is their ability to be hypnotized. By suggesting the idea of a deep sleep to some people, hypnotists can actually put their subjects asleep, they can speak, laugh, cry, and move without awaking. They can do this merely by having the idea suggested to them.

In the same way, if a subject is asked to recall something that happened a few weeks ago, he does so with amazing accuracy. But better still, if you tell him that he is six years old, that his mother is beside him, and that they are both going to kindergarten, he is able to believe you so thoroughly that he is convinced completely of what you are telling him.

If you ask him to describe the room his first day at school was spent in, he does it. He can also name the children in the class and everything that happened to him. These are the sort of memories that can often be recalled in no other way. They are unconscious memories which can be brought back to life through the technique of hypnotism.

However, this is only the beginning of the story. When an adult subject is told that he is a young child in the second grade and that he should write his name, what happens? The adult subject writes his name, what happens? The adult subject writes his name in a scrawl. He has trouble perhaps in holding the pencil,and he writes slowly and poorly just as he probably did when he was a child.

If we had a sample of his writing from the second grade and compared it with the present sample, we would be amazed to find that both samples are exactly alike. This is truly a reversal in time a fantastic look at the unconscious at work.

There are times when it would be very helpful to people in emotional distress if you could remember some event which was tied up with their worries. Asking them to recall certain events is frequently fruitless. The memories in question may be so unpleasant, or may cause so much guilt that they remain unconscious. Some technique must be employed to find the real source of difficulty. Sometimes hypnosis is the ideal method. Lets see how it might be used.

A bomber was shot down during World War II. Everyone bailed out to safety but the bombadier. He went down with the burning plane. A few weeks later the pilot of this plane became depressed, slept poorly and stayed more to himself than was customary. He said he felt worthless and had a gnawing sense of guilt which he simply could not put his finger on. No number of interviews could bring back enough memories and feelings to explain the guilt complex. Finally it was decided to hypnotize him.

He was told that he was flying in the bomber which crashed. He was approaching enemy lines when the plane was hit by anti-aircraft fire. Under hypnosis, the pilot revelived the experience ant told about it step by step. It seems that he had moved a piece of equipment in the plane and that just before jumping he saw the bombadier trip over this article. Then he jumped. In other words, he felt it was his fault that the bombadier fell and therefore that he was guilty person causing the bombadier's death. However, this thought that he had killed his buddy was so upsetting that he refused to permit himself to think about it. Unconsciously he tried to forget the whole thing. Hypnosis revived the event, the pilot had a good cry, the air was cleared and the patient saw the the unreasonableness of his guilt and felt relief.

Dreams—The Royal Road to the Unconscious

Today we have giant "thinking" machines which can do more mathematical problems, in less time and more accurately, than dozens of men working full time around the clock. These machines can correct their own mistakes, remember figures, and if asked to do too much, even have a type of nervous breakdown. All in all, they do some rather remarkable things.

However, practically every human being, from the child to the adult, performs nightly mental accomplishments which make the mechanical brains look like a wooden plow as compared to a modern combine. He dreams.

Popular belief has it that our dreams are always the result of upset stomachs, or other abnormal conditions, but that, regardless of why we dream, the dream itself never makes sense. Northing could be farther from the truth! When the facts are known, you will see that a dream is absolutely amazingly complex, and when studied carefully makes perfectly good sense.

At night we take our problems to bed with us. As we close our eyes and fall asleep, the curtains of our mind open and on this night stage we rehearse our worries and try to make all things come out right.

This is essentially what a dream is; a rehearsal wherein we try various solutions to the problems which are bothering us. Sometimes we try outlandish things in our dreams, and the next day we say, "I had the silliest dream last night."

Other times we frighten ourselves by some of the plans we have thought up in our dreams, and we can sometimes be very bothered all day long by some of the daring things we tried out during our sleep.

Our guard is naturally down while we sleep, so it's easy to see why some of the thoughts we have during the night are very different from those we have during the day. In other words, since we are only thinking in our dreams, we entertain thoughts which are usually inaccessible to us, namely unconscious thoughts.

What better place to look, therefore, for those memories, thoughts or feelings which are making us upset, than our dreams? We have found that a close study of them tells us quickly some facts which are almost impossible to gain in other ways. Let us examine the dream of a patient and see how it helps us to understand him.

An ambitious vice-president of a large concern is suddenly made acting president when the president is taken ill. He soon becomes depressed and works much below his usual abilities. His appetite is gone and he sleeps poorly. His horses and pulling a circus wagon but only the lead horse is all decorated with fancy harness and plumes. Suddenly, the lead horse looks real old, and the man removes him from the team and moves the second horse to the front position. He looked great with all those trimmings, and pranced off in grand style."

Knowing what happened shortly before this man became upset, it is not too far-fetched surely to interpret the two horses as his boss (in the lead) and he second. In the dream he is realizing his ambitions in a harmless way; namely, his boss retires because of old age. From this knowledge, we we put two and two together and understand that the vice-president feels guilty about wanting his boss out of the way and that his secret wish was actually fulfilled when the president of the firm took ill. Small wonder he is filled with guilt. Through the dream the unconscious has been made conscious. Is this why Freud called the dream "the royal road to the unconscious?"

Seat Belts Needed on New Cars in '64

'63 Legislature Passed Law Requiring Equipment

Thinking of buying a new car after the first of the new year? One of the changes in traffic law of last legislative session will affect you.

This is the requirement for seat belts in the front seat of passenger cars.

Safety leaders had proposed a bill requiring all cars to be equipped with safety seat belts in the front seat for driver and passenger. The proposal was amended to provide for local installation of seat belts within 30 days after the new passenger vehicle is registered in Minnesota, effective Jan. 1, 1964.

A nationwide poll taken by the Auto Industries Highway Safety Committee last year indicated that about nine per cent of cars are equipped with seat belts. A substantially larger percentage of seat belt equipped cars is expected next year. Major automobile manufacturers will make seat belts standard equipment in front seats of all 1964 models beginning in January.

The National Safety Council has estimated that 5,000 lives would have been saved each year and thousands of serious injuries averted had the occupants of vehicles been wearing seat belts at the time of traffic accidents. The council points out that seat belts do not prevent traffic accidents, but they protect the occupants from death or serious injury if an accident should occur.

The Minnesota Highway Department says that this estimate would mean that there might have been almost 200 fewer traffic fatalities recorded this year in the North Star state had the nearly 40,000 persons injured or killed so far this year been wearing belts.

PVT. LaVerne M. Hamre, son of Mrs. Melvin Hamre of Thief River Falls, recently spent the Christmas holidays in this community. He entered the Army in September and received his basic training at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., then was transferred to Ft. Gordon, Ga., where he is now attending radio school.

The Library Corner

by Virginia Gjernes

"Vandals in the Library" by J. C. Furnas is the title of an article in the January issue of the popular "Reader's Digest". It is not a mystery story!! Acts that prompt the writing of such an article forever cause librarians to ask "whyy" The answers they come up with number in the hundreds! The article mentioned is one some people would not bother to read, but it should be "required" for every taxpaying adult! Have you read it? If not, there is a copy of it at your library.

Just what is the author writing about? What "vandals" are in the library? Mice? No. Not mice? People—just plain, ordinary, everyday law-abiding citizens of your town and the town around the bend, and the one up the road. The article does not talk about "your" library but it does point out many belonging to people just like you.

Like for instance. . .the Brooklyn Public library sets half a million dollars as the annual "book loss through theft, borrowing - without-return and mutilation" figures. Not a goal to be envied, nor one to work toward, is it? The Philadelphis Free library decided to call upon the law! Yes, sir! When borrowers "forgot" to return books they were arrested in the middle of the night! Irate citizens? You bet. But the books came back. . .some long overdue or stolen, even some belonging to other libraries! Thousands of missing books turned up!

The Indianapolis Public library reports the items most frequently stolen are the guides to Sunday school lessons! At another library, "owner's manuals" for antique cars have disappeared from the shelves so rapidly that borrowers are now obliged to leave their driver's license at the desk for security!

Your librarian could report incidents to anyone making a survey in this part of the country very similar to those told about in the article. Your librarian could call out the local police, too. Your librarian has spent money to replace mutilated and stolen volumes. Unfortunately, many books cannot be replaced for any amount of money! However, this doesn't keep borrowers from mutilating or borrowing and forgetting to return them!

How do librarians keep people from mutilating, destroying or neglecting to return books? Unfortunately, they can't—they can only try—but the borrowers themselves can keep from doing any of these things. Really, it is a little silly to destroy something which belongs to you, isn't it? And it is rather ridiculous to steal something from yourself, isn't it?

And, now that we're on the subject of books—have you read "The Restless Ones" by Beatrice Morosco? It is another about Minnesota —Minneapolis history, to be more specific. There is the excitement of the wild frontier, the riverboat and even the fun of husking bee. The author, born in Minneapolis, has written about her family. In fact, the heroine of her book is her grandmother, Jane. The book is exceptionally well written and of interest to every Minnesotan.

If you'd like to travel a bit further west, while on your historical journey, take along "Westward Vision" by David Lavender, and the fifth in the American Trails series. This particular one tells of the Oregon Trail beginnings. You will be fascinated by the writings of the gifted author. (He's also responsible for "Land of Giants" and other highly regarded books)

"Naked Came I" by David Weiss is the biographical novel of Auguste Rodin, the 19th century sculptor. A massive book. But to write of the great, and controversial, figure in less space would be all but impossible. It is a book which the reader must review in his own way. . .the material is all there. Perhaps the author's style is found wanting! If you like books about real people, doing real things with or without your approval—you'll like this one!

John O'Hara's new "The Hat on the Bed" is as full of vim and vigor and the love of life as his last one. Short, short stories and longer short stories fill the volume from front to back with O'Haraisms. The author never fails his readers—he is always "O'Hara" which means he is always "good".

Jobless Payments in '63 Total $39 Million

An estimated total of $39,260,000 in benefits was paid unemployed workers in Minnesota during 1963 under the Minnesota employment security law, Frank T. Starkey, commissioner of the Minnesota department of employment security, announced today. The amount was 6.5 per cent higher than the total of $36,852,706 received by the insured unemployed during 1962.

Starkey's report indicated that, while the number of unemployed workers drawing benefits for one or more weeks of unemployment was expected to total 113,100 for 1963, compared to 111,843 in 1962, the number of claimants who exhausted their benefit rights during 1963, estimated at 23,200, would be about 650 below the 1962 total of 23,848.

Weeks of compensated unemployment totaled 1,339,900 in 1963, compared to 1,277,326 in 1962. Weekly payments at $29.30 in 1963, averaged 45 cents more than in 1962.

In addition to the state unemployment compensation programs, the department administers two programs for which it is reimbursed by the federal government—unemployment compensation for federal employees, and unemployment compensation for federal employees, and unemployment compensation for ex-servicemen. Starkey reported that an estimated $2,876,000 in benefits was paid out under these two programs in 1963.

The Minnesota Unemployment fund, which reached a peak of $134 million early in 1954, slumped to approximately $28,733,000 by the end of 1963, according to Starkey. During 1963, the fund dropped $8,400,000 million, or 23 per cent.

The "dollar decline" in the fund does not fully indicate its declining adequacy, he said. In 1954 the amount of reserve per covered worker under the program was $280. Starkey pointed out that by the end of 1963 there was only $37 in reserve per covered worker while the maximum obligation to a covered worker had climbed to $988.

The consistent drain on the reserve fund during the past nine years is attributable to several factors, according to Starkey's analysis. Among these are: persistently high levels of unemployment, even during periods of relative prosperity; the general increase in the length of time individuals are unemployed; the fact that, while wages have increased considerably, only the first $3000 of wages are taxable (less than 60 per cent of total wages); and numerous other factors relating to the failure of the contribution provisions of the law to yield sufficient revenues to replace benefits paid.

WEATHER AND THE COMMON COLD

Q. Why do people take cold when the weather suddenly changes?

A. They don't, according to Cornell University doctors. In a four-year study of students' sniffles the physicians found that temperature change, wet weather, and getting tired had very little to do with catching cold. The doctors kept a week-by-week record of students who visited the cold clinic. The records matched year after year. There were a peak number of visits after each vacation period, with the biggest peak of all at the beginning of the school year when the weather was unusually good. There were almost exactly the same number of colds at opposite extremes of weather conditions — on the hottest and coldest, and on the wettest and driest days, as well as on days with the greatest and least fluctuations in temperature.

In Retrospect

—BY BILL DAHLQUIST—

Not many people in this community know who Russell Olson is, but there are not many who do not know whom you refer to when you mention the name of Huck Olson. Just how Russell became Huck I do not know for sure. It happened back in Huck's grade school years, and I suspect that it came about because Russell probably had a lot of the likeable qualities of Mark Twain's Huckleberry Finn. His athletic record indicates that he was a boy's boy all the way from the ground up.

As an athlete he was a natural, playing halfback on the high school football team and guard on the school basketball squad. Baseball and hockey had no place on the school program at that time but he participated in both games on teams organized by the players themselves. That was his record up to 1925 when he graduated from Lincoln High. Coach Lars Thune, who died recently, was his hero.

Huck went on to St. Olaf where he had an outstanding year as a freshman. In that first year he played on the school's basketball and baseball teams. In his second year what promised to be a brilliant athletic career came to a tragic end. He contracted pleurisy which developed into tuberculosis and kept him in bed for a period of ten years and resulted in a loss of one lung. But he finally won that game too, and while he no longer was able to participate in sports, he did develop into an outstanding sports reporter and writer, and he has made an outstanding contribution to the Times as its sports editor.

It was during the years that he was bedridden that I became acquainted with Huck, and this acquaintanceship developed through correspondence. During the ten years that Huck spent his days and nights in bed he did a lot of reading, and much of his reading was in his favorite field, athletics. But it was not limited to athletics. He read a lot of good literature, and because of his general reading he developed into quite a philosopher. And that has been just as important a factor in his development into an interesting sports writer as his knowledge of and interest in sports.

But getting back to how his writing for the Times started, it began in the form of public opinion letters. In one of his letters, as I recall it, he wondered if the old mill yard, which was serving no useful purpose at that time, should not be converted into a community playground and sports center. Not a bad idea at that time.

Huck came to the Times as sports editor in 1939, and during the quarter of a century that he has been reporting and commenting in this capacity he has built up an enviable record, not only locally but thruout the district and the state. He has written as a reporter who writes interesting copy, with a keen sense of humor. He has written as a reporter who knows whereof he speaks. And in his reporting he has been fair and impartial.

He has the confidence and good will of the coaches of the teams our Thief River Falls teams meet in competition. This confidence has been demonstrated in many ways. In tournaments that have been held here Huck has been accepted many times as the official scorekeeper. At Bemidji, two years ago, in a close high school basketball game, the official time clock had quit working and the officials asked Huck to carry through as the official time keeper. This was, of course, with Bemidji's consent.

Too many home-town sports reporters are inclined to favor the home-town team and do not give the opposing teams the credit they deserve. The fact that Huck has the good will of the opposing teams in the area has been helpful in building up good will for Thief River Falls, or, at least, in overcoming ill will.

Recognition at the state level of his capacity as a sports reporter was indicated a few years ago when he was invited by the School of Journalism of the University of Minnesota to be one of a panel of three sports editors from around the state to "conduct a panel-type meeting on sports at the thirty-fifth annual Editor's Short Course." The subject of the panel discussion was to be, "Let's Do a Better Job on Sports News." The invitation stated:

> "Because each of you selected now does a bang-up job it is our hope that you will point your talk in the direction of improving sports coverage and sports writing, and tell others of courses of background information, and how to use it more effectively to create added interest in sports news and pictures."

Well, for background information, we wouldn't recommend that any writer of sports news should spend ten years in bed gathering statistics that might serve as a background for informative reporting, but Huck Olson's ten years in bed were not wasted. His physical problems may have been a factor in sharpening the alertness of a sharp mind.

The invitation to participate in a panel discussion at the University of Minnesota School of Journalism pointed up the importance of pictures in sports reporting. There are understandable objections to the use of flash bulbs in taking action pictures, but Huck has that problem solved. His latest acquisition in his own camera collection enables him to take action pictures without flash bulbs. He has two lenses for his Leica, an F/2 and an F/1.4, and he is getting wonderful results with them, as you may have noticed. He has a complete darkroom at home and does all his own developing and enlarging.

So Huck is not only oustanding as sports reporter and editor. He also measures up as tops in photography, and that is an excellent combination. Huck Olson has made a very substantial contribution to whatever standards of excellence the Times may have achieved over a period of many years. He is one of the outstanding sports reporters in the state.

Visitors Overcome First Half Deficit

Scoring 17 points in the third period, overcoming an 15 to 15 deficit at the halftime intermission coach Terry Stout's Fosston B squad defeated the Prowler B squad, 38 to 29, in a preliminary game played here Friday night.

Coach Bob Gangelhoff's B's, with Bobby Brodin scoring eight points and Carl Poppenhagen adding six points, held an 15 to 15 lead at the intermission, but the Fosston B's, with their attack led by Jim Lohmeier and Dennis Ruud, gained control of the game in the third period.

TOMMY Cummings, a promising sophomore on coach Jack Junker's Prowler cage squad, is just about to add a point to the locals' scoring total as he lofts a free throw into the west basket in the second period of the Prowlers vs. Fosston game here Friday night. The Prowlers, breaking a four-game losing streak, won the game, 64 to 57. Awaiting the outcome of the free-throw try are, left to right, Kenny Larson of the Prowlers, Bruce Lucken of Fosston and Dave Gustafson of the Prowlers.

KENNY Larson, who played an outstanding game for the Prowlers in Friday night's 64 to 57 win over Fosston, pivots away from the Greyhounds' fine center, Jim Wheeler (31), after taking a rebound off the offensive board in the second half of play. Larson, in addition to playing a strong defensive game, was the game's high scorer, notching 20 points.

Thieves Win Third in Row over Crookston

The senior hockey Thieves boosted their Northwest hockey league record to three wins and no losses, and hold down first place by a two-game margin, as they defeated the Crookston Pirates, 7 to 3, in a game played at Crookston on Sunday afternoon.

The Crookston Pirates will play a return game against the Thieves on Wednesday night, meeting the locals on the Arena ice.

In Sunday afternoon's game the Thieves held a marked advantage over coach Bud Salem's Pirate squad. With Larry Poole scoring twice, and Dale Wennberg scoring one goal, the Thieves gained a 3 to 2 lead in the 1st period of play. Tony Schmitz and Jerry Welter tallied the Pirates' first period goals.

Larry Poole, midway in the second period, completed a "hat trick" performance, getting a goal at the 9:24 mark. Goals by Eddie Holmes and Wennberg pushed the score to 6 to 2 for the Thieves, and gave coach Wennberg's squad a comfortable "cushion" entering the final period.

In the third period, it was a goal apiece, with Chip Strand, assisted by Wennberg, scoring for the Thieves, and Mark Laliberte tallying for the Pirates. The final twenty minutes of play was enlivened by a short melee between the Thieves' Wennberg and the Pirates' Schmitz, with both players being whistled off the ice and given major penalties.

Rod Collins was credited with 25 stops as guardian of the Thieves' net, while Crookston's Dave Panzer was kept busy by kicking out 56 on-goal shots.

1964 Hunting Season Dates Are Announced

Commissioner Olson Announces Openings For Fall Hunting

Minnesota Conservation Commissioner Wayne Olson today announced the opening dates for the 1964 hunting seasons.

Length of seasons and bag limits will not be announced until late summer and early fall after game surveys reveal population levels of the various species. Winter survival, spring nesting success and other factors combine to influence the quantity and distribution of wild birds and animals, Olson explained.

He said the early announcement of the opening dates this year is in response to numerous requests from sportsmen who must plan their vacations and schedule their hunting trips at the beginning of the year.

Olson emphasized that if game surveys show that closing a season is necessary to protect a species of game bird or animal from undue depletion, the season will be closed even though an opening date has been announced.

Regarding the opening dates this year, the commissioner pointed out that the firearms deer season must open on November 7 in order to provide nine days of hunting with two week ends included. The law provides for a season of no longer than nine days between the dates November 1 to 21.

The squirrel season will again open early in September duplicating last year's successful early opening. The aim is to provide the maximum amount of hunting opportunity in view of the fact that squirrel populations have been high.

Bow and arrow hunters will note that the first archery deer season will open October 3, the first Saturday in October, in keeping with the Department's policy of opening seasons on Saturday.

Season dates for waterfowl and other migratory birds cannot be set until the Secretary of Interior announces the framework for the 1964 regulations.

1964 opening hunting season dates include: September 12, squirrels; Sept. 26, ruffed grouse, sharptail grouse and rabbits.

October 3, deer, bow & arrow (October season); Oct. 3, raccoon (hunting only); Oct. 24, pheasant and Hungarian partridge.

November 7, deer, firearms; Nov. 28, deer, bow & arrow (December season).

Prowler Cagers Win over Fosston 64-57

It was an injury-riddled Prowler basketball squad that broke a four-game losing streak on Friday night by defeating the Fosston Greyhounds, 64 to 57, in a game played on the local floor. Guards Mark Anderson and Rick Jensen were out of action because of leg injuries, and center Bob Olson left the game late in the second period, and did not return to play, because of an ankle injury. And forward Rich Nelson fouled out of the game midway in the fourth period.

The Prowlers will meet the defending regional champions, the Bemidji Lumberjacks, here on Saturday night, Jan. 11. The Stillwater Ponies, recent winners over the Prowlers, invaded the north country on Friday night and scored a 49 to 36 win over Bemidji in a game played on the Bemidji court.

In Friday night's game here the Prowlers, on field goals by Rich Nelson, Tommy Cummings, Ken Larson, and pair of jumpers by Bob Olson, and a free throw by Nelson, raced away to an 11 to 2 lead in the opening minutes of the first period. The Greyhounds, with center Jim Wheeler producing most of the points, pared that lead to 24 to 19 at the end of the first period.

The Prowlers gained a 43 to 31 lead at the intermission, outpointing the Greyhounds, 19 to 12, in the second quarter. In this second period, Mike Benke dropped three field goals into the west basket, and Cummings, who, along with Larson, played the entire game for the locals, added two field goals and a pair of free throws.

And in the third period, with Larson showing remarkable accuracy with his fall-away one-handed toss, the Prowlers outscored the visitors to pull away to a 59 to 41 lead. Larson hoisted in four field goals and a pair of free throws in this third period splurge.

And when Dave Gustafson, scoring from close in, marked up a field goal to open the final period's scoring, the Prowlers held a 20-point lead, 61 to 41. Fosston, with Stu Lade scoring four field goals, and Wheeler, who was playing on a pair of gimpy ankles, added a pair of field goals as coach Stan Otness' District 30 team pared the Prowlers' winning margin to 64 to 57.

Trumpeter Swan Stages Comeback

The trumpeter swan, largest waterfowl on the North American continent and once threatened with extinction, appears to have staged a substantial recovery, according to the U. S. Department of Interior.

The Department's fish and wildlife service reported recently that 300 young trumpeters were reared in the United States in 1963 — the largest number counted since the service began recording the population in 1932.

As recently as 1945 there were only 235 young and adult trumpeters in the country. The hatch of 300 young last year has raised that figure to 800, not counting those in Alaska.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

A Big Dime's Worth

What could well be the hockey bargain of the year is on tap for senior hockey fans this Wednesday when the Crookston Pirates meet the Thieves on the Arena ice in a Northwest league game. The Thieves' management, in an effort to encourage attendance at the senior games, announced that a ten-cent admission will be charged.

It's pretty hard to beat that admission fee, just a dime to watch the Thieves meet Bud Salem's Crookston Pirates. And the Pirates are the club that will perhaps give the locals their toughest opposition for the league title.

While it is true that dimes are hard to come by following the Christmas holidays, all hockey fans must have a couple of nickels or so that can be exchanged for a ticket to Wednesday night's game. Face-off time is scheduled for 8:00 p. m.

The Early Odds

The bookmakers, who are supposed to be "in the know" and who establish the odds on the baseball races for 1964, have made the Los Angeles Dodgers a 3 to 5 favorite to win the National league pennant, and the New York Yankees a 1 to 3 favorite to win the American league pennant.

The Dodgers, because of their pitching and improved hitting, are rated as heavy favorites; and the Yankees, on their record, and the fact that the team will be doing its utmost to make Larry (Yogi) Berra's managerial debut a success, are entitled to their rank as American league favorites.

The Minnesota Twins have been set up as a 5 to 1 shot to win the American league race. There is a hunch by the bookmakers that the Minnesota Twins, with their home run strength, could make some advantageous trades for first-line pitching and become real tough.

I hope some of these anti-long-ball fans will note that the bookies, who do not toss their money around loosely, acknowledge that the Twins have home run strength. And when you speak of the Twins' home-run strength, you mean Harmon Killebrew, Bob Allison, Earl Battey, and Jimmie Hall.

A "Natural"

Received a note from Mrs. Ed (Muriel) Carlson of Detroit Lakes the other day, and with this note was inclosed a clipping taken from the Cleveland, Ohio, Plain Dealer, telling of the golfing exploits of Kit Nordine.

Kit Nordine is the 17-year old daughter of the Jim Nordines, and this past summer she won the Plain Dealer tournament. Kit, who is a senior at Mayfield high school in suburban Cleveland, just moved into women's golf ranks this past summer, and she carded an 86-18 for a net 68, her lifetime low, to win ythe tournament.

That she should develop into a top-notch golfer is no surprise as she is her dad's favorite pupil. And, of course, local golfers know that Jimmy Nordine, the Karlstad native, was one of the state's finest golfers. Jimmy at one time was a member of the local high school faculty, and played as a member of the local club. Later, after going to law school and joining a law firm in Duluth, he was rated as the best golfer at the head of the lakes. Jim a number of times was the winner of the Northland open tournament, one of the state's premier golf events.

And so it's congratulations to Kit Nordine, and to her parents, the Jimmy Nordines.

Lincoln 6 Breaks Even in Two Tilts

Playing a Region Eight hockey conference doubleheader here on Saturday night, coach George Schlieff's Prowlers recorded a win and a draw. In the opener, which faced-off at 6:30 p. m. the Prowlers edged out the Indus Trojans, winning by a 3-2 score; and against the Williams Wolves, in a game that went into an overtime period, the locals were held to a 3-all tie.

The Prowlers will meet coach Oscar Almquist's Roseau Rams, the defending Region Eight champions, on the Arena ice here on Friday, Jan. 10. On Monday, Jan. 13, the Prowlers will travel to Hallock for a conference game against coach Ken Wellen's Polar Bears.

In Saturday evening's game against Indus, the Prowlers, on Dennis Sullivan's 20-foot shot that found the laces in the south net, gained a 1 to 0 lead at the 2:36 mark of the first period. But the Trojans, at the 8:52 mark, knotted the game when Duane Dobbs, from the left point, beat goalie Dave Erickson.

At the 8:31 mark of the second period, the visitors gained the lead when rangy center-ice man Bill Budris, with Rod Bergstrom assisting, scored from close in. But that lead was short-lived as Pat Munt, getting a pass from Monte LeMoine, found the north net on a shot from the right point.

The Prowlers racked up the game-winning goal at the 7:02 mark of the third period, with Jimmy Anderson, on an assist from Don Mathieu, beating the Indus goalie on a hard drive from 25 feet out.

An aggressive group of hockey Wolves from Williams forced the Prowlers to make a come-from-behind effort in order to gain a 3-all tie.

The Prowler reserves and B squad opened the game against Williams, playing the first two period, and the Williams club, after being held to 1 to 1 score in the first period, tallied a pair of goals in the second period to take a 3 to 1 lead. Coach Schlieff then sent the Prowler "regulars" into the game in the third period and on goals by John Hellquist, who was taking a turn at wing in the absence of John Weigelt who was injured in the opening game, and Don Mathieu tied the game at 3-all.

The Prowlers held a marked advantage in game-control in the third period, and in the overtime period, but were unable to score the go-ahead tally.

State Traffic Death Toll in 1963 Hits 796

A record 796 persons died in Minnesota traffic accidents during 1963, but the picture was not all bad. The number of accidents was way down.

There were 6,000 fewer highway accidents last year than in 1962.

The year's toll was 91 more than the number of persons killed in Minnesota accidents in 1962 and [illegible] more than the previous record in 1961.

"At first glance, Minnesota's traffic record would indicate a disastrous turn," said Garnet E. Hall, state highway safety director. "But a heartening fact is that during the past 12 months the state has had nearly a 10 pr cent reduction in all traffic accidents."

The accidents that did occur caused more personal and property damage.

Hall said Minnesota in 1962 had 4.8 fatalities for every 100 million miles of motor vehicle travel. In 1963 there were 5.1 fatalities by the same standard. The national average for the year is 5.3

Hall said one of the factors accounting for the increase in severity is an increase in the average speed of drivers.

He noted that modern vehicles and modern highways are designed for high speed travel. Hall added, however, that when this speed combines with poor driving behavior, the increased force causes greater damage.

The highway safety director said his division will increase its driver education efforts this year and will review current administrative procedures.

"We are looking closer at our drivers license program," he said, "and giving greater concern to the driver evaluation procedures in determining what administrative action is to be taken against the convicted traffic violator and the accident prone driver."

Named trustees were Warren A. Saetre, Warren, Marshall county attorney; Chester Durda, Minneapolis, assistantHennepin county apolis, assistant Hennepin county attorney, and Malcolm MacKenzie, St. Peter, Nicollet county attorney.

IFYE Program Is Open To Rural Area Young People

Offers Opportunity To Travel Overseas, Learn To Know Farm Families

Five or six months abroad, living and working with foreign families and making enduring international friendships are being offered to Minnesota rural youths.

Rural young people, 20 to 30 years old, are urged to make long-range plans and investigate becoming an International Farm Youth Exchange (IFYE) delegate in 1965.

The purpose of the IFYE program, according to Miss Carolyn Offerdahl, Pennington county home agent, is to increase international understanding at the grass roots level. Delegates from the United States learn about life in foreign lands by actually living the way their people do.

Candidates for the program must be mature young people with a farm background and at least a high school education. They must be in excellent mental and physical health. They should be ready to spend considerable time on language study and in intensive advance study of the geography, history, culture and agriculture of both the U. S. and the country they will visit.

Upon return home, IFYE delegates speak to various groups about their experiences in their host countries.

Additional information on the IFYE program may be obtained from the county extension office. Application forms will be availagle Application forms will be available in May.

Last year Minnesota had three IFYE delegates—one to Switzerland, another to Wales and England and a third to Jamaica. Since 1948, more than 3,000 young people have participated in this exchange between the U. S. and 63 other countries.

Federal Taxes in Minnesota Total $1.6 Billion in '63

Individuals in State Paid over $1.1 Billion Income Taxes During Year

Individuals and corporations in Minnesota paid $1,687,000,000 in taxes to the federal government in 1963, George Leihert, district director of the Internal Revenue Service, reported today.

The total exceeded by $73 million the amount paid in 1962 and was the largest in history.

The sum was equal to about $560 for each man, woman and child in the state.

Individual taxpayers paid nearly $1.14 billion in 1963 compared with nearly $1.08 billion in 1962.

The tax on corporations in the state jumped from $345 million in 1962 to $361 million in 1963.

Minnesotans consumed about the same amount of intoxicating beverages last year as they did in 1962, the report showed.

The tax collected on beer each year was $34 million but the tax on distilled spirits decreased from $3.7 million to $3.5 million in the past year.

Both men and women bought about the same amount of taxable jewelry during the two years, the report indicated. The tax paid in 1962 was $3,841,000 compared with $3,858,000 in 1963.

The taxes collected at the retail level on furs declined slightly, from $586,000 in 1962 to $526,000 in 1963.

Taxes paid on cosmetics increased from $2.2 million to $2.5 million.

The federal tax on gasoline increased from $31 million to $32 million.

Women Officers Sought by Army

Women's Corps to Add 75 Officers to Staff

The Women's Army Corps has officer vacancies which must be filled as quickly as qualified young women can be commissioned.

A vigorous campaign to bring the WAC officer strength up to authorized requirements was announced by Lieutenant General Charles G. Dodge, Commanding General, Fifth U. S. Army.

Immediate goal of the campaign is the commissioning of 75 college women for enrollment in an officers' training course beginning in February.

Women's Army Corps officers do literally hundreds of jobs. Their assignments include positions with almost every branch of the Army. These jobs within the framework of the One Army organization are basically the counterparts of executive jobs throughout scores of civilian organizations.

To make application, or obtain more information, those interested are asked by the Army to get in touch with the WAC recruiters at the Army recruiting main station in Minneapolis.

Olivier and Simone Signoret top the cast of the Venice Festival prize-winning film in which a schoolteacher is accused of indecent assault by the beautiful young student he has rebuffed. Hugh Griffith and Terence Stamp are also starred.

Editorials . . .

"All real and wholesome enjoyments possible to man have been just as possible to him since first he was made of the earth as they are now; and they are possible to him chiefly in peace. To watch the corn grow, and the blossoms set; to draw hard breath over plowshare or spade; to read, to think, to love, to hope, to pray—these are the things that make men happy. Now and then a wearied king, or a tormented slave, found out where the true kingdoms of the world were, and possessed himself, in a furrow or two of gardeng round, of a truly infinite dominion."

—John Ruskin

A Thankless Task

People who partake in local government soon find out, if they didn't know it previously, that they are engaged in a very thankless task. The small financial remuneration comes nowhere close to adequate compensation for the time and effort devoted to serving the community.

On Tuesday there will be the largest turnover of aldermen in the Thief River Falls city council that there has been for a number of yyears. Taking office will be four new aldermen on the seven-man council which directs the affairs of our city. They are all good men who have the best interests of the city at heart, and this is to their credit.

Joining Dr. A. E. Jacobson, Arthur B. Christianson and Roy Jorgenson on the council will be Robert Carlson, Lowell Swenson, Ambrose Wysoski and John McGinley. They will have a number of problems to face in their coming two-year terms, and they will undoubtedly receive more criticism than thanks. This will not be because they won't do a good job, but rather because such is the inequity of human nature.

Vacating council posts will be Roy Lee, Elmer B. Benson, Milton Reierson and Donald M. Olson. In varying lengths of service, these men have also given much of their time and talents to determine what is best for the city and how to go about accomplishing these ends.

While it may seem unfair to single out an individual for special recognition, Roy Lee is deserving of such comment. Appointed to fill an unexpired term, he was later elected three times, serving as the senior member in point of service upon retiring from the council. During much of that time he has been council chairman.

Persons sitting in on council sessions, as councilmen, spectators or presenting items for discussion, could not help but be impressed with the manner in which he presided. He was fair and impartial in permitting testimony and he maintained a business-like order which is too often lacking among smaller groups.

Much credit must be given to Lee for improved efficiency in city operations which is reflected in a better local tax situation than might be expected with current inflationary trends. His attenion to detail and his thoughts for the future weighed heavy in many council decisions.

To the new council goes this newspaper's best wishes for success in the coming two years. There is one thing we would like to see from the next council. That is a determined effort to provide for staggered terms on the council to replace the present situation of all councilmen being elected in the same year.

Supporting the Unemployed

It has been said, without a great deal of untruth, that there are two kinds of people in this world—those that are willing to work and those that are willing to let them. Under our government's unemployment program, those who are willing to let others work are providing quite a burden on the workers.

Recent figures released by the Minnesota Department of Employment Security headed by Frank T. Starkey indicate that an estimated total of $39,260,000 was paid to unemployed workers in Minnesota during 1963. No matter which way you look at it, that's a substantial sum of money. It is, in fact, 6.5 per cent higher than the total payments in 1962.

Most people would agree that in certain cases there is need for an unemployment program. The fault lies not in the use of the laws providing for unemployment compensation, but rather in the mis-use of these laws. Even those most devoted to the program would have to admit that it is being abused—perhaps far more than many people realize.

Payments last year averaged $29.80 per week—far from a living wage, true, but none-the-less a subsidy for doing nothing. It has been our contention, and will be until proven otherwise, that nearly everyone who wants to work can find a job. It may not be what he wants, where he wants or at the salary he wants, but it will be gainful employment.

Just how far we can go with our unemployment program is an unknown quantity. The Minnesota unemployment fund has dropped from $134 million in 1954 to less than $29 million at the end of 1963. In 1954 the amount of reserve per covered worker was $227 while now it is only $37.

Commissioner Starkey had this to say:

"The consistent drain on the reserve fund during the past nine years is attributable to several factors. Among them are persistently high levels of unemployment, even during periods of relative prosperity; the general increase in the length of time individuals are unemployed; the fact that while wages have increased considerably, only the first $3,000 of wages are taxable (less than 60 per cent of total wages); and numerous other factors relating to the failure of the contribution provisions of the law to yield sufficient revenues to replace benefits paid."

In other words, more people are now unemployed for longer periods of time and not enough money is being paid in to cover what is being paid out in benefits. How long would private enterprise last under such a situation?

Personal Reflections

The following item crossed the editorial desk recently and is deemed worthy of stealing for publication here:

Isn't it Funny—When the other fellow takes a long time to do something, he's slow. But when I take a long time to do something, I'm thorough. When the other fellow doesn't do it, he's too lazy. But when I don't do it, I'm too busy. When the other fellow goes ahead and does something without being told, he's overstepping his bounds. But when I go ahead and do something without being told, that's initiative! When the other fellow states his side of a question strongly, he's bullheaded. But when I state a side of a question strongly, I'm being firm. When the other fellow overlooks a few of the rules of etiquette, he's rude. But when I skip a few of the rules, I'm original. When that other fellow does something that pleases the boss, he's polishing the brass. But when I do something that pleases the boss, that's cooperation. When the other fellow gets ahead, he sure had the lucky breaks. But when I manage to get ahead, Man! Hard work did that! Funny isn't it—or is it!

Trucks and Rails

For the second successive year, revenues for truckers operating under authority issued by the Interstate Commerce commission have exceeded the freight revenues received by the nation's railroads. Total revenue for the trucking industry in 1963 is estimated at $818 billion, according to John M. Akers, president of the American Trucking association.

Revenues of regulated motor carriers do not fully reflect the dominant position of trucking in the domestic transportation field, Akers stated in his annual report. They accounted for 116 billion ton-miles, or about one-third of the total intercity truck ton-miles. The balance was handled by exempt interstate, intrastate and private carriers. Truck registrations rose to a record 1.6 million in 1963.

This means that while the railroad industry has been waging a losing battle with the ICC in an attempt to lower freight rates, the trucking industry has been making great strides forward. The railroads, with huge investments in trackage and equipment, have been forced to stand by while the truckers move freight over the nation's highway system, taking advantage of roads built by the nation's taxpayers.

While the trucking industry should not be criticized for taking advantage of its opportunities—and indeed serving a transportation need—it is true that the industry does not contribute its share of the cost for maintaining the highway system. At least it does not contribute its share in relation to the benefits derived and use received from the roads.

In his report, president Akers had some interesting comment:

> "This generally optimistic outlook for the future is threatened by several ominous clouds on the horizon. The industry is now engaged in negotiations with the Teamsters union which could have seriously adverse effects upon the traffic and earnings of the industry. This is especially true because of increased rate competition with the railroads which makes it difficult or impossible in many instances to pass on cost increases to shippers. Higher for-hire rates may also divert tonnage to private carriage.
> "Of equal concern to the trucking industry are the continuing efforts by the railroads to secure freedom from minimum rate control now exercised by the Interstate Commerce Commission. If the Commission's power to restrain cut-throat competition is weakened there is little doubt that the railroads are prepared to intensify their economic warfare on their competitors to the financial detriment of all modes."

The trucker and rail controversy should be resolved on a basis of merit with as little federal interference as possible.

Interesting Opinions . . .

"The longer I live, and the older I get, the less I find the narrow clash of political ideologies meaningful, and the more I find that the struggle between these opposites reflects a large part of what life is all about, since life is essentially a moral struggle."

U. S. Secretary of Labor

Dell Christianson Is Speaker at Rotary Meeting

Peace Corps Experience In West Pakistan Is Told to Rotarians

Dell Christianson, recently returned to this community after a two-year term of service with the Peace Corps in West Pakistan, was guest speaker Monday noon at the regular meeting of the Thief River Falls Rotary club in the Elks club rooms.

Christianson presented his field work in the foreign service, telling of his experiences and his opinions of the program. He said that he felt one of the most important aspects of the Peace Corps was the information on the people and their customs which volunteers could bring back to the United States. In the early stages of the program at least, he believes, this is of greater value than the work done in other countries by Peace Corps representatives.

After concluding the summary of his Peace Corps experience, he answered a number of questions asked by club members. He said he believed that work being done by missionaries in the country surpassed the efforts of government representatives.

Pakistan is a country operating on the class system of upper and lower class people. About 200 families control approximately 85 per cent of the nation's wealth. Western ideas and influence are evident in the larger cities but have made little impression in the smaller cities and rural areas.

Survey Committee Views Combining of School Districts

Discussion of the desirability of forming a new enlarged school district for Grygla, Gatzke and part of Skime took place Friday at the Grygla school, according to C. L. Stapleton, Bemidji, Beltrami county superintendent of schools.

Survey committees from the three counties adopted a resolution asking that ". . . the survey committees of Beltrami, Marshall and Roseau counties consider the evidence for reorganizing the district of Grygla, Gatzke and part of Skime into one district and that each survey committee prepare its recommendation for a tentative report."

Based on the latest valuation and enrollment figures, Stapleton said, it was brought out that there is sufficient valuation and students in this area to provide a good high school. Steps would be taken to establish a high school if three areas were combined into one large district.

Figures prepared by the state department of education show that the area had 1962 assessed valuation of $572,713 and that enrollment based on the 1962-63 school year showed 233 students in grades 1-6 and 223 students in grades 7-12.

A number of people at the meeting expressed the view that too many of the high school students are now forced to ride great distances at the present time. One student has a 70-mile one-way ride on the bus to attend high school. Opinion expressed by the board members present was that the elementary school at Gatzke would continue to operate as an attendance center for grades 1-6.

B. N. Hendrickson, St. Paul, consultant on school district reorganization, was present to address the group on reorganization procedure. In addition to the survey members present, about 40 interested school board, PTA and citizen's committee members were in attendance.

Woodworking Is Offered Among Evening Classes

Adult Courses Start Monday at Vocational School; Eleven Offered

Persons interested in woodworking but lacking the tools and "know how" are encouraged to enroll in the woodworking class of the adult evening school, according to Arnt Aune, director of the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school.

"By enrolling you will have an opportunity to learn the hand skills and basic operations which produce a finely-finished wood project," Aune said. Class members may work on individual projects during the course. Fee for the 20-hour course is $8 plus the cost of materials.

First session of the woodworking class will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the woodworking shop at the school. It will be devoted to registration, project planning and demonstrations by Richard Kotchevar, Lincoln high school industrial arts instructor, who will conduct the classes.

Eleven classes will be offered in the adult evening schedule which will begin on Monday. Registration will be held Monday evening for beginning Spanish and farm tractor maintenance.

Other courses opening Tuesday will be beginning typing, automotive electrical and beginning sketching and painting. Wednesday registration will be for classes in beginning welding and beginning knitting. Opening on Thursday will be classes in speed reading, advanced knitting and advanced farm welding.

Most classes will run for an eight-week period with fees ranging from $12 for beginning welding to $4 for farm tractor maintenance, beginning and advanced knitting. Fees do not include textbooks, workbooks or other materials required or desired for use in the courses.

Land O' Lakes Has Banquet Tuesday For Area Growers

Possibilities for development of the Land O'Lakes turkey processing plant in Thief River Falls into a year-around operation for further processing were presented Tuesday evening. Comment was made by Land O'Lakes officials at the annual banquet for turkey growers in the area which was held at the Eagles hall.

Slides were shown of the further processing plant operated by Land O'Lakes at Albert Lea for about the past five years. The plant holds turkeys in cold storage for processing into turkey rolls, cut-up or boneless turkeys, thus providing an opportunity for marketing throughout the year.

Marian Augustine, director from District 17 of Land O'Lakes, noted that the Albert Lea plant is now operating near capacity. Further expansion of the further processing program could well extend into Thief River Falls to complement the eviscerating plant here.

"Sense of ownership is very evident to turkey growers in this area," Augustine said, "as indicated by support of the hatchery, eviscerating plant and Land O'Lakes marketing organization. Further processing will be dependent upon the interst and efforts of producers in this area."

John Lang, manager of the local processing plant, urged continued cooperation of producers in the area. He noted that establishment of a further processing plant for a cut-up and roll turkeys in this community could mean a plant with 150 employees on a year-round basis.

Dr. Crane Speaks

Dr. Frank M. Crane, director of research for Land O'Lakes, reviewed the growing and marketing situation and presented the projected outlook for 1964. He told producers that Land O'Lakes in 1962 ranked 257th among the top 500 business and industrial corporations in the United States on total sales. The cooperative had sales of $232 million and showed a net profit of $8 million for the year.

"Based on prices received for turkeys, feed costs, per capita consumption and numbers of turkeys produced," Dr. Crane said, "it does not appear that there will be any large increase in turkey production. It is estimated that this increase will not exceed two per cent for 1964.

The turkey industry can expect an increasing amount of professional application of genetic principles in the development and improvement of certain strains and crosses of turkeys," he added. "It appears that the heavy white bird will eventually take over the turkey industry.

Otter Tail Co. Cuts Home Heating Rate

Power Firm Announces Slash Effective Jan. 6

New lower rates for Otter Tail Power company customers using electricity for home heating were announced this week by spokesmen for the company.

The new rate, which became effective January 6, is the third major reduction in two years for electric space heating and will enable electricity to compete even more favorably with other types of fuels.

Under the new rate, Otter Tail's electric home heating customers will be billed the standard residential rate for the first 200 KWH of energy each month, plus 1.5 cents per KWH for all energy in excess on the first 200. Previously, the standard residential rate was applied to the first 500 KWH before the 1.5 cent charge took effect.

The new rate will benefit all customers of Otter Tail who now use electricity for heating their homes. Due to continuing efforts to lower costs for electric heating, the company anticipates the addition of more and more installations of this type on its lines.

The number of customers now using electricity for space heating purposes on the Otter Tail system has now grown to nearly 500.

Kathryn Bucholz Bride of Clarence Wangsnes

First Baptist church of Thief River Falls was the scene of the December 25 wedding of Kathryn Buchholz and Clarence Wangsnes, both of this city. Elder Schwarz of the Seventh-day Adventist church read the service. The altar was decorated with red and white carnations and white gladioli as Mrs. Ronald Dalzell played wedding music from Lohengrin and Mendelssohn. Mrs. S. E. Pollman sang "O Perfect Love" as the couple knelt at the altar.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Buchholz of Fosston and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wangsnes of Thief River Falls.

Miss Buchholz was given in marriage by her father. Her attire was a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace over taffeta, with white rose lace at the bodice, scalloped neckline with rhinestone accents, and tapered sleeves. It was fashioned by her mother. Her cascade bouquet was of white roses and red feathered carnations and gold Christmas balls, with holly accents. Her elbow-length veil was lace edged and held by a satin crown with pearl-beaded trim.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Art Kolden of Middle River, the bride's sister. Miss Delpha Anderson of Minneapolis was the bridesmaid. Their gowns featured red bodices and white velveteen skirts with red trim and were also fashioned by Mrs. Buchholz.

Harold Wangsnes of Goodridge attended his brother as best man. Walter Wangsnes of this city, brother of the groom, was groomsman. Ushering the guests were Darrell Glass of Red Lake Falls, brother-in-law of the groom, and Glen Nelson of this city.

The bride's mother wore a crepe dress in tones of blue and gray, with white gloves and black hat. The mother of the groom wore a dark blue taffeta print with black accessories and both had corsages of red and white carnations.

A wedding reception was given for about 125 guests by the parents of the bride in the church parlors. Red and white carnations and Christmas decorations decorated the serving table. Serving the cake which she had also baked and decorated was the groom's sister, Mrs. Darrell Glass. At the punch bowl were Mrs. Florence Borg of Holt, and Mrs. L. Hunrtson of Greenbush. Waitresses were Marlo Borg of Holt and Wendy Schwarz of Thief River Falls. Ladies of the Adventist church Dorcas society assisted in the kitchen. At the guest book was Mrs. Glenn Nelson of this city, while Mrs. Bud Buchholz of Gentilly, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Harold Wangsnes, sister-in-law of the groom, arranged the gifts. Guests were in attendance from Gentilly, Middle River, Holt, Goodridge, Greenbush, Fosston, Red Lake Falls, and other area towns.

The bride is a graduate of Fosston high school, class of 1962, and of the school of practical nursing at the area vocational school of this city, and is an LPN, employed at Northwestern Hospital here. Mr. Wangsnes graduated from the Morris high school in 1955 and from the area vocational school auto body mechanics course and is employed at the Northern Chevrolet company.

Lilly Ann Lundgren Wed To Bennie Hanson Dec. 21

Miss Lilly Ann Lundgren of Thief River Falls became the bride of Bennie Hanson of Newfolden on Saturday, December 21, at 8 p. m. at the Evangelical Free Church in Thief River Falls. Rev. Clifford Anderson of Newfolden performed the double-ring ceremony in the presence of approximately 100 friends and relatives of the couple.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She chose a floor-length gown of white taffeta, featuring a chapel-length train, scoop neckline and long sleeves which formed points over her hands. The bodice and front skirt panel were enhanced with pearl embroidery and sequins, with appliqued lace for added interest. Her illusion veil was caught to a rhinestone tiara. The only jewelry worn by the bride was a pearl necklace. She carried a white Bible with cascades of white and red carnations accented with holly leaves. The "something old, something new" tradition was carried out in her costume.

Maid of honor was Dorothy Hanson of Moorhead, sister-in-law of the groom. The two bridesmaids were DeElla Hanson of Newfolden, sister-in-law of the groom, and Nancy Olson, Superior, Wis., cousin of the bride. They wore identical street-length dresses of red brocade. The pleated dresses featured three-quarter length sleeves, fitted necklines, and waistlines accented with small bows. Their circle headpieces were of brocade and net, and they wore white gloves, white shoes, and a necklace of cultured pearls, a gift of the bride, and carried star-shaped bouquets of red and white carnations.

Carol Lundgren of Coon Rapids, a niece of the bride, and Kristi Hanson, Fargo, N. D., a niece of the groom, were flower girls. They wore identical dresses to those worn by the bridesmaids. Their circular hats were of red brocade and net, and they wore white gloves and shoes and a gold heart pendant with cultured pearl attached, their gift from the bride. They carried red and white carnations in baskets, with accents of Christmas balls and holly leaves.

Best man was Alfred Hanson of Moorhead, brother of the groom; Floyd Hanson, Newfolden, brother of the groom, and Stanley Olson, Superior, Wis., cousin of the bride, were groomsmen. They all wore white dinner jackets, black trousers and bow ties, and boutonnieres of red carnations. Ushering duties were carried out by Verdie Lundgren, Coon Rapids, and Ardell Lundgren, Coon Rapids, brothers of the bride. Lighting the candles were Richard Lundgren, Coon Rapids, nephew of the bride, and Marlan Bjornrud of Newfolden, nephew of the groom. They all wore white dinner jackets, black trousers and bow ties. Their boutonnieres were red carnations.

Curtis Lundgren, Coon Rapids, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer, carrying the rings on a pillow of white satin. His attire was like that worn by the men attendants.

Carolyn Trontvet, Thief River Falls, presided at the organ for the traditional processional and recessional music and accompanied Floyd Hanson, brother of the groom, who sang, "O Promise Me," and Dorothy Hanson, sister-in-law of the groom, who sang, "Whither Thou Goest" before the ceremony. Floyd Hanson also sang "The Wedding Prayer" as the couple knelt at the altar.

The bride's mother wore a silver brocade dress with matching jacket and black accessories, and Mrs. Hanson wore a green and blue knit suit with blue accessories. Both wore corsages of red and white carnations.

Church decorations included two Christmas trees and candelabra. A bouquet of poinsettias graced the piano and an arrangement of white carnations and Christmas balls was atop the organ.

A reception was given by the bride's parents in the church parlors, with 100 guests attending, and Mrs. L. G. Helland as hostess. Theda Stakust of this city, cousin of the bride, was in charge of the guest book. The cross-shaped wedding cake was cut and served by Mrs. Lewis Fredricks of Karlstad and Mrs. Eldon Milander, Warroad, aunts of the bride.

At the coffee service were Mrs. Ernest Hanson of Newfolden, sister-in-law of the groom, and Mrs. Ardell Lundgren, Coon Rapids, sister-in-law of the bride. Assisting with the gifts were Mrs. Rudy Peterson and Joan Norwig, both of Thief River Falls. Waitresses were Mary Jo Milander of Warroad, cousin of the bride, and Judy Hanson, Mountain Iron, and Bonnie Bjornrud, Newfolden, niece of the groom. Assisting with serving were Mrs. Merle Bjornrud, Newfolden, the groom's sister, and Mrs. Ralph Hanson, Mountain Iron, sister-in-law of the groom.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hermes Lundgren and is a 1960 graduate of the Warroad high school. She has been employed at the Northwestern Hospital in this city. The groom is the son of Mrs. Tyna Hanson of Newfolden. He completed his high school education while serving in the Air Force.

For travel, the bride wore a white wool sheath dress and red accessories. The couple is at home on a farm near Newfolden where the groom is engaged in grain farming.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were from Coon Rapids, Moorhead, Mountain Iron, Brainerd, and other nearby towns, and from Fargo, N. D., Omaha, Nebr.; Hollywood, Calif., and Superior, Wis.

Marshall ACP Fights Waste of Resources

Plans to combat serious waste of soil and water resources in Marshall county by means of the Agricultural Conservation Program in 1964 were developed by farm leaders and experts in a meeting in Warren recently. Every dollar available for conservation must be put to best possible use, the development group recognized, if the county is to stop the waste of resources needed for preservation of farming and business and the feeding of future generations.

Flooding from springtime water runoff, stream-bank erosion, wind erosion, silting up of reservoirs, and compaction of soil are among the destructive actions that still take place despite progress in use of good vegetative cover on the land and construction of terraces, dams, and other mechanical measures, it was brought out in reports and discussion.

The ACP development group is made up of the ASC county and community committeemen, supervisors of the county's soil conservation districts, who are Kenneth Dufault, Orville Elseth, George Hill, Richard Field, Leonard Yutrzenka, Ole Prestebak, Grant Satre, Peter Aune, Lyndon Magnusen and Oliver Howland, and representatives of the agricultural agencies—Soil Conservation Service, Forest Service, Extension Service, State Game Department and Farmer's Home Administration. Members of the ACP development group include the ASC county committee, Marcel Dahl, chairman, Francis Hanck, Arthur Vansickle; Conrad Larson, Forest Service; and John Polley, SCS technician.

The 1964 ACP program will not be radically different from 1963, but will be pointed somewhat more directly toward control of excessive water runoff. Public funds are provided through ACP for a share of the cost of conservation work that would not be feasible for farmers to carry out by themselves in their own interest. Much conservation work requires heavy outlay of cash and offers more benefit to the general public than to the land owner or operator.

However, farmers participating in the Agricultural Conservation Program bear a large part (averaging about 50 per cent) of the cost of the approved practices. Most farmers also do a great deal of conservation work without any cost-sharing assistance just as a matter of good farming. ACP helps carry out objectives of the soil conservation districts and has the technical and educational assistance of the Soil Conservation Service, Forest Service, Extension Service, State Game department, and Farmer's Home Administration.

In Marshall county last year, farmers signed up for conservation work costing roughly $187,744, with about half of the cost to be borne by farmers themselves and half by public funds through ACP. Practices designed to conserve water and to dispose of excess water were carried out on 131 farms. Other important practices included establishment and improvement of vegetative cover on cropland and in orchards, and were carried out on about 342 farms.

Turkey Growers Hear of Further Processing Plans

"Many new ideas and products are being developed in the field of further processing. Turkey rolls, turkey roasts, and boned-and-stuffed turkeys are apparently the products that the housewife is interested in purchasing.

"The turkey grower must be in a position so that he can obtain the very best possible poults produced from a modern, up-to-date breeding program. He must have access to a top quality feed that will result in maximum growth with the greatest feed efficiency. He also must be able to process his turkeys through a plant using the latest equipment.

"Processing plants equipped for further processing will be in a position to pay a higher price for turkeys. The turkey grower will also want to be associated with a place where he can be sure that the birds will be marketed for the highest possible price. In most instances, the turkey grower will want to be part of a program in which he will have an opportunity to voice his own ideas and thoughts," he concluded.

Ted Christgau, superintendent of procurement plants for the cooperative, was also a speaker at the banquet which was attended by approximately 150 producers and special guests. Gordon Sillerud served as master of ceremonies for the program.

Myles Efteland of Thief River Falls was reelected and George Erickson was elected to succeed Martin Hellund of Roseau for three-year terms on the board of the Northern Turkey Council of Land O'Lakes. Others on the board are Lyle Thompson, Strathcona, president; Pete Stauffnecker, Greenbush, secretary; Henry Williams, Thief River Falls; and Conley Darst, Greenbush.

Public Opinion

Is there any way that I can get away from the "dog nuisance?" I live on a corner and I have dogs from all directions—big ones, little ones, and medium. They make life miserable for me much of the time. I live in close proximity to a church which holds Sunday and Wednesday school.

One of these dogs, a large Irish setter, is very friendly, loves children, but some of the little ones are not so happy over the friendship of these dogs. Oh yes, the Irish setter is a friendly cuss; has a large black Labrador for a pal and I'm often called to the back door of my house and while I'm trying to tell the children, "It's not my dog but I don't believe he will hurt you," by the time I get that far, the front doorbell is ringing with the same story.

Now I am not against folks having dogs. If they like dogs, well and good; it's their privilege, but let them keep them in their own yard and they can enjoy them. But it's just as much my privilege to not have dogs spraying my shrubs and leaving their calling cards all over the lawn and causing trouble.

I read in the paper that folks must keep dogs on their own premises. I called the police one Sunday when dogs were here and they came promptly. Dogs were glad to see them. I opened the door and told the officer that was the dog I called about, but he let the dog go and told me "I read his tag but it's the wrong number".

If I knew who owned the dog I'd call on him, but maybe it would be simpler for one to "season" up some hamburger and give him a good meal of it. I'd rather be law-abiding, but this is my home. We pay taxes and I have a right to enjoy it so you see how I shall have to act to take care of the dog problem, unless someone can come up with a better idea!

Well, I guess I've put my problem up for a little sympathy if I get nothing more. Said dogs are just now (4) in the alley inspecting the garbage situation. This is enough.

Prowler Sextet Defeats RLF 6-0

The hockey Prowlers added two points to their Region Eight conference standings on Tuesday evening by scoring a 6 to 0 win over the Red Lake Falls Eagles in a game played on the Arena ice.

On Friday night the Prowlers will meet the Roseau Rams on the local ice; and on Monday night coach George Schlieff's squad will make the jaunt to Hallock for a game against the Hallock Bears.

The Prowlers' "production" line of Don Mathieu, Elroy Frolland, and John Weigelt, accounted for five of the six goals scored in Tuesday night's game against the Eagles. John Hellquist's solo rush, which resulted in a goal, accounted for the sixth Prowler tally. Weigelt and Mathieu, with two goals and two assists apiece, each added four points to their invidual scoring records.

Coach Schlieff's squad gained control of the game in the first period when they scored three goals on the Eagles' Jim Audette. Don Mathieu, with Weigelt setting up the play, scored at the 1:21 mark; and at the 7:04 mark, with Jim Anderson flipping a clearing-out pass to Mathieu, and Mathieu, after carrying the puck into the Eagles' zone, passing to Weigelt, who pulled the trigger. And Mathieu and Frolland, the Prowlers' co-captains, combined for a neat goal at the 9:56 mark.

In the second period, Weigelt banged in a rebound off Mathieu's on-goal shot to score at 0:10; and then, at the 5:18 mark, hustling Johnny Hellquist stickhandled through the Red Lake Falls defense for a close-in shot.

Receipts Hit $1.7 Million, Annual Meeting Is Told

The Minnesota State fair showed record receipts during its 10-day run last fall and produced record operating gain, John E. Libby, secretary-general manager, reported to the State Agricultural Society Tuesday in St. Paul.

Receipts for the fiscal year ended Nov. 30 totaled $1,730,073.64, Libby said. Operating gains reached $279,704.24, despite record operating costs.

Libby gave his report at the 105th meeting of the society, parent organization of the fair.

Previous record receipts of $1,567,016.93 came in 1962 and the best prior operating gain was $252,796.38 in 1950.

Operating costs in 1963 totaled $1,597,959.11, compared with the previous high of $1,510,537.72 in 1962. Largest single cost item was $247,652.17 for 1963 premiums.

The official 1963 attendance was 1,181,845, second only to 1958 when turnstiles registered 1,193,661 admissions.

Newfolden Wins Soo Line Tourney

Tips Lake Bronson 74-56 in Championship Finals

Coach Frank Kahoutek's Newfolden Nordics won the Soo Line basketball tournament held at Strandquist by scoring a 74 to 56 win over the Lake Bronson Braves in the championship finals on Saturday night. In a first-round game on Friday night Newfolden scored a decisive 74 to 23 win over the Strandquist Warriors.

In the championship tilt, coach Jerry Furuseth's Lake Bronson team, with Wally Sele doing the scoring, moved into a 6 to 2 lead. The Nordics overcame that lead to gain a one-point margin, 14 to 13, at the end of the first period. And, with Jerry Strandquist pacing the attack with eight points, the Newfolden squad moved into a 28 to 22 lead at the intermission.

The third period found the Nordics erupting for 25 points as team sifted through the Lake Bronson zone defense for numerous close-in shots. In the final period, both teams scored well, with Newfolden holding a one-point edge, 21 to 20.

The Nordics exhibited a well-balanced attack, with four players scoring in double figures. Ken Carlson led the Nordics with 18 points, followed by Verne Hagenbeck with 17 points, Jerry Strandquist with 16 points, and Terry Strandquist with 15 points. Burly Wally Sele gained the game's high-point honors with 21 points.

Newfolden will meet the Baudette Bears at Newfolden on Friday evening.

One of the Busiest Weeks

After somewhat of a lull during the Christmas holidays, sports activities will be in full swing this week. And a varied program of events is on the calendar for the fans.

Tonight, Wednesday, there is a high school wrestling match at the Lincoln high school gymnasium, with the Ada Vikings meeting coach Al Shaff's Prowlers. The B squad preliminary matches will start at 6:30 p. m., with the varsity matches slated for 7:30 p. m.

And also tonight, at the Arena rink, the senior hockey Thieves will be entertaining the Crookston Pirates in a Northwest hockey league game. Admission to this game is one dime, one-tenth of a dollar. This is, unquestionably the week's athletic bargain.

On Friday night coach Oscar Almquist and his Region Eight hockey champions, the Roseau Rams, will invade the Arena for an important game against the Prowlers.

And on Saturday night another Region Eight champion will be here when coach Bun Fortier and his Bemidji Lumberjacks face coach Jack Junker's cagers in the high school gymnasium.

It all adds up to plenty of entertainment, and excitement.

Paul's Trunk

The sports information department of Dartmouth University at Hanover, N. H., are getting quite a charge out of the fact that freshman halfback Paul Klungness has not received the footlocker trunk that was shipped to Hanover in August. You see, the trunk contains Paul's clothes.

Peter Prichard, who also attends Dartmouth, shipped the trunk for Paul.

States a press release issued by the Dartmouth sports info department: "Is there a thief in Thief River Paul Klungness, a quiet, modest towhead on coach Earl Hamilton's Dartmouth freshman football squad, is missing a trunk that was shipped on August 20.

"The story of the disappearance of the trunk did not come to light until recently when coach Hamilton drew Paul's close Dartmouth friend and Thief River neighbor, Peter Prichard aside.

"Pete, doesn't Klungness have enough money to buy a winter coat" queried Hamilton.

"Well, you see, coach, I sent the trunk for him in August, and it hasn't arrived yet," responded Prichard. "His winter coat and most of his clothing is in the trunk."

"I guess that explains why he appeared for our trip to Yale with a light jacket and the rest of his belongings tied up in a cardboard box," said the coach."

In the light of all this, the Dartmouth officials, hoping to add some color to the proceedings, dispatched this telegram to mayor Orin Green, care of Green's Funeral Home: "Could you investigate missing trunk and clothes of Dartmouth halfback Paul Klungness It was shipped on or about Aug. 20. We are beginning to worry. It gets cold in Hanover also. (Signed) Earl Hamilton, Freshman Coach."

The Dartmouth school color is green, and the fact that our city's mayor is named Green, and the proprietor of Green's Funeral Home, also added to the "excitement". Mayor Green answered that an investigation would be started immediately from the point of departure. To date no further word has come from the Mayor.

Paul was the high scorer on the Dartmouth freshman grid team this past season, scoring 42 points on seven touchdowns in the six game schedule. He is currently on the freshman track squad.

Well, I hope that Paul finds his trunk!

Some Interesting Developments

This past week has witnessed some interesting developments in high school basketball competition of the fast-moving Newfolden Nordics in District 32. On Saturday night, in the finals of the Soo Line holiday tournament at Strandquist, the fast-moving Newfolden Nordics of coach Frank Kahoutek defeated the defending District 32 champions, the Lake Bronson Braves, 74 to 56. This was an exact reversal of the game played a couple of weeks ago when coach Jerry Furuseth's Lake Bronson squad marked up 74 to 56 win over the Nordics.

For the past couple of years the Lake Bronson squad has been the "power" in District 32, and while the team isn't ready to relinquish its title, the fact that the Nordics were able to register an 18-point win does serve notice that coach Jerry and his boys will have troubles this season. And I imagine such teams as Greenbush, Stephen, Roseau, and Middle River noted the result of the Nordics vs. Lake Bronson game with interest.

It is easy to predict that the district tournament up there will be a hectic affair this season.

Winter Carnival in St. Paul Opens Jan. 24

With a "Toys 'n Snowland" theme imported from Belgium, the 1964 St. Paul Winter Carnival will be aiming a large portion of its entertainment toward youngsters. The annual snow frolic is scheduled Jan. 24 through Feb. 2.

Most of the floats in the two Carnival parades will feature "Kingdom of Toys" displays. The role of marshal of the opening day-time parade will be portrayed by Baron Louis Scheyven, Belgian Ambassador to the U. S. He was invited because '64 festival planners adopted a toyland motif long maintained by a festival in Belgium.

Several celebrities will join with St. Paulites in this 78th anniversary salute to ice and snow.

Comedian Herb Shriner and television actress Bea Benaderet will take part in the opening night King's Coronation and Variety Show. Shriner will be master of ceremonies of the 8 p. m. program in the Auditorium. Miss Benaderet, who portrays the leading role of Kate in the popular series, will share the spotlight with the new Carnival King, Boreas XXVIII. The King's identity remains a secret until he receives his crown.

On the closing Saturday night, Feb. 1, lovely Inger Stevens of the ABC-TV "Farmer's Daughter" program, will ride in the Torchlite Parade. She will be joined in the night procession by young Jon Provost, who plays Timmy in the "Lassie" show presented each week by CBS-TV. Timmy will be accompanied by Lassie's cousin in his open car.

The NBC-TV network is sending camera crews to Minnesota's capital city to video-tape winter sports activities for a 90-minute presentation on "Sports Spectacular" Saturday afternoon, Feb. 1. The show will be carried by 212 stations across the nation, including KSTP-TV (channel 5) in the Twin Cities.

Carnival chairman Harold B. Shapira points out this is the 10th successive year that network TV shows have originated from St. Paul during the Winter Carnival.

The Carnival has been on the minds of some 650 volunteer committee men and women since Vulcan, King of Fire, drove King Boreas and his North Wind followers from the Carnival throne at the end of the '63 affair. By the time the forthcoming festival becomes history, more than 25,000 persons will have participated in one or more of its 120 events. An additional 250,000 spectators will have watched the snow-frosted parades, pageants and sports spectacles.

Safety Director Warns of Storms

Hall Reminds Blizzards and Sleet Storms Are Due

In January and February we can expect some of the worst blizzards and sleet storms of the winter season, motorists were warned today by Safety Director Garnet E. Hall of the Minnesota department.

"We've had a few weeks of winter driving conditions already, so motorists should have learned to reduce speed and increase the safety interval between moving vehicles.

"However, when an area is hit hard by Old Man Winter even a good professional driver has to be sharp and ready to meet the challenge," he said.

Hall urged curtailment of unnecessary travel during periods when weather forecasters advise such policy in the public interest.

"On glare ice or in deep snow, the use of anti-skid reinforced tire chains is recommended as the best self-help in obtaining needed traction for starting and climbing and for cutting the distance required for stopping," Hall said.

"Always be on the alert for the yellow or blue flashing lights which warn of snowplow operators and sanding crews. They are hard at work during bad weather to keep travel lanes open," he concluded.

$20,000 Saved on Drivers License Renewal Notices

A saving of about $20,000 was affected last year in the Minnesota highway department by discontinuing sending out reminders to Minnesota drivers to renew their licenses, according to the department's driver license section.

Previously, nearly 500,000 such notices were sent out each year at a cost of four cents for each postcard, plus handling. The small card used previously is no longer a permissible mailing piece.

The department suggests that each driver check his license for the renewal date stamped on it. By allowing sufficient time for application, the new license will be processed before the expiration date.

Display Train Visits Minneapolis to Jan. 13

Under the sponsorship of the Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village of Dearborn, Michigan, a traveling exhibition started a five-year tour of the United States in 1960. During this five-year period, it will visit approximately 35 major areas per year and it is anticipated that the exhibit will be viewed by more than five million persons.

The Downtown Council of Minneapolis brought the "Main Street U. S. A." exhibition to Minneapolis on Wednesday, January 8 for a six-day stay.

The train is open to the public without admission charge from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. daily and from 1 p. m. to 6 p. m. on Sunday. During its stay, the train will be on track 1 at the Milwaukee Road Station, 3rd Avenue South and Washington. Children throughout the state will have an opportunity to visit the train on special field trips at designated times.

In two specially designed railroad cars (donated to the exhibition by the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company) the Henry Ford Museum has constructed a 19th Century Street of Shops—the windows of which are filled with the merchandise that was purveyed during the 1800's. Completely authentic, the hundreds of items displayed are all originals from the collections of the Henry Ford Museum.

The exhibition is based on what is probably the Museum's most popular feature; its famous street of early American Shops. The atmosphere of the 19th century is maintained by planked and cobblestoned streets and 19th century store design and illumination.

Amongst these early shops is the Cracker Barrel store of grandfather's day with its wide variety of merchandise, the legendary blacksmith's shop, the 19th century apparel shop, the apothecary, the jewelry shop, the meat market, the tin-type studio; the gun and locksmith and many other familiar and nostalgic stores of America's yesteryear.

In sharp contrast, directly opposite this display of 19th century shops with their products of the 1800's, is a series of extremely modern exhibits depicting today's counterparts. These modern exhibits were made possible through the cooperation of some 30 leading American industrial organizations—co-sponsors of this project.

Editorials . . .

'A great deal of the joy of life consists in doing perfectly, or at least to the best of one's ability, everything which he attempts to do. There is a sense of satisfaction, a pride in surveying such a work—a work which is rounded, full, exact, complete in all its parts—which the superficial man, who leaves his work in a slovenly, slipshod, half-finished condition, can never know. It is this conscientious completeness which turns work into art. The smallest thing, well done, becomes artistic."

—William Mathews

Why Pay More?

It is a curious thing how the federal government operates. That it does operate is in itself one of the world's wonders. It is strange, however, that funds to increase the 1964 expense allowance for Congress by $2.7 million is tacked on to the $3 billion in foreign aid appropriations recently passed.

According to the Wall Street Journal, the appropriation also contains a half-million dollars in retroactive expense allowance increases for 1963. These funds can be spent by Congressmen for phone calls, stamps, telegrams, stationery or "miscellaneous." The allowance can be taken in cash and no accounting for it is required—except to the Internal Revenue Service. If the money isn't spent it is considered to be income.

As a result, each member of the House of Representatives will receive $2,400 for stationery instead of the previous $1,800—and will get an additional $600 for the session just ended.

In view of the amount of material sent from congressional offices, we doubt that a great deal more is needed. The $600 in retroactive payment will likely come in handy during an election year. Watch your mailboxes for evidence of how the increase will be used.

Going to the Dogs

Elsewhere in today's issue of the Times is a public opinion letter containing complaint about persons permitting their dogs to run free in the city. As of the last year or so, it is contrary to city ordinance to permit dogs to run at large in the city at any time during the entire year.

The ordinance, and the complaint, are not without merit. Just prior to adopting the ordinance, the city council received a storm of protest from citizens who objected to having their children or property molested by marauding canines. At that time, dogs were permitted to run at large with the exception of summer months. The protest resulted in the 12-month ordinance.

In the interests of protecting children and property from the occasional bad-tempered or ill-mannered dog, the ordinance is a proper instrument. To a number of dog owners who liked to permit their pets an element of freedom, it was considered quite discriminatory. In most cases, however, it was accepted and dog owners attempted to conform to its provisions.

The council also saw fit to increase pound fees for dogs which were picked up and confined at the city pound—an enclosure in itself not fit for a dog. They also provided for fines to owners who permitted their dogs to run at large.

One very important thing they did not do. They did not provide sufficent funds for full-time enforcement of the ordinance. At present the enforcement, through the police department, is on a part-time basis and in answering of complaint calls. While not so-stated by the police department, enforcement of the ordinance on this basis is somewhat of a nuisance. It can not be said to be very successful.

The council is not to be criticized for attempting to control the situation at a minimum of taxpayer expense. Neither is the police department to be criticized for its enforcement since it is doing the best it can with funds available.

Perhaps the most subject to criticism honest attempt to comply with the ordinance. These people do not necessarily sanction the damage or inconvenience to others caused by their pets with or without their knowledge. At any rate, don't punish the dogs because their owners are negligent or inconsiderate. They lead a dog's life anyway.

The Scramble Begins

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona recently accomplished a feat which came as no real surprise to a great many people. He tossed his hat into the political ring as a candidate for President of the United States, promising that the race for the highest office in the land would be a "real dog fight."

Goldwater has drawn a great deal of support throughout the nation but has yet to receive the nomination for President from his Republican party. At the present time, according to various polls conducted throughout the nation, he is a likely choice. However, things change fast in the political world and much can happen before the national GOP convention.

Many Republicans claim that Goldwater offers the only real opportunity for the voting public to make a choice between conservatism and liberalism. At least this is the shadow cast by the figures at the present time. As previously stated, however, things change fast in the political world.

Middle of the road politics is not popular with strict party members of either side, but it does, unfortunately, gather a goodly number of votes in the ballot box. Should Goldwater get the nomination of his party, and President Lyndon Johnson is named to carry the flag for the Democrats, we can certainly look for some changes in the attitudes of the aspirants.

Goldwater's present position, termed "extreme right" by a number of people who make a business of studying the national political scene, will undoubtedly be tempered by the powers that be in the party. President Johnson, already swaying from the liberal line of the New Frontier, has shown signs of conservatism already — much to the chagrin of the faithful followers of the late President Kennedy.

In making his announcement of seeking the Presidency, Goldwater said he would campaign on issues and not personalities. If this means he plans to take a positive approach to problems rather than criticize the present administration for possible mistakes, it will indeed be a refreshing campaign. Very frankly, we doubt that this would be possible.

There is one thing about having at least two candidates seeking the nomination in a party. It permits the opposition to make notes on the faults brought out by the opponents and gives them a head start in blasting whichever man is successful in gaining endorsement.

If a Goldwater-Johnson "dog fight" develops this year, there should be a great deal of interesting reading coming our way this fall. Such is politics in America—our beloved land of the free and home of the brave.

1964 Is Election Year

The Newspapers of Minnesota and the Nation will once again bring you the facts about the candidates and the issues you will help decide upon.

And after "the tumult and the shouting" of the campaign, the Newspapers will detail and tabulate the results.

These functions are an essential factor in the Civic Freedom our Nation has so zealously won and must so jealously guard, and to perform them is not only the obligation but the pleasure and privilege of the Free Newspapers of America.

To the men and women who will be seeking public office, and to those who will be advocating issues for public decision, we submit that the Printed Word is the Lasting Word — that the names most often seen in print are the names most likely to be remembered in the quiet secrecy of the polling booth.

We therefore believe you will agree that Newspaper advertising provides the most effective means of reaching and persuading the voting public.

The great highway performer

'64 Chevrolet Impala Sport Sedan and (background) Impala Convertible

'64 Jet-smooth Luxury Chevrolet

What does it take to make a car a great highway performer?

If the car happens to be a '64 Chevrolet, one thing only. A highway.

You'll find everything else already neatly packaged for you—on the car exactly as you pick it off the showroom floor.

There's a choice of seven engines—all the way up to a twin-carb high-compression 425-hp V8*—and four transmissions, including a finely honed 4-speed stick shift.*

And underlying it all—a bump-skimming Jet-smooth ride that helps keep the performance great even when the highways aren't so great.

What about special performance equipment? Professional driving skills? Forget them.

Nobody has to doctor or coax or soup up these Chevrolets to get the best out of them.

And that's really the test of a great highway performer: Just about anyone can get a kick out of driving one, just about anywhere, just as it comes out of the showroom.

Next time you're out your dealer's way, allow a few extra minutes to sample one of these highway performers on your own. A few are really all you'll need. That's enough time to do a lot of driving in a Chevrolet.

*Optional at extra cost savers and homeowners

look ahead...get ahead

THE FIGURES HERE tell a story of growth, but there's another story behind that story. It's all about how people with an eye toward the future work in partnership to make plans become realities.

Many of those plans call for safe, profitable saving—the kind that ordinary people with ordinary incomes can do. Small amounts put away regularly for generous earnings and compounded growth. Or larger amounts invested in one lump sum for extra income and a fluctuation-free principal. Here savers find the profit, safety, and convenience they want in a savings program.

People with home-owning plans get low-cost, practical help here, too! Our home financing programs, made possible by savings funds, enable even families of modest means to enjoy the pleasures and security of home ownership. This worthwhile use of savings dollars generates earnings for savers... creates a better community for all of us.

If you're looking ahead to financial progress and home ownership, there's a place in our story for you. Why not stop in soon and get in on the happy ending?

Increase in Rural Highway Travel Lags

EDITOR'S NOTE: Here is the first in a series of articles dealing with the findings in a detailed study conducted by the Minnesota Highway Department — facts which lead to determination of what kind of roads and improvements are built.

Motor vehicle travel on the 10,184 miles of trunk highway located in unincorporated areas increased 1.5 per cent between 1961 and 1962. This increase, although greater than the 1.1 per cent increase between 1960 and 1961, is only half of the 3 per cent average annual increase recorded during the 10 years preceding 1960.

This is one of the findings reported in "Minnesota Rural Trunk Highway and Local Rural Road Travel 1962" just released by the Minnesota Highway Department Planning Research Section. The study was made in cooperation with the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads.

While rural trunk highway travel increased only 1.5 per cent, the net taxable gallons of motor fuel sold (an accepted base for estimating travel trends; increased 2.43 per cent between 1961 and 1962. Based on these figures the highway department concludes that travel on local rural roads and streets in incorporated areas had to increase at least 2.43 per cent.

Motorists traveled about 5,131 million vehicles miles on the 10,184 miles of trunk highway in unincorporated areas — which represents the 1.5 increase.

Travel did not increase uniformly on all rural highway sections. For example, traffic on TH 169, northeast of Chaska, increased 10.8 per cent. But a 5.8 per cent decrease was recorded on TH 53 north of Virginia. A 5.5 per cent decrease was noted on TH 75 south of Warren. On TH 59, south of Winger, traffic decreased 3.9 per cent.

With few exceptions it seems that the more extreme decreases in rural trunk highway travel in 1962 occurred on sections located in the northern part of the state.

The lower-than-average current rate of increase in annual travel on the rural trunks may reflect (1) an increasing use of recently improved secondary roads, and (2) a rural-to-urban shift in population.

12,000 to Attend Luther Leagues' Parley in Detroit

A youth convention with 12,000 registrants will meet in Detroit, Michigan, Aug., 18 to 23, under the sponsorship of the Luther League of The American Lutheran Church, to declare the theme "Jesus—is Lord."

Program planning calls for the theme to be related on successive days to issues involving vocation, education, human relations, and international affairs.

A registration ceiling of 12,000 has been dictated by the seating capacity of the Cobo Hall arena. The Rev. David Brown, ALC youth director said registrations will be cut off when the 12,000 figure is reached or on June 15, whichever comes first.

Youth staff spokesmen here said they anticipated no problem in reaching the full number in view of the 14,000 who attended the 1961 convention in Miami Beach, Fla., a site far from the ALC's population center.

Nine-tenths of those attending will be high school youth. By advance requirement, one of every 10 registrants will be an adult, certified by his or her local pastor as qualified to serve as counselor.

All available rooms in 17 downtown Detroit hotels have been reserved for the youth meeting.

Veterans' Income Reports Due Jan. 31

Nonservice-connected Pensioners Must File

Veterans and dependents of deceased veterans on the Veterans Administration's nonservice-connected pension rolls who fail to return their income questionnaires by January 31 will not receive any more checks and may even have to pay back the money received in 1963.

John R. Parrish, center director at Fargo, issued this warning pointing out that the questionnaires were mailed a month earlier than usual this year. VA mailed the income information forms with the November 30 checks but the return deadline date remains January 31.

The questionnaire carries a printed warning which read, "Important. Failure to return this card before January 31, 1964, will result in discontinuance of payment. You would also be required to pay back all the pension you received last year."

Since these benefits are paid only to those veterans, their widows or minor children whose incomes are below certain limits, the VA is required by law to receive an income report each year to support the payments.

Mr. Parrish asked that the card be fully completed and signed before it is sent back to the Veterans Administration.

BY BILL DAHLQUIST

The 1964 presidential campaign is now under way. There is general agreement that President Johnson will be the choice of his party to succeed himself and the main problem faced by the democrats will be the selection of a vice president. Two Republicans have already announced their candidacy for the top office and several more are talking like candidates. The Republicans are headed for a bitter struggle that may make final harmony impossible. Under the circumstances final victory is not likely.

Who then would best serve the needs of the party and of the nation as a Republican leader in either victory or defeat? My choice of course would be Senator Goldwater, mainly because he will campaign as a conservative. The nation is gravely in need of conservative leadership. President Johnson has indicated that he is aware of the dangers that lie ahead of us, and that he will go as far as he can to give us conservative leadership. I like Goldwater as his opponent mainly because he will make it easier for Johnson to get support for the things he has indicated he believes must be done.

So much for the future. Let's take a look at the overall problem in retrospect. Our nation came out of World War I with a debt of less than $30 billion. That war had brought with it an era of industrial and agricultural prosperity. The decade of the 'twenties brought with it many painful adjustments, but the adjustments were made. It was a decade of bank failures and the banks failed because bankers had been thinking that the war prosperity was here forever. The stock market crash that came in 1929 was the final blow which plunged us into the nation-wide depression.

In 1932 we elected Franklin D. Roosevelt. In his campaign he had accused President Hoover of having been a spendthrift but after being elected in November, he refused to cooperate with Hoover in setting in motion any program of government assistance that might be justified in restoring the economy of the country. From November to March we drifted. One of the first acts of the new president was to declare the bank holiday, which probably could have been averted had he been willing to accept Hoover's invitation to virtually take charge of the problems earlier.

Then came the years of the New Deal, with the start of the era of really irresponsible spending and a steady decline in the value of the dollar, as the national debt started climbing. That was the beginning of the welfare state, bringing with it stronger government and weaker citizens, a trend which we have reason to hope President Johnson wishes to stop. He seems to recognize the fact that history has so often proved, that the end of a welfare-state program leads inevitably to dictatorship and a loss of freedom.

The seriousness of the situation is not generally understood. These have been great years for the politicians of the Hubert Humphrey type. The government has maintained what appears to be comparative prosperity, but the government has done it with borrowed money and a tax system that the people do not understand. Following the example of those who speak for us in Washington, government at all levels has degenerated. Debt no longer is a thing to be concerned about.

Who might properly be pointed to as mainly responsible for this degeneration? First on the list, of course, would be the promising politicians. Next, I think, would be the leaders of organized labor. Then I would bring in the bankers and the educators who have failed miserably in measuring up to their responsibilities of leadership.

A few years ago I cashed in a government bond that I had bought in a moment of emotional disturbance twenty years earlier. The total of the dollars that I received, including twenty years of interest, did not have the buying power of the fewer dollars I had invested originally. The unfortunate thing is that the diminishing value of the dollar comes so gradually that its effect is not perceptible. But if you wish to leave something of value to your children or grandchildren, don't leave it for them in the form of dollars, or any type of savings certificate or bond that has fixed value in terms of printing-press money.

We now have a 36-cent dollar and unless some drastic action is taken the value of the dollar will continue to decline. I am satisfied that President Johnson is aware of this danger. Hubert Humphrey still imagines that we can spend ourselves rich, and the building up of the national debt is of no concern to him and the dreamers for whom he is a hero.

The most valuable gift that we of the present generation could pass along to those who follow us would be a stable, solvent government, at all levels. We do not have the power in our time, to compensate for our past follies and mismanagement. But we at least should make an honest effort to recognize our responsibilities to those who follow us, and not pass along to them a bankrupt society.

Many Seminars at RRV Winter Shows

Plans Progressing for Event Opening Feb. 22

The demand for short courses, seminars, and time for meetings has overflowed available time for the nine-day run of the 1964 Red River Valley Winter Shows at Crookston, Minnesota.

This year's show begins on Saturday, February 22, and continues to 5:00 p. m. on Sunday, March 1.

Citizens of the Red River Basin, in attendance at the Winter Shows, will find a thought-provoking week of activities. Some of the highlights of the week are a workshop on land use, a public affairs seminar for women, an all-day seminar on the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture, a short course for beekeepers, a seminar for sugarbeet growers, and a clinic for dairymen; also, many other meetings. Details on the programs will appear in future issues of local newspapers.

A new 80-foot by 135-foot pole-type concourse building between the arena and the livestock association barn will greet the show visitor as he comes to the 1964 show. There will be a greater number of concessioners this year as more room opens up in the Arena. Wholesome evening entertainment also is scheduled for shows week.

Nickel is to be found in practically every mechanical component of a modern telephone. In an ordinary hand-set, nickel alloys appear in the ringing mechanism, the hearing unit, in the receiving and in the dial.

Well, we don't know if this is true or not — but we do know there is a lot of cold weather ahead. Now is a good time to check that coal supply.

NOTHING IS IMPOSSIBLE

Never has the future seemed more exciting . . . or more disturbing! Today we dream of flights to far stars; about intelligent life on other planets. We look at our own earth with clear eyes, and discuss the possibility of world brotherhood, world government, world peace.

Are these things going to happen? We don't know. But we do know that nothing is impossible.

In fact, Jesus tells us that all things are possible with God. He wants us to understand that God is infinite power, as well as infinite love. The foolishness of men cannot affect God's plans for the universe, or His love for each one of us.

Faith is what we need . . . faith in the certainties upon which the Christian Church is founded. When we put our lives in God's hands, there is no need to view the future with doubt or dread. All will be well.

GEHL MIX-ALL

Same Uniform Feedmaking
Plus 13 New Features

This is a good time for a Mix-All demonstration! There are 13 new features to show you.

Come on in. You'll see the new auger feeder drive that loads ingredients at hundreds of speeds. See the high-speed unloading transmission that empties 2 tons of feed in 5 minutes. Then, there's the new concentrate hopper at the rear, the calibrated tank, and 9 other new and useful features.

GRINDS, MIXES, DELIVERS RATIONS

ONE THING GEHL HASN'T CHANGED, though. The Mix-All still grinds and mixes with uniform precision. In the mill, 66 thin, reversible steel hammers cut (not pound) ingredients on a big 507 sq. in. grinding surface. The ration is thoroughly mixed in the 2-ton hopper.

We'd like to prove all this with a demonstration. Why not ask us?

Perhaps the most notable decrease in offenses investigated by the department was the drop in charges for having open bottles of intoxicants in motor vehicles. The total of 37 offenses of this nature in 1962 dropped to only nine in 1963. In like fashion, possession of beer or liquor by minors dropped from 33 in 1962 to 13 in 1963.

Chester Swanson Elected To Head Pennington NFO

Succeeds Don Erickson At Annual Meeting Held Tuesday in Goodridge

Chester Swanson of rural Thief River Falls was elected chairman of the Pennington County chapter of the National Farm Organization at the annual meeting held Tuesday evening in the Goodridge hall. He succeeds Donald Erickson of Plumme as head of the county organization.

Erickson was elected vice chairman to succeed Joe Horachek of Goodridge and Leonard Johnson of Goodridge was elected treasurer to succeed Aldrich Hoffman. Albert Kotrba of Goodridge was reelected secretary and Clarence Howard was reelected for a three-year term as trustee.

Speaker at the meeting was Hobert Gundy, recently promoted by the NFO to the post of national organizational director. Gundy has been active in securing NFO membership in this area.

Elected to a county meat bargaining committee at the annual session were Alton Carlson, Otto Omlid, Stanley Hruby, Leonard Johnson and Albert Kotrba. At an organizational meeting of the committee following the annual meeting, Carlson was elected committee chairman.

HUNTING with her husband (pictured above) and two other members of a hunting party on Tuesday, Mrs. Fred Timm of rural Thief River Falls bagged the brush wolf shown in the above photo. Hunting about eight miles east of Thief River Falls, the party first believed the wolf to be a fox. Mrs. Timm, using a .22 caliber rifle from which the back sight is missing, downed the animal at about 50 yards. Others in the party were Mrs. Timm's mother, Mrs. George Anderson, and Myles Koop.

School Dist. Board Has Resignations

Acceptance of three resignations and approval of the hiring of three replacements took place at a meeting of the Thief River Falls board of education Thursday. Supt. M. R. Hankerson was also presented with a contract for the coming year.

Resignations accepted were from Fred Sorensen, agricultural coordinator for the area vocational-technical school, effective February 1; Mrs. Beth Scholin, home economics, effective January 20; and Albert Shaff, senior English and wrestling coach, effective June 1.

Peter Probasco, presently teaching vocational agriculture in the high school, will replace Sorensen in the vocational school position. Paul Brown, who holds a master's degree from the University of Minneosta and has taught at Balaton and the Institute of Agriculture in St. Paul, will succeed Probasco in the high school department.

Miss Carol Ellingson, a fall quarter graduate from the University of Minnesota, will replace Mrs. Scholin in home economics. Gary Haberman, who graduated last year from Mankato State college and has just completed his armed services obligation, will replace Mrs. Schulke as teacher of the fifth grade at Knox elementary school.

Supt. Hankerson accepted a contract for 1964-65 which calls for an annual salary of $13,700—an increase of $400 from a year ago. Rufus Olson, treasurer of the board, reported that $200,000 of surplus funds now in the district treasury had been reinvested on a short-term basis in two investments calling for 3.4 and 3.5 per cent interest.

Brief dicussion took place on plans for construction of a school bus garage but no definite conclusion was reached. Mention was made of the state school board convention to be held in St. Paul January 13, 14 and 15 with K. Russell Anderson and Supt. M. R. Hankerson indicating that they would attend.

Supt. Hankerson noted that the 5 per cent cut in state school aids ordered by Gov. Karl Rolvaag would result in a loss of about $27,000 to the district this year. This will nearly be offset in increased aid per pupil unit, he said, and the district is in good financial condition. He said he did not expect the 5 per cent cut to result in a deficit for the district.

Wrestling Topic at Lions Meeting

Al Shaff, Lincoln high school wrestling coach, supplied the program at the Lions club luncheon meeting Wednesday noon. He was assisted by Gary Nereson and Joe Taylor, members of the Lincoln wrestling squad, who demonstrated a variety of actions in the sport.

Introduced by Gene Gaer, program chairman, Shaff reminded the club that the sport of wrestling is 4,000 years older than basketball or football. He added that it has the advantage of using boys of all sizes and that it develops all the body muscles.

James Parkins reported on the charter night program held Monday for the recently organized East Grand Forks Lions club, stating that a large delegation from the Thief River Falls club was in attendance.

Dr. O. D. Belch, club president, announced that the Lions district midwinter conference would be held at Kenora, Ontario, February 15 and 16, and a number of local members indicated that they planned to attend.

Mrs. Johnson Heads Mothers March on Polio

Organizational Meet Set Wednesday; Drive To Begin January 29

Mrs. Harold M. Johnson has been appointed chairman of the January 29 March of Dimes for Pennington county by Richard Mabey, chairman of the Pennington county chapter of the National Foundation.

Organizational meeting will be held Wednesday at 8 p. m. in the Rex cafe. The following women will serve as co-chairmen: Mrs. Melvin Carlson, Eagles auxiliary; Mrs. Myron Haroldson and Mrs. R. J. Does; Mrs. Orville Ferugen, American Legion auxiliary; Mrs. Bernard Buchholz and Mrs. Morris Owen, area captains; Mrs. Leo Ellingson and Mrs. Lila Stephenson, village of Goodridge; and Mrs. Vernon Lindquist, village of St. Hilaire.

More than 11 million Americans suffer from arthritis and 250,000 babies are born every year with birth defects of mind and body. Following the March of Dimes victory over polio, attention was directed to these two major health problems.

Mrs. Johnson explained that nearly 70 March of Dimes treatment centers are in operation, bringing improved medical care to these victims of birth defects and disabling rheumatic disease. At these centers, trained specialists work with families to aid them in helping the patient lead a more useful life in a home environment.

"Please welcome the volunteer worker of the Mother's March of Dimes with a contribution," Mrs. Johnson said. "You will have the satisfaction of knowing that you have helped make the future brighter for these disabled persons."

STANCHIONS blackened by smoke and heat protrude from the remains of a large barn which was destroyed by fire on the Trumah Hemmestvedt farm early Friday morning. Lost in the blaze were 32 head of Shorthorn cattle, 27 hogs and a pony. The farm's water system, which was located at the barn, was also destroyed and will force repairs to provide the farm house with water. None of the cattle in the barn were tied, Hemmestvedt said, but none of the animals could be saved after the fire was discovered.

Fire Destroys Barn On Hemmestvedt Farm

32 Cattle, Horse And 27 Hogs Lost Early On Friday

Fire early Friday morning destroyed a large barn and considerable amount of livestock on the Truman Hemmestvedt farm located 13 miles east and three miles south of Thief River Falls in Section 14 of Kratka township. The blaze was first noticed by the family about 2:50 a. m.

Lost in the fire were 15 Shorthorn cows, 15 yearlings, a 1½ year-old steer, a bull, 27 Chester White pigs weighing about 75 pounds each and the family's riding pony. Intensity of the heat may have damaged a large silo near the barn and the fire also destroyed the farm's water system.

Hemmestvedt said Friday morning that the barn was 34 x 62 feet in size and was built in 1936. It had a full concrete floor, steel pens and stanchions and watering system. We said he considered it to be one of the nicer barns in the area and that the loft was nearly filled with loose and baled hay. A stack of about seven tons of hay bales near the barn was also destroyed.

An explosion awakened the family, Hemmestvedt said. "At first we thought that jets were flying awful low. The whole house shook. Then we saw a glow in the window. We thought it might have been the water system that blew up, but the tank wasn't blown. Somebody told me last night that there is an explosion in almost any big fire."

With the temperature being somewhere near 25 degrees below zero, Hemmestvedt rushed to the barn which appeared to be burn-

Goodridge School Board Sets Date For Bond Election

Adoption of a resolution calling for a special election on Thursday, February 13, was accomplished by the Goodridge board of education at a meeting held Wednesday evening. The election will be to determine whether or not $28,000 in bonds will be sold for new school construction.

Also at the Wednesday board meeting, the board members set a date of February 3 for a mass meeting of residents of the Goodridge school district to explain the proposed building program. A member of the architectural firm of Wells, Denbrook and associates will be present to answer questions. The meeting will begin at 8 p. m. in the high school gymnasium.

According to the resolution adopted Wednesday, polls will be open from 1 to 8 p. m. on February 13 with voting to be done in the vocational agriculture classroom of the school.

Proposed by the board is the addition of six high school classrooms to the present buildings to eliminate use of three one-room buildings and construction of a new gymnasium to replace the present structure. It has been estimated that the construction program would add 32.78 mills to the present agricultural mill rate of 107 mills.

In other action taken by the board Wednesday, a resolution was unanimously adopted calling for the establishment of a junior college in Thief River Falls. A copy of the resolution was ordered sent to the recently-organized state junior college board appointed by Gov. Karl Rolvaag.

It was noted that Dr. David Brown, superintendent of schools; Ernest Swanson, board president; and Aldrich Hoffman, board member, would attend the annual convention of the Minnesota School Boards association in St. Paul.

Multi-County Library Offered

Thief River Falls has been designated as the central point for a multi-county library trial period, according to word received by the Carnegie Public Library board from the library division of the Minnesota department of education. The program will be offered in Marshall, Kittson, Roseau and Pennington counties for one to two years without cost or obligation to participating counties.

All persons interested in the multi-county library program are urged to attend a meeting to be held Wednesday, January 29, at 8 p. m. in the multi-purpose room of Argyle high school. Further details on the program will be made available and discussed at that date.

R. J. Ulferts, chairman of the Carnegie library board, heads the campaign in Pennington county with other county chairmen including Ralph Larson, Argyle, Marshall county; Victor Johnson, Lake Bronson, Kittson county; and Stuart Blackorby, Warroad, Roseau county.

Financial aid is being offered to provide to the four counties the advantages of multi-county service. Included would be additional books, educational films and other materials as well as bookmobile service on a regular route. The bookmobile would provide extended library services to individuals, clubs, social and business organizations and churches. Extended library services are not available through any library in any of the counties at this time.

In a letter being sent to interested persons in the four counties, Ulferts states, "This library-service-on-wheels will be available for a one to two-year trial period, expense free, providing citizens show continuation of the library service when grant funds are depleted."

Thief River Falls city council has provided funds for physical improvement of Carnegie Public library in this city to facilitate handling of the additional volumes and extended services by trained personnel.

Carnegie library now has 25,369 books to stock to serve this immediate territory. Communities in other counties having libraries include Warren, 2,400 books; Roseau, 4,865 books; and Hallock, 2,703 books. Many smaller communities not having library service at present would receive full library service through the bookmobile and possible book depots established on the bookmobile route.

"We are enthusiastic about the possibilities of the program," Ulferts told the Times today. "It is like someone offering you a new car to drive for a year or two with the option of returning it without charge at the end of that time. We can also see that having extended library service available here would supplement the proposed junior college for this community."

Persons who would like to attend the Argyle informational meeting on January 29 are asked to meet at the library at 7 p. m. Those who would be able to provide transportation are asked to call the library in advance. It is hoped that a large delegation from Pennington county will attend the session, Ulferts concluded.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the kitchen of

MRS. JON METUSALEM

Those of you who know the Metusalems would expect Mrs. Metusalem to come up with an Icelandic recipe. . .and you are so right! This cake is similar to a torte. (We're giving you the Icelandic spelling). The recipe although authentic Islandic in origin, was not a family recipe. . . It was brought to America by earlier emigrants from that country.

VINNETITA

- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup butter
- 2 eggs
- 4 tablespoon milk
- ½ box cardamon seed
- 1½ teaspoons baking power
- 4 cups flour

Mix the first four ingredients well. Add the cardamon seed, which should be freshly ground from the whole seed to preserve the full, fresh flavor. Sift flour and baking powder together and add gradually to the first mixture. The dough will become quite firm, and requires hand mixing at the last, as with bread. Divide dough into five equal portions. Pat each portion into an ungreased 8" round cake pan. Bake at 375 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes. Removef rom pans and cool the cakes on racks. They will be fairly hard.

Have prepared the following filling: Cook 1 lb. prunes with ¼ teaspoon salt or lemon juice. Cool, pit and mash the prunes. Add 1½ cups sugar and cook together for about 5 minutes. Cool. Spread on the layers, and stack them together, leaving the top one plain. Wrap in foil or place in plastic wrap or bag, and allow to mellow and soften in the refrigerator for several days. Slice thinly, across the cake, as you would fruit cake.

This cake keeps well for several weeks or a month under refrigeration and also freezes successfully. Other fruit fillings may be used but the Metusalems prefer this one.

Being "Gal Friday" in her husband's real estate office (Thief River Realty) keeps our homemaker busy. But she combines a career with home-making, and is an avowed lover of bridge. She also finds interest in reading—news and novels, mainly. The family loves picnics, going to the lakes, and the youngsters take to the water like fish. "Pop" likes a cooling dip too. He was born in Iceland, and grew to young manhood there. Coming to America as a young man, he attended the U of Minnesota, and later became an agriculture teacher, first in Goodridge and later in Thief River Falls. Their children are Mary Lou Anderson (Mrs. Metusalem's daughter by a pervious marriage and attending the U of M, where she is majoring in Spanish); Mark, 10, and Marcia, 8.

HEARING

Q. Are all deaf persons helped by hearing aids?

A. No. It depends on what part of the hearing apparatus is affected. The hearing mechanism is like a telephone and receiver. The inner ear is the telephone. It is connected with a receiver (the brain) by wires (auditory or hearing nerve). When something happens in the inner ear that makes it less efficient, only loud noises get through to the nerve for relay to the brain. Hearing aids simply increase sound volume to make the sound audible to the partially deaf person. If something happens to the hearing nerve, increasing the loudness of the sound does no good. The first step when hearing begins to fade is to consult your doctor. He can determine whether medicine, surgery or a hearing aid will help.

Roy Edman of Alvarado was reelected chairman of the Marshall county board in the reorganizational meeting which was completed Tuesday. Edman had assumed the chairmanship of the board last fall on the death of Commissioner Andrew Korgen. Herbert Pagnac of Stephen was elected vice chairman.

The board reappointed Andrew Vansickle of Warren and Mrs. William Hoper of Stephen to 3-year terms on the agricultural extension board.

Salaries of count officials were set to which will be added the increments for the maximum cost of living which was set at a 130.5 figure. Basic salaries follow: assessor, $5,000; attorney, $4,000; auditor, $3,040; clerk of court, $1,200; Commissioners, $1,303; of Probate, $7,400; sheriff, $5,000; superintendent of schools, $4,100; treasurer, $5,040; civil defense director, $1,500; weed and seed inspector, $3,900.

The board also liberalized vacation and sick leave for county employees as they increased from 60 to 90 days the possible accumulated sick leave and gave an additional week's vacation to employees with over 10 years service. A petit jury list of 140 names was also drawn.

Commissioners set minimum wages for contractors working in the county on federal aid projects at $2.35 for skilled labor, $1.85 for intermediate labor and $1.50 per hour for unskilled labor.

The board also set the highway engineer's salary at $9,600 and $7,400 for the assistant and set the following rates: $1.60 for instrument men, $1.45 for rod men, $1.35 for chain men, $1.25 for common labor, $3.60 per hour for tractor and mower work, 7½ cents a mile for mileage paid, $4,800 for shop mechanic, $4,560 for maintenance men and $4,200 for truck drivers.

Merit Badge Topic at Scout Meetings

Program Offers Over 100 Different Fields

The fun of the merit badge program of the Boy Scouts of America is being introduced to Boy Scouts during their troop meetings in January, Dr. W. L. Lamb, Scout commissioner of the Lake Agassiz Council, announces.

The January theme for the 75 Boy Scout troops in the Lake Agassiz Council is "Trail the Eagle" and is based on the merit badges which must be earned to become an Eagle Scout, the highest advancement award in Scouting.

"The merit badge program has over a hundred different, interesting experiences open to boys," Lamb explained. "Merit badge counselors will be invited by the troops to present their subjects, and many troops will have a merit badge show as a part of their parent's night program in February in observance of the 54th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America."

The merit badges, which are based on Scoutcraft and life interests, are grouped into citizenship, public service, campcraft, aquatics, outdoor sports, nature, conservation, personal development, animal husbandry, plant cultivation, communication, transportation, building, arts, and crafts and collections.

Sidelines Observations

BY BILL DAHLQUIST

President Johnson's message to Congress Wednesday was not a factual report on the State of the Union. Instead of that it was the opening speech of the President's 1964 election campaign, and for me it was a disappointing performance. I had expected the President on this occasion to perform as a statesman, but he spoke as a politician.

The outline of the program he advocated obviously was intended to please everybody, the people of the nations throughout the world as well as the citizens of our own country. In general terms he pictured a Utopia in which there no longer would be selfishness and greed. By passing a few laws, human nature was somehow going to be moulded in a new form, presided over and protected by benevolent government agents. He would expand the services of the welfare state to the point where none of us would have anything to worry about, and along with all of this we would be given substantial tax reduction.

I had expected from President Johnson a calm analysis of all of our problems, international and national, with a few sensible suggestions as to what might be done by Congress to relieve the pressures that are disturbing to all serious-minded citizens. We are confronted with serious problems; the threat of war; the declining value of the dollar in terms of buying power; unemployment; race prejudices, and several others.

Poverty is not a national problem, and in those local areas where it is a problem, it can be traced largely to individual improvidence. There no doubt are exceptions, but from my observations the deserving needy of our nation are now being provided for by a combination of government relief programs and church and charity organizations that generally work quietly but effectively.

Poverty is a problem that will never be solved perfectly. It is not easy, sometimes, to separate the deserving from the undeserving, and too much of our public assistance for the needy has been expended by incompetents in such a way that it has encouraged poverty among the professional poor.

It probably is unfair to judge the President by his first State of the Union address. He is not yet the elected president, and he no doubt feels that he has an obligation to carry out the program of his predecessor. Congress, of course, has no such obligation, and it should act an an independent agency, and its members should consider themselves responsible only to their constituents, the folks back home who must suffer the consequences of any mistakes they may make. I did like President Johnson's request for speed-up action and bringing matters to a head. Vote the bills up or down, but get action, was a very reasonable request.

And President Johnson did state that government costs must be cut. The cuts he suggested were not impressive. The number of government employees can be reduced substantially. Useless military installations should be abandoned. Europe should assume a larger share of the defense costs in that area.

It may be unfair to judge him by this first speech, and so I may like him again later when he can be judged more fairly on the basis of his actual performance.

Forecasting what the future has in store for our economy, is the exclusive business of several prominent organizations. One of the most prominent in this field is advising the subscribers to its service that we are headed for an all-time record high business boom, along with a lot more inflation. Those who subscribe to the service are advised how they should manage their financial affairs so as not to be hurt as the dollar loses value.

In Germany, following World War I, when the mark lost value, slowly at first but rapidly in the final stages of the complete wash-out, a few smart operators who, of course, were wealthy, became very much wealthier.

Anticipating what was in the making, they bought things that had permanent value, preferably with promises to pay. And, as the mark declined in value, they were able to meet their promises to pay with cheaper marks, which eventually became completely worthless, but which still were useful in paying off debts.

There is the possibility that this is what we are headed for in our country. Our national debt is out of control. In years of relative prosperity we are resorting to deficit spending, unwilling to face realistically the danger that threatens us.

If what appears to be the inevitable overtakes us, it will not be the slick-rich who will suffer. They probably will get richer.

In the best interests of those who follow us, we should face this problem realistically now, and start making the sacrifices that will be necessary if the dollar is to retain at least its present value in terms of buying power. Wouldn't it be wonderful to have just a few years of intelligent and honest government

Write to Senator Humphrey and ask him what he thinks about it.

MAIN STREET, U.S.A.

BY BERT MILLS

Washington Editor of "National Publisher"

Washington, D. C.—Only a year from now, your President and mine could be a man who could stroll down Main street in your town today and not be recognized by one person in 100. His name: William W. Scranton.

Of course, there are a good many "ifs" in the picture. In the first place, the Pennsylvania Governor would have to agree to run for the Republican nomination. Then he would have to win it. And the biggest hurdle of all would be to beat President Lyndon B. Johnson at the polls next Noevember. But it could happen and it's worth some speculation.

Bill Scranton is a man that practically nobody knows. This is both a major handicap and an asset. It is a handicap because voters have to feel they know a man before they will support him. It is an asset because of the need for new faces, particularly in Republican ranks.

Scranton has run for office only twice. He was elected to the House of Representatives in 1960, and to the Pennsylvania governorship in 1962. If he should make it to the White House in 1964, a new record for a fast political rise would be established.

Scranton is both the surname and the home town of the Quaker state governor. The city was named for an ancestor of Bill Scranton. It has an area population of about a quarter million and is located in the northwestern corner of Pennsylvania, near the New York state line.

Background Is Business

Governor Scranton is a youthful 46. He holds two degrees from Yale, including one in law. His background is in business, however, especially in revitalizing ailing companies. He served as a bank vice president, and as a director of several companies, a college and a hospital.

He is a World War II veteran, with overseas service as an Air Force pilot. He is also an experienced diplomat, having been special assistant to Secretary of State Christian A. Herter during the Eisenhower Administration, participating in international conferences in Europe, Latin America and at the United Nations.

Scranton is a Presbyterian. His wife is a distinct political asset, and they have a daughter and three sons. His sister is the wife of James A. Linen, president of Time, Inc., the magazine empire. Scranton's mother, the late Mrs. Worthington Scranton, was the grand dame of Pennsylvania politics for years, serving as Republican national committeewoman.

Politically, Scranton is regarded as a middle-of-the-roader. His backers consider him the ideal man to unite all factions of the G.O.P.

Has Important Friends

You and I may know the Scranton name as just one of the remote possibilities for the G. O. P. nomination. But he has important friends, not the least of whom is another Pennsylvania resident, Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Ike is given credit for persuading Scranton to run for Governor of Pennsylvania. That state has been in the habit of voting Democratic in the recent past and Scranton was supposed to lose to Mayor Richardson Dilworth of Philadelphia. Instead, Scranton won by a whopping half a million votes.

Even earlier, Scranton had shown unusual vote-getting ability. When he first ran for Congress, he was supposed to be a sacrificial lamb in a Democratic district. He won by 17,000 votes, while John F. Kennedy was carrying the same district by 15,000 votes.

It is this winning record that has G. O. P. politicians casting their eyes toward Harrisburg, Pa. Rule one in politics is to win and it is almost literally true that the other rules don't matter.

General Eisenhower is by no means Governor Scranton's only major ally. The New York Herald Tribune and the Washington Star have sounded a call for Scranton, who has shown signs of warming up to the idea of becoming a presidential candidate.

A Reluctant Dragon

Scranton has a history as a reluctant dragon. His arm had to be twisted to get him to run for the House in the first place. More persuasion was required to get him in the race for Governor. Now he is under pressure to try for the jackpot.

With the Republican nominating convention ony about six months ahead, the Scranton boom will either make headway in a hurry or collapse just as fast. The Pennsylvanian is too little known to hope that he can remain passive and still be nominated. If he is to be the Reupblican candidate, he must start pitching hard right away.

Television now allows a national political candidate to become known in a hurry. Even so, there is barely time for Scranton. Those of us on Main street have to get acquainted right away. We already know Lyndon rather well.

SMOKE billows up from the smouldering remains of the 34x62 barn on the Truman Hemmestvedt farm in this photo taken Friday morning. An explosion awakened the family at 2:50 a.m. and a glow in the window indicated the barn was on fire. The farm is located 13 miles east and 3 miles south of Thief River Falls in Section 14 of Kratka township. The Goodridge fire department was called to the scene but was unable to do anything but contain the fire to the barn and a nearby pile of hay bales. Cattle sheltered in loose housing in the pasture escaped the flames.

ing on the upper level. When he opened a door he found the inside filled with smoke and was unable to enter in an attempt to save the livestock.

Goodridge fire department answered a call to the farm and helped to prevent the fire from spreading to other buildings. There was only a slight wind at the time and that was blowing from the west—away from the house and garage. Heat from the fire cracked two windows on the family car parked near the garage.

Hemmestvedt estimated his loss at $13,200 which included about $4,100 in cattle, $300 in hogs, $800 in hay, tools and water system, and $8,000 in the barn itself. He said the total loss would be about 50 per cent covered by insurance and that he plans to rebuild the barn this summer.

Lumberjacks Rally to Take Prowlers 63-43

Coach Bun Fortier's Bemidji Lumberjack cagers, with a strong fourth period in which they accorded 24 points, and which found forward John Warford accounting for 12 of these points, defeated coach Jack Junker's Prowlers, 63 to 43, in an exciting game played before a large crowd here Saturday night.

On Friday night, Jan. 17, coach Larry Selk's East Grand Forks Green Wave will meet the Prowlers on the local court in a district conference tilt.

In Saturday night's game here, the Prowlers kept pace with the Bemidji Lumberjacks until the final shot for a field goal, and a pair of free throws by Warford, gave the Jacks a 39 to 35 lead.

Bemidji, with center Duane Sheets notching three field goals after recovering rebounds, gained a 15 to 9 first period lead. But the Prowlers, with Ken Larson getting a pair of field goals and two free throws, and Bob Olson and Mark Anderson hitting on two field goals apiece, outpointed the Jacks 16 to 9 in the second period, and held a 25 to 24 lead at the intermission.

Field goals by Larson, Anderson and Olson in the opening minutes of the third period gave the Prowlers a 31 to 27 lead. Marv Hanson scored a field goal and a free throw for the Jacks. Hanson then added a pair of free throws, and with 4:05 to play, he hit on a jump shot to knot the game. Warford drove in for a layup, and Bemidji led, 33 to 31, but not for long. Olson scored on a rebound with 2:58 to play, and then followed with a field goal from close in, and it was the Prowlers ahead, 35 to 33.

Sheets, on a layup, and Hoganson, on a rebound shot, moved the Jacks into the lead. And when Warford, who had a string of twelve straight free throws during the game, added two free-throw points to give Bemidji a 39 to 35 lead entering the fourth period.

Warford and Hanson monopolized the Bemidji scoring in the fourth period as the Jacks, showing some of their best basketball of the season, pulled way from the Prowlers to win, 63 to 43.

Both teams scored twenty field goals but it was Bemidji's exceptional accuracy from the free-throw line, making 23 of 32 attempts, that provided the Jacks with their 20-point triumph. The Prowlers, from the free-throw line, made but three points in 15 attempts.

Thieves Defeat Crookston 13-6

The senior hockey Thieves continued their unbeaten string on Wednesday night by scoring a 13 to 6 win over the Crookston Pirates in a Northwest Hockey league game played on the Arena ice.

The Thieves will be out of league action until Sunday, Jan. 19, when they meet the Grand Forks Warriors at Grand Forks, with the face-off scheduled for 2:30 p. m. The Thieves will play in a senior hockey tournament to be held at Eveleth on Feb. 1 and 2.

In Wednesday night's high scoring game, the Thieves were paced by the five-goal effort of center Dale Wennberg. The former Prowler all-state tournament player scored an unassisted goal in the first period, another unassisted goal in the second period, and then finished off with three goals in the third period. Jerry Westby, who is proving to be a crowd-pleaser with his shifty skating and nimble stick-work, set up a pair of Wennberg's third period tallies.

The Poole brothers, center Larry and forward Tony, accounted for four of the Thieves' tallies. Defenseman Tom Morben boomed in a pair of long shots, hitting on drives from just inside the blueline in the first and third periods.

One For the Book

In all the years that I have followed Region Eight hockey, and this goes back to 1945 when the sport was given official sanction by the State High School League, I cannot recall a season when coach Oscar Almquist's Roseau Rams have had a five-game losing streak. And that is what has happened this year.

Roseau moved down to St. Paul last week and dropped a 3 to 0 decision to the defending state champion St. Paul Johnson team. Then the Rams met the Duluth East team at Duluth, and again were beaten by a 3 to 0 score. Playing at Warroad on Tuesday night, Roseau lost a 2 to 1 game to the Warroad Warriors; and on Friday night, playing the Prowlers at Thief River Falls, the Rams were shut out, 1 to 0. And the losing streak was increased to five straight on Saturday night when, on the Roseau ice, the International Falls Broncos scored a 5 to 3 win over the Rams.

It must be noted, though, that three of these losses, to Duluth East, St. Paul Johnson, and the Falls, were to teams that have been rated one-two-three in the state ratings. And the other two losses, to Warroad and the Prowlers, were to teams that are in the state's "top twenty".

And don't sell the Rams short! As long as a team has to have a slump, and that is what is happening to the Roseau club, mid-season is a good time to have this misfortune. The Roseau Rams will be one of the favorites when the Region Eight tournament is played next month.

In the Ratings

The hockey Prowlers, by virtue of their 1 to 0 win over the Roseau Rams on Friday night, have gained a spot in the "top twenty" ratings of the state high school hockey teams. This weekly rating is compiled by the St. Paul Pioneer Press, and it is selected by the Pioneer Press Hockey Service Bureau.

The Prowlers were number 18 in last week's ratings, and this week coach George Schlieff's club has moved up to number 14.

High school hockey's top twenty are: 1) Duluth East; 2) St. Paul Johnson; 3) International Falls; 4) Coleraine; 5) South St. Paul; 6) St. Paul Ramsey; 7) Virginia; 8)—Edina; 9) Roseau; 10) Mpls. Southwest; 11 Hibbing; 12) Mpls. Marshall; 13) Warroad; 14) Thief River Falls; 15) Eveleth; 16) Richfield; 17) Baudette; 18) St. Paul Monroe; 19) Rochester; and 20) St. Paul Park.

You will note that Region Eight, this week, fares well in the ratings, with four teams being named to the state's "top twenty".

I hope that Prowlers do not take these ratings too seriously. These ratings are merely an expression of opinion, and the games are won and lost on the rink. The Prowlers will have to play every game to the hilt, starting with tonight's "toughie" at Hallock, and tomorrow night's game against Crookston Central on the Arena ice.

........Too East a League

Helmer (Great Northern Ole) Ness was on a fish-spearing expedition to Lake Winnebigoshish on Sunday. He was along with Don and Albert Harbott and Lloyd Samuelson, and the party left town at about 5:30 a. m. The reason for this before-dawn departure is to get to Winni in time to rent a fish-house. They are at a premium on Sundays.

But this is too fast a league for Ole. He can't keep up with such youngsters as Don and Sam. Better for Ole if he just sticks to the crappie fishing at Lake Sarah — then, at least, he would have some fish to bring home!

Rep. Langen Back in Washington as Congress Starts

Congressman and Mrs. Odin Langen left last Monday for their return trip to Washington, D. C. and the opening of the second session of the 88th Congress. The Langens spent the holidays with their children at their Kennedy farm home.

Langen expressed the hope that the new session would be more productive than the last. "Much important work remains unfinished," he said, "and as I have pointed out before, we'll have twice as much work with but half as much time. It is up to the leadership to show good faith with the people by settling down to the prompt considerations of the major bills before us."

Prowler Sextet Tips Roseau 1-0

When coach George Schlieff's hockey Prowlers defeated the Roseau Rams, by a 1 to 0 score here on Friday night, it marked the first time since the 1955-56 season that the locals had succeeded in beating a Roseau team on the Arena ice. In that 1956 season the Powlers, who went on to win the state championship, defeated the Rams, 3 to 2. Since that time, and except for a 3-all tie in 1960, coach Oscar Almquist's Rams had racked up six consecutive wins on the local ice. The Prowlers defeated the Rams 3 to 1 last season, but that game was on the Roseau rink.

The lone score in Friday night's game, and which was played before a large crowd of fans, was tallied midway in the second period. With Roseau's Wendell Grand serving a minor penalty for tripping, the Prowlers, taken advantage of their manpower, kept the puck in the south end of the rink, the Roseau defensive zone. Paul Peterson, praying at right wing, picked up a loose puck against the end boards and sent a pass out to Jerry Forsberg, and the blond defenseman, on a shot from 20-feet out, hit the right side of the goal to score at the 6:03 mark.

In spite of strong efforts of the Rams to tally a goal, the Prowlers, checking well and with goalie Dave (Nobby) Erickson playing a shutout game in the net, protected that one-goal lead to win the well-played game.

In a preliminary game, coach Frank Macloch's Roseau 'B' squad, flashing a fine passing game, defeated coach Jerry Westby's Prowler 'B' squad, 6 to 3. For the locals, Wayne Smith scored a pair of goals and Jon Hunt, on a shot from the right point, added a tally.

The Prowlers will travel to Hallock on Monday for a Region Eight conference game against the Hallock Bears. And on Tuesday night, Jan. 14, coach Bob Strand's Crookston Central Pirates will invade the Arena rink for a conference game.

Ample Supply of Food Is Forecast for 1964

Plenty of food for your market basket is in prospect for 1964.

And some of the foods in especially large supply, such as beef and eggs, may carry lower price tags.

Here is the forecast for supplies of various foods as reported by Mary Ryan, extension consumer marketing specialist at the University of Minnesota:

Meat. More beef will appear on meat counters across the country in 1964 than last year, with the result that per capita consumption is expected to be at an all-time high. Retail beef prices will likely average a little under those in 1963, particularly in the first quarter of 1964.

The 1964 lamb crop will probably decline about 4 to 5 per cent in 1964. Retail lamb prices will probably average very close to 1963 prices, with highest prices about midyear.

The outlook for pork is for supplies about the same as in 1963 or slightly smaller. Retail pork prices in 1964 may average slightly higher than last year.

Poultry. Broiler-fryer production may continue near 1963 levels. For 1964 as a whole, a turkey crop somewhat larger than in 1963 is in prospect, but at the beginning of 1964 there are smaller inventories of frozen turkeys than a year ago. This year's egg production may exceed last year's, with most of the increase coming in the first half of 1964. Egg prices will probably average a little lower than in 1963 for the year as a whole.

Dairy products. Little change appears in prospect for total milk supplies in 1964.

Food fats and oils. Total supplies of food fats and oils are estimated at record levels. Nevertheless, retail prices of food fat products are expected to increase slightly above year-ago levels because of good domestic demand and anticipated expansion of exports.

Vegetables. Supplies of fresh vegetables will be seasonally low during winter. Total production of late fall fresh market vegetables is moderately smaller than a year ago, with the smaller supplies of carrots, cauliflower and celery more than offsetting larger output of broccoli, cucumbers, Brussels sprouts and tomatoes. Retail prices of most fresh vegetables may average lower than last year, when adverse weather disrupted harvests. Fresh potato supplies are larger than they were a year ago and prices will be about the same, but higher prices are in prospect for sweet potatoes, which are in shorter supply.

Fresh citrus fruits. Fresh citrus fruit is expected to be less plentiful this winter than last. Prices will probably average somewhat below the unusually high prices of last winter and spring. The Florida early and midseason orange crop is a third below last year because of last winter's freeze, but prospects point to larger supplies of Valencia oranges for next spring and summer than a year ago. Prospective supplies of Florida seedless grapefruit are somewhat larger than last year. Increases are also expected in lemons and tangerines.

Canned and frozen fruits. Packs of most fruits were reduced last fall; hence canned fruit prices are expected to average somewhat higher than last year from now until summer. Supplies of frozen fruits and berries are smaller than a year ago, with much of the decrease in sour cherries and strawberries. Retail prices of canned, frozen and chilled fruit juices, also in smaller volume, may ease somewhat by next spring if the prospective increase in the Florida Valencia orange crop materializes.

Sugar. Sugar supplies for U. S. consumers will continue plentiful in 1964, but prices are likely to continue somewhat higher than those prevailing before 1963, though not as high as the peak this past year.

Food products from grains. The supply of food grains continues to run well in excess of domestic food requirements. However, the price of bread and baked goods will probably continue a long-term uptrend, since the price of wheat is only a small portion of the retail price. Prices of food products made from corn and oats have tended to increase in recent years with rising costs of processing and distribution.

Weeds, Seed Topic of Short Course

Ed Moren of T. R. Falls Is at St. Paul Session

A four-day weed and seed inspectors' short course is being held on the University of Minnesota's St. Paul Campus, beginning today. Ed Moren, Pennington county weed inspector, is in attendance.

The event is sponsored by the University's Agricultural Experiment Station and extension service and the Minnesota department of agriculture. It is offered through the department of agricultural short courses.

The first three days will be primarily for inspectors and custom spray operators, and the last day will be open to the public, according to Richard Behrens, agronomist and coordinator for the event.

Topics today will include county herbicide demonstrations, a cleaning plant survey, procedures of seed certification and enforcement of regulations. On Jan. 14, the sessions will cover custom ground sprayers' views of weed control, weed problems on railroad rights-of-way, county agents' efforts in weed control, aerial application of pesticides, the FDA and use of pesticides and weed control, under the ASC program.

Topics Jan. 15 will include poisonous weeds, directed sprays, aquatic weeds, control in conservation lands and turf, and control of woody plants.

For the final day, Jan. 16, the public is invited to hear an insect survey and forecast for 1964, insecticide recommendations, the University's weed control recommendations, safe use of pesticides and sprayer use.

Mayor Proclaims March of Dimes Month in City

Proclamation Cites Work Of Organization Toward Many Crippling Diseases

In a proclamation issued today by Mayor Orin Green of Thief River Falls, January has been proclaimed as March of Dimes month in this city. The proclamation urges generous contributions to the campaign.

Noted in the proclamation is the fact that more than 250,000 American babies are born each year with a significant birth defect while approximately 11 million children and adults suffer from some form of arthritis or other disabling rheumatic disease.

The March of Dimes now supports nearly 70 hospital treatment centers where improved treatment is being developed. Medical leadership these centers provide services to spread new knowledge, new techniques and new public awareness for the benefit of victims of all chronic disabling conditions.

At present the March of Dimes, through public contributions, is financing the work of research scientists seeking eventual breakthroughs toward the possible prevention of birth defects, arthritis and other human ills.

Joseph A. Cushman, district director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, St. Paul, has again reminded all aliens to report their addresses during January. The cards with which to make the reports are available at postoffices throughout the country.

Parents or guardians should submit reports for alien children under 14 years of age.

Cushman urges all aliens to report their addresses before the end of January as willful failure to do so may lead to serious penalties.

Defense Dept. Seeks Overseas Teachers

Educators who are interested in teaching positions overseas will have an opportunity soon to apply for jobs with the Department of Defense schools around the world. Educators from the schools will discuss appointments for the 1964-65 school year with interested teachers during interviews to be held at the University of Minnesota January 22 through 26.

The Department of Defense has a coordinated teacher recruitment program participated in jointly by the Army, Navy and Air Force. This program is designed to provide the 150,000 American boys and girls who are enrolled with the same educational opportunities as those offered in the better schools in the United States. The greatest number of vacancies will be for elementary teachers with experience teaching grades 1, 2 and 3. Courses of study parallel those of the public schools in the United States and standard approved textbooks are used in the classroom.

In addition to salary, rent-free living quarters (or the equivalent in quarters allowance) and round-trip transportation overseas are provided by the government. The tour of duty for the instructional staff is one school year. In order to qualify for an appointment to the Program, applicants must have a bachelor's degree, teacher training, and two years of teaching experience since September 1959. Administrative positions require a master's degree and five years teaching, including two in school administration. Applicants must be 21 years of age by August 1, 1964 to be considered for appointment.

The interviews will be held in Room 102, Burton Hall, at the Minneapolis campus of the University. The interview hours are 4 p. m. on Wednesday through Friday, January 22 through 24, and 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. on Saturday and Sunday, January 25 and 26.

Preference in selection is given to candidates who appear in person for the interview and, because family housing overseas is limited, to candidates without dependents. Married women with dependents and married couples applying as a teaching team will not be considered.

Qualified applicants should arrange for an interview appointment immediately by writing Overseas Interviewers, Burton Hall, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55455.

Editorials . . .

"I love you for what you are, but I love you yet more for what you are going to be.

"I love you not so much for your realities as for your ideals. I pray for your desires that they may be great, rather than for your satisfactions, which may be so hazardously little.

"A satisfied flower is one whose petals are about to fall. The most beatiful rose is one hardly more than a bud wherein the pangs and ecstacies of desire are working for larger and finer growth.

"Not always shall you be what you are now. You are going forward toward something great. I am on the way with you and therefore I love you."

—Charles Sandburg

To the Victors . . .

While John F. Kennedy was President of the United States, he was roundly criticized for attempting to create a Kennedy dynasty. Appointment of his brother to the post of Attorney General and a brother-in-law to head the Peace Corps were among the most publicized of the appointments within the family circle.

Let no one believe, however, that the appointment of friends or relatives is unique in the political world. The repayment of past favors or the spoils of victory are as old as politics itself. Political party lines offer no distinction in this practice—nor does the level of government involved.

There is no reason to believe that President Lyndon Johnson will break with tradition and consider only qualifications of individuals before making appointments. Take for instance the appointment of Tyler Abell as assistant post master general in charge of the bureau of facilities.

Abell, 31 years of age, requires Senate approval of appointment to the $20,000 per year job. It doesn't seem to be a coincidence that his mother is now Mrs. Drew Pearson, that his wife is Lady Bird Johnson's social secretary and that his second son, age three, is named Lyndon.

If names mean anything, maybe Congressman Odin Langen will get a break from the administration. After all, he has a son named Lyndon (perhaps with a slight difference in spelling) and his home town is Kennedy. Most likely the name Republican will overshadow the other two.

Civil Rights Danger

It is expected that a considerable amount of pressure will be exerted during this session of Congress to pass civil right legislation. Most Washington experts believe that some form of civil rights will be adopted—but just how extensive the program will be is beyond prediction.

The present bill presented by the administration is loaded with power for the federal government—power which provides for more discrimination that it is designed to eradicate. Workers are beginning to worry about the security of their jobs—and the bill provides ample reason for concern.

Ultimate power of hiring and firing is put into the hands of federal inspectors, under the proposed bill. These inspectors have no official interest in how well a man is doing his job or how long he's been doing it. At the discretion of the inspector: he may be fired; the government will have authority to deny him promotions; his seniority rights will be jeopardized; his union contract may be set aside; and his apprenticeship program may be ignored.

The only thing that matters under the civil rights bill is the past and present hiring practices of his employer. Any kind of discrimination, or any practice which unintentionally has the effect of "discrimination" must be eliminated. In a tight job market, this means that a federal inspector must step in and order job holders to relinquish their positions to those who have been "discriminated" against.

John C. Satterfield, past president of the American Bar association and secretary-treasurer of the Coordinating Committee for Fundamental American Freedoms, is a prime opponent of the proposed legislation. Some of his comments are as follows:

"There are other weapons in the civil rights arsenal as well. Almost every business these days is receiving federal benefits or is dependent on firms that are receiving federal benefits. Any direct assistance, of course, could be cut off. Banks that are part of the federal reserve system — or that have their deposits insured by by FDIC—could be required to recall loans and mortgages from firms that don't meet the new federal decrees.

"With this tremendous economic pressure, the federal government could require nearly any employer to discharge innocent employees and hire those who are specially designated. And the designation can be made not only on the basis of race, but of religion, too. A man whose race meets the federal regulations may be fired because his religion does not. If necessary, unskilled labor must be hired and trained, while surplus, experienced craftsmen but of the wrong race or religion remain idle.

"None of this control squares with the announced purpose of the bill, that is, to protect the rights of all citizens. But the provisions of the bill plainly set up such powers. Legal analysts are not surprised that this is the case, for the government is trying to regulate hiring and firing for reasons that have nothing to do with the job itself."

Groups lobbying for adoption of the legislation will increase their pressure tactics now that the 88th Congress is in session. Reactions that our national Congreasmen and Senators receive in their mail may be the main antidote against passage.

Patent Protection

For quite some time there has been a 17-year span to the protection rights offered by patents. Not long ago a law was proposed which would reduce the life of drug patents to only three years. In a flurry of opposition to the change, the push for the change was dropped but the idea is still around.

We will go along with the idea that drug patents must have a longer protection span than three years. Successful drugs, developed through costly research, must pay the way for other experiments which did not make the grade. It takes longer than three years to make the investment in research pay off for the manufacturer.

It is to be expected that research would diminish without adequate patent protection. In spite of the high calling of the drug-producing enterprise, it is a business which must make a profit to exist. The losers if research were retarded would be the many people who look to the industry to provide products which will restore health, prevent disease and prolong life.

Foreign Aid — To Whom?

Proponents and opponents of the government's foreign aid program will have to admit one fundamental fact: Too often the aid provided by this nation is either wasted or is used to build up industries which eventually compete against us on the world market.

Other nations, with lower standards of living and lower labor costs, use our higher living standard and technical and financial assistance to advantage in underselling our goods. In effect, we are budgeting our business to permit us to subsidize our competition—a practice which even the most extreme economists must consider a little bit impractical.

Records of the Agency for International Development show that since its inception July 1, 1945, foreign aid has been allotted $100.2 billion. Through 1962 the amount set aside for economic assistance was $66½ billion. Of this, $23½ billion was in formal loans ($8 billion of which has been repaid); military aid amounted to $30½ billion; and the rest was given to other nations in outright grants.

It would certainly seem that someone in a place of power would ask, "Is this program giving us dollar value for the investment?" The honest answer would quite obviously be a resounding "no". Some of our foreign aid payments have proved valuable to us and a few countries have even been grateful for what they have received.

Congress recently reduced the foreign aid appropriation from the request by a considerable amount. Merely reducing the appropriation does not solve the problem of what is wrong with our foreign aid program—a system which has gone through 10 different administrators and five major reorganizations in addition to more than 100 billion tax dollars.

Otto E. Passman, who chaired hearings by the House appropriations committee, had this to say: "The trouble is that too much of our foreign aid has deteriorated into a subsidy of communist takeover. And the spenders are so power-hungry, they so withhold the truth from the public, they are so beyond the controls of Congress, that there seems no way to confine assistance to helping people themselves unless we kill the entire operation and begin over."

There is a definite question of need. Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia, chairman of the Senate finance committee, discovered from government books that authorities haven't been able to spend as much aid money as they have been given in any year since 1958. Unexpended balances, from previous appropriations earmarked as "obligations" for future spending, have risen to $21,273,000,000 as of June, 1963.

Even purchases under our program lack reality. For example, Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia claims to have paid for what he has received from the United States. His purchases consist of crediting the U. S. with Yugoslav currency which can not be taken out of his country. By agreement, we pass 90 per cent of the money back to the Yugoslav government, using the remainder to maintain our Belgrade embassy.

In spite of what good it might have done, our aid program has too often resulted in being of more help to the spread of communism that to the improvement of our image. We can ill afford such situations. A new approach should certainly be in order.

Interesting Opinions . . .

"The biggest failure of American education is not its inability to produce more scientists than Russia. It is the way it is turning millions of young people into unemployables."

—Sen. J. William Fulbright

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

"Aunt Lucy echoed the preacher's denouncement of lying, card playing, dice and drinking with fervent 'Amens'. When he turned his denunciation upon petty gossip, she eased back into the pew and muttered, "Now he's done quit preachin' and started to meddling'."

Legis Lative Letter

from ANDREW SKAAR

STATE REPRESENTATIVE

Many of my constituents have asked me what the legislators do during the interim between sessions. Although the legislature is not in session, many of us are kept quite busy with the work we were commissioned to perform during the interim by the Legislature.

I am serving on three commissions at present: the Highway Interim Commission, the Appropriation sub-committee on Education and Legislative Research comittee sub-committee dealing with a study of false advertising.

The 1963 Legislature created 13 commissions to study special problems of the state for the next two years. Hearings are open to interested citizens and the legislature welcomes ideas and suggestions from those concerned. If anyone is interested in more information concerning them, I would be glad to be of service to you. Following is a brief description of these commissions:

Employe Retirement System Commission, Senator F. G. Child, chairman:

Purpose: To study the various retirement benefit plans available to employees of the state and of the various political sub-divisions, including a study of the governing laws, management, financial conditions and benefits of all such plans and any Federal program for which any employees could be eligible.

Governmental Immunity Committee, Rep. C. A. Johnson, chairman:

Purpose: To investigate and study the doctrine of governmental immunity, liability and suits against units of government for the purpose of codifying and clarifying the statutes of the state pertaining to the problem and of recommending appropriate legislation if deemed necessary.

Highway Commission: Senator N. Larson, chairman:

Purpose: To study and consider problems relating to highways and highway safety, such as: highway needs of the state; operation of the state highway department; proposals intended to improve highway safety; and the adequacy of highway laws.

Minnesota Outdoor Recreation Resource Commission, Senator H. Harren, chairman:

Purpose: To establish a long term, comprehensive program to preserve, develop and maintain the natural resources of this state; to provide for inventory of present resources and for research necessary for recreational and conservation purposes.

Sale of Home Remedies Commission; Rep. Ron Everson, chairman:

Purpose: To study problems relating to the manufacturing and selling of nonhabit forming proprietary medicines.

World Fair Commission, Rep. Francis LaBrosse, chairman:

Purpose: To study the feasibility and desirability of holding a World Fair in Minnesota.

Elections Commission, Senator F. P. Kroehler, chairman:

Purpose: To study and consider the laws and problems relating to elections.

Northeastern Minnesota Economic Problems Commission, Senator P. Holand, chairman:

Purpose: To study and consider the problems relating to chronic unemployment and economic instability in Northeastern Minnesota.

Commission to Study Tax Resources and Economy, Senator D. Wright, chairman:

Purpose: To evaluate tax resources; to review the equity of current tax obligations; to study the need for revision or reform in order to develop a sound program of balanced taxation.

Commission on Minnesota River Valley Development, Rep. H. Anderson, chairman:

Purpose: To cooperate with the Federal Government and with the Interstate Mississippi River Parkway Planning Commission; to aid in the promotion and securement of a scenic parkway and bridge for the State of Minnesota; and to aid in securing Federal parks within Minnesota.

Indian Affairs Commission, Rev. Gradus C. Aalberts (Non-Legislator):

Purpose: To acquire information so that plans and programs may be worked out with Indian people who need assistance in finding employment, acquiring education, improving housing, getting medical care, developing natural resources and generally in becoming self-sufficient. This commission included members who are not members of the Legislature and are appointed by the Governor.

Commission on Taxation and Production of Iron Ore, Rep. R. Dunn, chairman:

Purpose: To investigate and study all matters relating to the production and taxation of iron ore and other minerals.

In addition, the following commissions are continuing from previous years: Interstate Cooperation Commission, Legislative Building Commission, State Claims Commission, Iron Range Resources and Rehabilitation Commission, Legislative Research Committee, and the Great Lakes Basin Commission.

The 1963 Legislature passed a bill authorizing the Rules Committee to activate any standing committee during the interim to make studies and investigations within its jurisdiction. Three sub-committees of the full Appropriation Committee have been activated. They include the sub-committee on education, the sub-committee on institutions and welfare and the sub-committee on state departments. These groups will study fiscal problems in the areas indicated. Rep. Richard Fitzsimmons of Argyle is chairman of the Appropriation Committee.

Remember—I was elected to serve you in the Legislature. Please feel free to call me if you have questions regarding state government, or if you feel that I can be of assistance to you in any way.

According to police department reports, the checks were cashed in 13 communities in a five-county area with a total of 46 checks issued. Also implicated are three local youths whose names have been withheld pending further investigation.

Timm appeared in Thief River Falls municipal court on Thursday and waived preliminary hearing on was bound over to district court with bond set at $2,000. The bond has not been posted and he is being held in custody.

Under the new criminal code, passage of bad checks totaling $100 or more in aggregate during a six-month period constitutes a felony. The felony charge, grand larceny, carries a maximum penalty of not more than five years in prison or not more than $5,000 fine or both.

According to police reports, Timm and his companions first cashed several checks in the Thief River Falls community. On Sunday, January 5, they went to Crookston, cashing a check at Red Lake Falls enroute, and cashing several no account checks in Crookston.

On Monday, January 6, they passed bogus checks at Warren, Alvarado, East Grand Forks and Grand Forks. On January 7 they made another trip to cash checks in Brooks, McIntosh and Fosston. Timm was apprehended in Thief River Falls on Wednesday noon.

A list of checks cashed by Timm shows they were passed in Emerado, Fargo and Grand Forks, N. D., St. Hilaire, Crookston, Warren, Alvarado, Brooks, McIntosh, Fosston, Red Lake Falls and East Grand Forks in addition to Thief River Falls. Timm used his own name on all the checks cashed.

Established under the Omnibus Natural Resources Act of 1963, the powerful Minnesota Outdoor Recreation Resources commission is charged with the responsibility of developing a long range plan for the preservation and development of Minnesota's natural resources.

"Under the Omnibus Natural Resources Act of 1963, the commission has been instructed to obtain and appraise all information needed to inventory and evaluate our state's natural resources. It is only natural that the commission avail itself of the interest and knowledge of citizens like Mr. Dahlquist," Harren said.

N. C. Airlines Sets Traffic Record in '63

System Gains 8 Pct. over '62 with Total of 1,214,532 Fares

North Central Airlines' record traffic, coupled with an industry-leading operating performance during 1963, highlight the airlines's greatest year in its 16-year history, it was announced by Hal N. Carr, president.

For Thief River Falls, 1,766 boardings were reported in 1963 compared to 1,665 in 1962 and just 34 short of the assigned goal of 1,800.

Year-end traffic figures reveal the airline carried a record 1,214,532 passengers, a gain of 8 per cent over 1962, while flying 203,828,672 revenue passenger miles, also a new mark.

Carr said that "for 17 consecutive months—since August 1962—each month has surpassed its own passenger boarding record. The previous single day high of 4,512 passengers, set in August 1962, was topped six times during 1963." December 20th was finally established as the airline's greatest single day when 4,818 passengers were enplaned.

North Central also continued to maintain one of the best on-time performance operations in the entire airline industry. "Despite some unfavornble weather, of our 176,220 scheduled arrivals last year, 86 per cent were on time, compared with 81 per cent in 1962," Carr said.

He also pointed out that the airline flew over 99 per cent of its 14,549,105 scheduled miles last year.

"This is recognized as one of the most outstanding scheduled completion and on-time performance records in commercial aviation. We feel the traveling public's acceptance of this reliability is reflected in our record traffic growth,' he added.

Freight and express figures show substantial gains during the year as 1,240,482 freight ton miles were flown, up 21 per cent from 1962. The 76,535 express ton miles carried fo the year was a 12 per cent gain over the previous hear.

The Minneapolis-St. Paul-based carrier received the National Safety Council Award of Honor again in 1963 for its perfect safety record. North Central has won a safety citation every year since inaugurating service in 1948. During this period, the airline carried nearly nine million passengers and flew one and a half billion passenger miles without fatality or injury to passengers or crew members.

North Central serves 91 cities in 10 midwestern states and Canada over its ,000-mile system.

Brucellosis, TB Testing Underway In Pennington Co.

All Cattle Herds To Be Tested by Veterinarians Within a Month's Time

Brucellosis and TB livestock testing has begun in Pennington County according to Dr. Alfred Peterson, veterinarian with the U. S. Department of Agriculture. All cattle over two years of age will be tested for TB. All cattle of dairy breeds six months of age and over and all beef cattle over eight months shall be tested for brucellosis.

Some cattle which will not be tested for brucellosis are steers, vaccinated heifers within the last eighteen months and dry feed lot cattle fattened for slaugher. If a test is postponed the herd is placed under quarantine and is tested later.

The last county-wide test when all cattle were tested was conducted six years ago. Purpose of the test is to erradicate both brucellosis and TB from the county's cattle herds, Peterson stated. Both diseases cause losses in production of livestock and also in reproduction. Several Pennington county herd owners in the past have been hit hard financially by losses, especially from brucellosis.

Both TB and brucellosis can be transfered to humans. Brucellosis causes undulent fever in humans. Expanded markets for clean cattle is an incentive to have clean herds.

Eight veterinarians are working in Pennington county and are expected to test all the herds within a month's time. All farmers are urged to co-operate to get the job done as quickly and efficiently as possible.

X-ray Unit Will Visit Most Area Towns This Month

Five counties in northwestern Minnesota are being visited during January by the mobile x-ray unit of the Minnesota Tuberculosis and Health association, according to Mrs. Mary Vattendahl, clinical advisor for the N.W. region MTHA.

All persons are eligible for the free chest x-ray with the exception of pregnant women or children under the age of 16 unless the children are reactors to the mantoux test.

Towns to be visited in this area include: Newfolden, Jan. 16, 2 to 4 p. m.; Middle River, Jan. 17, 10:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m.; Grygla, Jan. 21, 8:30 to 9:30 a. m.; Goodridge, Jan. 21, 10:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m.; Oklee, Jan. 21, 2 to 4 p. m.; Brooks, Jan. 2, 8:30 to 10 to 11:30 a. m.; and Red Lake Falls, Jan. 2, 1 to 4 p. m.

EXTERIOR of the Land O' Lakes turkey hatchery which was recently doubled in size is shown in the above photo. The hatchery is located at Third street and Atlantic avenue in Thief River Falls. Open house will be held Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and the public is invited to tour the building and view the hatchery equipment in operation.

Hatchery Open House Set by Land O'Lakes

Plant Visitation Scheduled Friday At Expanded Plant

Expanded and remodeled facilities at the Land O'Lakes turkey hatchery in Thief River Falls will be unveiled to the public on Friday when an open house is held at the plant. All persons interested are invited to visit the hatchery at Atlantic avenue and Third street between the hours of 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Coffee, milk and doughnuts will be served during the day and conducted tours will be arranged to permit visitors to see how the hatchery is operated. Free registration for prizes will also be held.

Hatchery equipment from the discontinued hatchery at Valley City, North Dakota, has been moved to Thief River Falls and installed in the local plant. Extensive expansion and remodeling of the plant has been accomplished to provide about double the previous capacity of the operation.

Bill Duke, formerly affiliated with the Valley City plant, is serving as hatchery manager here. John Lang is manager of the Land O'Lakes produce and hatchery division in Thief River Falls.

Lang emphasized that businessmen and farmers alike are invited to tour the plant during the open house Friday. Following the open house the plant will be fumigated and the first eggs of the season will be set the following week. After the fumigating has been done, visitors will not be allowed in the incubating or hatching portions of the plant. The open house will provide the only plant in operation.

February Hatch

Following an incubation period of 28 days, the first poults of the season will be hatched in the latter part of February. Twenty-eight laying hen flocks will provide eggs for the hatchery, some of them in North Dakota. Only broad-breasted bronze turkeys will be hatched this year, Lang said, although it is expected that a limited number of white turkeys will be hatched in the future.

Day-old poults from the hatchery are delivered by truck to growers in Minnesota and North Dakota. Plant capacity is greater than what is needed at the present time, the manager added. Should the processing plant here go to a further processing operation, thereby requiring more birds, the hatchery will have the capacity to handle increased production.

Included in the hatchery equipment are 34 incubators and 10 hatchers each of the hatchers having a capacity of 6,600 eggs. The building housing the hatchery equipment is 96x110 and has been owned by Land O'Lakes since 1955. It was formerly used by the Nash-Finch company and had been used as a warehouse by Land O'Lakes in recent years. The former hatchery, located just south of the present plant, has been vacated and is owned by Wilson Brothers.

Sharon Greenwold Bride of Rodney Wayne Dec. 28

A Christmas atmosphere predominated at St. Vincent de Paul Catholic church at Plummer December 28 when Sharon Ann Greenwald of Plummer and Rodney Wayne of Goodridge were married by Father Daniel Noah in a double-ring ceremony. The church was filled with relatives and friends of the couple.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Greenwald of Plummer and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Wayne of Goodridge.

The altar was laced with holly and crowned with poinsettias in white frosted cedar background. The symbolic Christmas star was placed over the main altar and a white candle in a birch log decorated the church windows.

Miss Susan Schumacher presided at the church organ and Mrs. William Schumacher directed the choir for the nuptial mass and accompaniement for the choir's rendition of "Lord, Who at Cana's wedding feast," and other hymns. As the bride presented a bouquet of roses at the Christmas crib, they sang, "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother." Michael and Monte Greenwald, brothers of the bride, served mass with Gregory Jaeger and Stephen Erickson, cousins of the bride.

The bridal gown was of silk organza and Chantilly lace with a bateau neckline enhanced with lace and seed pearls, and a lace panel down the center front. The sheath skirt featured a lace panel and extended into a chapel train. The gown, and those of the other attendants to the bride, was fashioned by an aunt of the bride, Mrs. Matt Jaeger. The silk illusion veil was held by a beaded crown. The bride's cascade bouquet was of velvet red roses, white carnations and holly, and was laced with a crystal rosary, a gift from the groom. The bride's father gave her in marriage.

Attending her sister as maid of honor was Jolayne Greenwald. Bridesmaid was Mary Lou Westerlund, cousin of the bride. Both wore street-length dresses of scarlet red velvet with white fur hats, and muffs of white fur topped with miniature red roses and holly. Each wore a sterling silver cross pendant, with spinel center, a gift of the bride. The flower girl, Janet Jager, the bride's cousin, was dressed in white, her dress styled like that of the bride. She carried flowers in a basket. Her cross pendant was also a gift of the bride.

Best man was Stephen Skadsen, Minneapolis, the groom's cousin. Groomsman was Richard Greenwald, the bride's brother. All the men wore dark suits, as did the youngest brother of the groom, John Wayne, who carried the rings on a heart-shaped pillow with red velvet ribbons. Guests were ushered by Gordon Siebert, now with the U.S. Army, and Terrence Erickson, cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Greenwald chose a brown sheath dress for her daughter's wedding. Her accessories were in matching shade and her corsage, like that worn by Mrs. Wayne, was of yellow roses and white carnations and holly. Mrs. Wayne's dress was a blue sheath with black accessories. Grandmothers of both the bride and groom were presented with peppermint striped carnation corsages before the ceremony.

The reception was held at the municipal auditorium and was served by the bride's family. The four-tiered wedding cake was topped with a Chi Rho wedding symbol in polished silver. Streamers joined it to two heart-shaped cakes decorated to match. A log cabin church with matching Christmas crib set, a gift of the bride's parents, also graced the bridal table. Candle centerpieces on the other tables matched the window decor. Place cards at the bridal table were red candles in tiny birch logs with glittering evergreen accents.

Carolyn Schumacher, cousin of the bride, was at the guest book. Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Johnson were hosts. Kathy Svendsgaard of Goodridge was at the gift table, assisted by Sandra Erickson of Mentor and Susan Schumacher of Plummer. Waitresses were Patricia Toulouse, Sandra Robideaux, Madonna Schumacher, Marcia Erickson, Diane DuChamp, Ruth Ella Westlake, Karen Svendsgaard and Jackie Hofius. All wore aprons which were gifts of the bride.

Other ladies taking part were gifted with matching corsages of peppermint carnations. Mrs. Harvey Gagner of Mentor, aunt of the bride, served punch. At the coffee service was Mrs. Gust Westerlund, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. William Schumacher, godmother of the bride, cut the cake. The dinner was prepared by the Christian Mothers society of the church, with Mrs. Henry Weiss in charge. The guests remaining throughout the day were served supper. Guests were from St. Paul, Minneapolis, Goodridge, Staples, Thief River Falls, Bemidji, Fargo, and other area towns.

Mrs. Wayne graduated from Plummer high school last spring, and completed a course in business here. Mr. Wayne is a 1962 graduate of Goodridge high school and was with Shaffer Manufacturing Company of Minneapolis.

For their wedding trip the bride wore a white satin brocade suit. The couple visited at St. Paul, Milwaukee, Wis.; Phoenix and Mesa, Ariz., enroute to California where they are now at home at 6118 Gallant Street, Bell Gardens.

Hit Sugar has long been recognized as one of the most reliable sources for a quick burst of energy, and candy offers a nutritious means for fulfilling this need in young and old alike.

Candy is viewed by today's nutrition experts as having a useful place in the diet under many circumstances. This opinion is based off the well-know fact that the level of sugar in the blood directly controls the amount of energy anybody can exert. In simple terms, sugar is the fuel which powers every human action—even the activity of the brain. When the blood sugar drops too low, the result is fatigue and listlessness.

In day-to-day affairs, the candy bar has equally as much to offer the child coming home from school or play, the breadwinner after a tough day at the office, or the homemaker who has just come through a strenuous bout with laundry or housework.

For ordinary family needs, it's easy to keep a supply of candy on hand to suit the individual tastes. Whatever the family's preferences, it all adds up to a favorite way to rebuild energy reserves.

If your food bill is staggering, if your teen-agers eat you out of house and home, take heart; you have plenty of company.

Of course, no conscientious homemaker begrudges what she spends to keep her family well fed, but there's one unfortunate aspect. The cash you leave behind at the supermarket and the sheer stomach capacity of your youngsters are not sound yardsticks for judging whether your household is truly well nourished.

Unfortunately, many persons, because of personal likes and dislikes or the hectic pace of modern living, simply don't eat the right quantities at the right times—no matter what foods you buy.

Between the ages of 12 and 20 poor nutrition reaches a peak. The period between 13 and 15 is the most critical. Boys, perhaps because of the amounts of food they eat, have better diets than girls. However, even the boys do not get enough calcium, iron, and vitamin C.

If your children or other members of the family are guilty of nutritional sins, it is time for positive action. Here's how you can tell if they are being short-changed, nutritionally or not.

Adults and children alike should have specific amounts of the four "basic" foods every day. Milk should be used for vitamins A and D to supply calcium for good bone and teeth development. Meat should be available for protein, iron, and vitamin A and B. Vegetables and fruits are important sources of vitamin C, which is a vitamin that must be replenished daily. Breads and cereals supply thiamine, niacin, riboflavin and iron.

Keep the above in mind while making out your grocery shopping list, and you will be on the way to charting a nutritional course which will keep your family in the best possible health.

State Trend Favors Larger Creameries

A shifting trend in Minnesota's creamery industry toward fewer and larger plants with smaller plants becoming milk-receiving stations, merging with other plants, or going out of business was reported by J. W. Gruebele and E. F. Koller, agricultural economists at the University of Minnesota.

Statewide data collected for the study show that many creameries have ceased making butter during the past 25 years. Creamery numbers decreased from 874 plants in 1938 to 347 in 1962. This was a loss of 527 plants, or 60.3 percent.

The numbers of creameries handling over 1 million pounds of butterfat annually increased from 28 plants in 1938 to 78 plants in 1962. This was a 178 percent increase.

Creameries handling between 750,000 and 999,000 pounds also increased significantly. The number of creameries handling less than 500,000 pounds decreased sharply.

The study is reported in the current issue of "Minnesota Farm Business Notes," an extension publication. The report mentions various factors which account for the change in plant numbers:

1) Improved technology such as larger churns, high temperature-short time pasteurization, and technical changes reduced the per unit cost of output. Lower costs increased the competitive advantages of larger creameries.

2) Better trucks, improved roads and wider use of the bulk tank handling method made it easier and less costly to pick up milk on the farm and transport it longer distances to processing plants.

3) The large-scale shift from farm-separated cream to milk receipts in the past two decades required more equipment and larger investments which were not possible for some operations.

4) Sanitation requirements were also increased over the same period of time, and many plants were closed because they could not meet these new standards.

5) Creamery shutdowns resulted in some areas of Minnesota when farmers shifted from dairying to other types of agriculture production.

Lundeen Herd Tops In Pennington D.H.I.A.

Darrow Lundeen's Holstein herd at Trail led the top 10 herds in butterfat production among herds in the Pennington County Dairy Herd Improvement association in December, according to Orville Peters, supervisor. Cattle in the herd averaged 1,179 pounds of milk and 43.7 pounds of butterfat with a test average of 3.71 per cent.

"Herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd," Peters said. "The amount of milk or butterfat produced is averaged out over all the cows. If too many dry cows are included in the herd, the average for that month may be lower even though the cows which are milking produce a lot of milk."

During the month there were 25 herds with 748 cows on test—an average of 29.9 cows per herd—and 76 per cent of the animals milking. Average amount of milk produced per cow was 834 pounds with 3.76 per cent fat or 3.14 pounds of butterfat per cow.

Four cows finished their testing year during December with more than 500 pounds of butterfat produced in 365-day lactation or less. Three were owned by Myron Carlson of Angus. These included cattle with the following records: 13,500 pounds of milk and 508 pounds of butterfat in 338 days; 16,000 pounds of milk and 675 pounds of fat in 313 days; and 13,370 pounds of milk and 507 pounds of fat in 344 days. Art Stenberg of Thief River Falls had a cow which produced 13,460 pounds of milk and 518 pounds of fat in 297 days.

Inadvertently omitted in the November report were cows from the Don Bruggeman herd which had records of 16,470 pounds of milk and 568 pounds of fat in 365 days and 17,180 pounds of milk and 604 pounds of butterfat in 365 days; and a cow from Mehrkens Farm, Inc., which produced 13,780 pounds of milk and 512 pounds of fat in 354 days.

During December there were also 14 owner-sampler herds on test with a total of 328 cows, 73 per cent of which were milking. The top 10 herds for the month included the following:

Says President Ignored Farm Ills

Rep. Langen Criticizes State of Union Message

Congressman Odin Langen said there was one glaring omission in today's State of the Union message. "The President offered new or continued programs for just about every segment of population in America," said Langen, "but failed to even mention the farmer, farm problems or rural people. This was a grievous oversight of a group whose per capita income lags far behind other segments of the country. It would have been hoped that the Secretary of Agriculture would have had enough access to White House thinking that the rural American could have received at least a passing word about their falling income from our new President's first State of the Union message."

Langen also said it was interesting to note that President Johnson has abandoned the Kennedy fiscal policies in favor of those advocated by the Republicans. Commenting on the President's declaration that the proposed budget for fiscal 1964 would be held to $97.9 billion, Langen said that "this is close to a figure we fought for during the last session of Congress, only to be charged with trying to cause a depression and with attempting to wreck the economy. Of course, I will want to take a close look at that budget when it is submitted because it is obvious that spending cannot be cut down if the Congress gives the President all of the programs he asked for in his message."

Ada Debaters Win Tourney at UND

Lincoln School Shared In Event Last Saturday

Debaters from Ada high school talked themselves into top honors at the 7th annual University of North Dakota High School debate conference Saturday, Jan. 11.

This is the second consecutive year that the Ada debaters took first in both the "A" and "B" divisions. The "A" division is for debaters with more than one year's experience and the "B" division is for beginners. Overall record of the Ada teams was 15 wins and one loss.

In the "A" division with 14 units competing, the Ada team went through the day-long conference undefeated with an 8-0 record. They were followed by Central High School of Crookston, Minn., with a 7-1 record. Units from Minot and Fergus Falls (Minn.) high schools tied for third place with 6-2 record.

In the "B" division with 27 units debating, Ada took its only defeat coming out with a 7-1 record. Two units from Minot High School, Grand Forks Central and Shanley High of Fargo, all tied for second place with 6-2 records.

Some 170 high school students from 24 North Dakota and Minnesota schools, including Lincoln high school of Thief River Falls, spoke on the pros and cons of "Resolved: That Social Security Should be Extended to Include Payments for All Persons over 65." Each unit had an affirmative and a negative team.

Drivers without License Cause 45 Deaths Last Year

Last year, 45 Minnesotans without valid driver licenses got into vehicles, drove off and killed 67 persons in traffic accidents, according to records of the Minnesota highway department.

The 67 never should have been killed. They would not have been killed if the 45 without licenses had obeyed the first law of driving—have a valid license. Whatever the cause of the accident, the 45 had no right to be on the road. They ignored the law, and 67 persons died because of it.

Twenty-three of the 45 had no record of ever having had a license, 14 had had their licenses suspended, and eight revoked.

Twenty-three of the 45 paid the highest price for breaking the law. They were among the 67 killed.

VFW Post Here Joins Bicycle Safety Program

As a joint operation by Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing company and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, more than five million bicycles in the United States have been equipped with reflectorized tape. Approximately 200,000 bicycles were reflectorized in Minnesota.

In Thief River Falls the VFW post has combined its reflectorizing program with the annual bicycle safety check conducted by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Tape has been ordered for this coming spring's event.

In operating the continuing program, the VFW and 3M company hope to substantially reduce the injuries and deaths of youths caused by night bicycle riding. Inadequate visibility is considered to be one of the main causes for more than 27,000 injuries in accidents involving bicycle riders last year.

FINDING the lane blocked on this drive for the basket Saturday night, Kenny Larson of the Prowlers (50) lofts the ball toward the hoop and draws a foul from a Bemidji defender. Attempting to block the shot are John Warford (23) and Duane Sheets (55). Larson turned in another fine performance for the Prowlers, both on defense and offense, but it was Warford's driving and accurate free throw shooting that turned the tide for the 'Jacks in the final quarter.

Prowler Six Defeats Hallock & Crookston

The hockey Prowlers picked up four points in the Region Eight conference standings this past week by scoring victories over the Hallock Bears, 6 to 2, at Hallock on Monday night, and the Crookston Pirates, 2 to 0, here on Tuesday night.

The Prowlers will have their "biggest" week of hockey starting on Saturday, January 18 and concluding on Saturday, January 25. On Saturday, January 18, the Prowlers will play the Baudette Bears at Baudette; on Monday, January 20, the Prowlers will make a trip to East Grand Forks for a game against the Green Wave; on Tuesday, January 21, the high-ranking Warroad Warriors will play the Prowlers on the Arena rink here; and on Saturday night, January 25, the state champion St. Paul Johnson team will play the Prowlers here. And as a preliminary to the St. Paul Johnson game, the Bemidji Lumberjacks 'B' squad will play the Prowler 'B' squad.

Playing at Hallock on Monday night, the Prowlers flashed one of their best games of the year as they bested coach Kenny Wellen's Bears, 6 to 2. John Hellquist, with a pair of first-period goals, started the Prowlers off to victory, getting a goal at the 1:25 mark and then after Hallock's Jeff Winter had knotted the game at the 6:41 mark, Hellquist with a tally at 8:37 moved the Prowlers into a lead which they maintained, and increased.

A pair of goals in the second period boosted the Prowlers' lead to 4 to 1. And in the final period goals by Jim Anderson and John Weigelt gave the Prowlers their 6 to 2 win. Jerry Carlson scored on a shorty for the Bears in the third period.

On Tuesday night, in a rugged game played on the Arena ice, the Prowlers edged out the Crookston Pirates, 2 to 0. Monte LeMoine's backhand flip, at the 4:32 mark of the first period, went into the north goal to give the locals a 1 to 0 lead.

And that lead was increased to 2 to 0 at the 1:32 mark of the second period when Elroy Frolland, on a rebound, scored after Don Mathieu, on a nifty solo rush, had carried the puck to the goal mouth and tested Crookston's Tom Vind. Frolland, backing up the play, punched in the tally.

The second period's play was marred by a fracas between Crookston's Ken Epema and the Prowlers' Jim Anderson, with both boys being given major penalties and ejected from the game.

In preliminary games before the Hallock and Crookston games, coach Jerry Westby's Powler B's scored wins. Playing at Hallock, the Prowler B's marked up a 4 to 3 win, and against the Crookston B's, the locals racked up a 10 to 0 win.

Newfolden Quint Whips Baudette, Roseau Past Week

Nordics Have Won Five Games in Row to Date in Border Conference

Coach Frank Kahoutek's fast-moving Newfolden Nordics scored a pair of important conference games last week, defeating the Roseau Rams, 81 to 76 at Roseau, and the Baudette Bears, 75 to 69, at Newfolden.

The Nordics have a five wins and no losses mark in Border conference play, but they will put that record in jeopardy on Friday night when, on the Newfolden court, they meet the Greenbush Tigers. In their last encounter, played at Greenbush in December, the Nordics eked out a 74 to 70 victory.

In the high-scoring game at Roseau, the Nordics had four players scoring in double figures, with the Strandquist twins, Terry and Jerry, having 21 and 20 points respectively. The game's high-point honors, though, were earned by Roseau's John Freeman, who tallied 30 points on 14 field goals and two free throws.

With Verne Hagenbeck tumbling 27 points into the basket, the Nordics defeated an ever-trying Baudette team, 75 to 69, in a game played at Newfolden on Friday night. The Nordics' fast-break offense, which is proving troublesome for the conference foes to contain, erupted for thirty points in the second period, and the game's result was pretty well insured.

But the Bears made a remarkable second half recovery, and pared the Newfolden lead to 70 to 68 at one time, but free throws by Ken Carlson and Hagenbeck, and a field goal by Jerry Strandquist snuffed out the Baudette rally.

Beaver Trapping Season Set Soon

More Than 10,000 Pelts Have Been Taken Annually

The conservation department will soon be setting the annual beaver trapping season, reports Ted Shields, game and fish director. He said game managers, wardens and game biologists will all be consulted in deciding the new regulations.

The beaver and beaver trapping have a long and interesting history in Minnesota, Shields points out. Many early voyageurs, explorers and founders of the State were trappers and fur traders—men such as Henry Hastings Sibley, the first Minnesota governor.

Today in Minnesota the beaver is still a valuable natural resource and in recent years more than 10,000 pelts have been taken annually by trappers. Value to trappers of this annual harvest has been around $170,000, Shields stated.

Beaver are found throughout the state but are most common in the forests of the north and northeast. Annual trapping take and aerial census of lodges, show the beaver population has been stable in recent years.

Shields estimated that there are between 50,000 and 60,000 beaver in Minnesota.

He said the annual take of beaver pelts on the North American continent is probably as great as it was during the height of the early fur trade—between 400,000 and 500,000 animals. Under proper game management, including regulated trapping, beaver are thriving at the present time, Shields stated.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

A Basketball Highlight

One of the highlight games of the present basketball season, and a game that can be used as a "yardstick" in determining the prospects for Region Eight tournament play, will be the Ada Vikings vs. Crookston Pirates game at Crookston on Saturday night.

The two teams, the Vikings and the Pirates, are undefeated to date and rate as the number one team in their respective districts. Ada is in District 30, and Crookston is in District 31.

Both of these teams have played the local Prowlers, and scored victories, but the Ada club was more impressive as they registered a 70 to 61 win in a game played here. Crookston, on the other hand, was forced to their utmost to record a 66 to 65 win in a game played on the Crookston court.

One item in favor of the Pirates is that Crookston has the added prestige of having scored a victory over the Bemidji Lumberjacks and having scored this victory on the Bemidji court.

Not Too Impressed

One of the Bemidji coaching staff, when the Jacks were here last week, did say that he wasn't too impressed with the Pirates. He stated that there were several factors that proved advantageous to the Pirates: Marv Hanson was injured in the first period and had to leave the game (and he was one of the boys who "hurt" the Prowlers last Friday), and in the fourth period, after having gained a ten-point lead, the Jacks lost a couple of players on the personal foul route, and Crookston came on to win.

Well, that may well be, and the Crookston club didn't appear impressive when they defeated the Prowlers a couple of weeks ago. But it is these "unimpressive" teams that bear watching.

It will be interesting, though, to see if the Crookston Pirates are able to "defense" Ada's fine center, Dave Cirks. The Pirates have a strong and rugged center in Bill Reitmeier, but I'll be surprised if he can hold Cirks to a modest number of points.

Serious Losses

Warroad high school athletics suffered a grievous loss the other week when Alan Kostynk and Art Blackburde were declared ineligible for further competition in high school athletics. Kostynk and Blackburde are a pair of fine all-round athletes, and they were, this season, members of coach Myron Grafstrom's Warroad Warriors hockey squad. And the lone loss that the Warroad hockey squad has on their record to date is a game that was forfeited to Baudette because Kostynk and Blackburde, as ineligible players, participated in the game. The Warriors defeated the Bears, but when it was learned that the two players were ineligible, the result was reversed.

And the reason for the ineligibility of Kostynk and Blackburde is that they have completed their three seasons of competition. The rule states that "no student shall be eligible to compete in more than three seasons in any sport in a three-year high school (i. e. senior high school); or four seasons in a sport in a four-year high school, providing that one season of participation occurs in the ninth grade." And further interpretations states that 1) Any participation in any game counts as one season; 2) Any participation as a substitute counts as a season of play; and 3) Participation on 'b' squad inter-school play counts as a season.

Kostynk and Blackburde, Canadians who are attending Warroad high school, have completed their three years of senior high school play.

Good at Baseball, Too

While the loss of the two boys will undoubtedly be a handicap for coach Grafstrom's hockey Warriors, the coach that will really feel the loss of the two boys is Tony Stukel, the coach of the Warroad high school baseball squad. Kostynk, a shortstop, and Blackburde, a southpaw pitcher, were two of the stars of a strong Warrior club last season and they were expected to lead the Warriors to Region Eight title this season. And with the Region Eight tournament scheduled to be played at Warroad, the odds were that the Warriors would be regional favorites.

The ineligibility of a Canadian player, due to too many semesters in high school, hasn't happened before. Keith Christianson, an all-state high school hockey tournament selection a couple of seasons ago with the International Falls Broncos, was a high school senior at the Falls last season but he was not eligible for further high school competition. But it is tough for Kostynk and Blackburde, they were a pair of good ones.

Dropout Problem Is High in Rural Areas

If society's goal is to bring high school education to everyone capable of benefiting from it, there is still a long way to go. In spite of improvements in educational systems in recent years, nearly one in six (16.4 per cent) of all 19-year-olds in Minnesota has not finished high school and is not enrolled, according to Paul Stelmaschuk, Pennington county agricultural agent.

Furthermore, the problem is accentuated in rural areas, where roughly a fourth of the persons 19 years old are classifiable as high school dropouts. The dropout rate for rural nonfarm areas is slightly higher than for rural farm.

Both rural categories, however, are far above urban areas, which in Minnesota have about 13 per cent of the 19-year-olds in the dropout category. This data is available from a recent analysis by the U. S. Department of Argiculture's Economic Research service.

Actually, Minnesota has the second lowest per cent of dropouts among 19 year olds, compared to all other states. Nebraska is lowest and next in line after Minnesota are Iowa, Utah and Wisconsin.

While Minnesota and Iowa are similar in total proportion of dropouts among persons 19 years old, a closer look at the data shows a sharp difference. Iowa has a somewhat higher urban dropout rate than Minnesota, but a much lower rate in rural areas. The estimated 1960 figures for rural farm dropouts among 19-year-olds were 23 per cent for Minnesota and 16.3 for Iowa. Wisconsin's rural farm dropout rate closely parallels that of Minnesota.

What accounts for differences in dropout rate? The USDA research men found that two variables significantly associated with dropout are level of education of parents and expenditure per student for education.

Personal and social consequences of dropping out of high school are several, the research men say. Unemployment rates of persons who quit school tend to be higher than among graduates. Those who quit school earlier also tend to have lower incomes later on.

The national study on dropouts involved several methods of estimates. For the nation as a whole, the data includes all persons 14-24 years old who were not enrolled in school and had completed fewer than four years of high school. For comparisons among states, the data was confined to persons 19 years.

The report points out that by 1970, there will be about 56.4 million persons 14-24 years old in the nation. If the dropout rate for this age group then is the same as for 1960, there would be 12.9 million of these persons who would fail to finish high school. This figure does not include persons retarded in school who fail to complete high school education.

With the growing number of young adults in the nation, keeping total number of dropouts in 1970 at the same level as 1960 would demand that the dropout rate be cut in half this decade.

Clothing To Be In Good Supply For Coming Year

Improvements In Cotton And Man-made Fibers To Give Better Values

Large supplies of clothing in prospect for 1964 and the keen competition among fibers mean that prices will be about the same as they were last year. There's more good news for shopers in the continued improvements in familiar products and in new clothing products becoming available, according to Miss Carolyn Offerdahl, Pennington county home agent.

Some of the recent trends and changes shoppers will want to be aware of in textiles and clothing are these:

1. Improvements in cotton garments. All-cotton stretch fabrics for increased comfort are being used for nurses' uniforms, blouses, sport and dress shirts, pants and slacks, corduroy garments and socks.

Collars and cuffs of men's wash and wear shirts will not fray as quickly as the result of a wash-wear treated interliner bonded to outer layers of untreated cotton in the collar and cuffs.

A USDA-developed treatment imparts wash-wear properties to cotton and at the same time permanently attaches dyes, starch and other finishing materials such as those that give resistance to mildew, fire and repellency to water and oil.

2. More nonwoven fabrics, combining the materials and production techniques of the textile and paper industries. Nonwoven disposable bed sheets and pillow-cases are now available for hospitals. They are said to cost less than the price of laundering those made of cotton. They may be developed for the consumer markets.

3. Improvements in woolen apparel and household textiles. These improvements include stretch wool fabrics for comfort and better shape retention in slacks, jackets and men's suits; wool sweaters and blankets that are machine washable; and permanently pleated wool skirts and permanently creased slacks and trousers. These easy-care properties are obtained through treatments developed by USDA scientists.

4. Developments continuing in man-made fibers and fabrics. Stretch is being added to slacks and beach wear by one form of nylon coiled like a spring. Fluffy texturized nylon yarns are used in sweaters. Nylon fibers with a softer feel are going into women's dresses.

From the consumer's point of view, it looks like a good year ahead in the clothing area.

State Nursery out of Tree Seedlings

Supplies Are Exhausted Earlier Than Past Years

The Minnesota conservation department announced today that an original inventory of 26 million tree seedlings, offered for sale on September 1, have all been sold with the exception of two million Scotch pine and a few hardwood trees and shrubs.

Ray Clement, chief of forest nurseries for the department's forestry division, said orders for the trees began pouring in shortly after the opening announcement.

"It may be that many persons who had been disappointed in past years because they waited too long before they ordered resolved to get their orders in early this year," Clement said.

The result is that the supply of trees available was exhausted sooner this year than in the past, he said.

Aside from the Scotch pine, there remain only a few green ash, silver maple and some shrubs: honeysuckle, caragana, Amur maple and sand cherry.

Shrubs are planted primarily for wind breaks and game food, Clement explained.

Trees from state-owned nurseries are sold for one cent each in minimum quantities of 500 for conservation purposes.

Mastrian's Trial Shifted to Duluth

Go-between in Thompson Case Faces Murder Charge

The trial of Norman Mastrian, accused as the go-between in the Carol Thompson murder, Thursday was ordered transferred from St. Paul to Duluth.

District Judge John W. Graf granted the petition of attorneys for Mastrian.

The former boxer faces a charge of first degree murder. He is accused of hiring the killer of Mrs. Thompson.

Judge Graf said in his order that he followed the basic reasoning laid down by the Minnesota Supreme Court when it ordered a change in venue in the T. Eugene Thompson case.

Thompson, a St. Paul lawyer and husband of the murder victim, won a change of venue to Minneapolis. Thompson's counsel claimed their client could not obtain a fair trial in St. Paul because of adverse publicity.

The trial date will be set by St. Louis County's district court.

The retirement was announced Friday by Sherwood O. Berg, dean of the Institute of Agriculture.

As professor and director of the Minnesota Agricultural Extension service, Rutford headed a staff of about 350 state and county full-time extension workers in 87 Minnesota counties and on the St. Paul campus. The agricultural extension service is one of the three main units of the Institute of Agriculture.

Editorials . . .

"There is an ancient legend which tells us that when a man first achieved a most notable deed he wished to explain to his tribe what he had done. As soon as he began to speak, however, he was smitten with dumbness, he lacked words, and sat down. Then there arose—according to the story—a masterless man, one who had taken no part in the action of his fellow, who had no special virtues, but afflicted—that is the phrase—with the magic of the necessary words. He saw, he told, he described the merits of the notable deed in such a fashion, we are assured, that the words 'became alive and walked up and down in the hearts of his hearers.' Thereupon, the tribe seeing that the words were certainly alive, and fearing lest the man with the words would hand down untrue tales about them to their children, they took and killed him. But later they saw that the magic was in the words, not in the man."

—Kipling

It's In the Bag

If you have an unexplained case of illness in your house, maybe you could find the reason if you re-read your mail. Anyone written you lately and said he or she hasn't been feeling well?

In Finland a new idea is being advanced. In that country an outbreak of flu ended with a two-week postal strike. Spokesmen for the Finnish ministry of health say the two events—stoppage of mail delivery and the ending of the epidemic—were more than likely connected.

The health ministry reasons that sick people, because of enforced inactivity, write more letters than others. They argue that flu travels first class with the postman an innocent carrier. Looking for an asnwer to that sickness problem? It could be in the bag—the mail bag, that is.

Figures Don't Lie?

It is difficult to refute statistics. Figures are figures and as such should give a clear indication of their meaning and their comparison with other figures. In the words of a once-popular song, 'It Ain't Necessarily So".

Much ado has been made about our foreign trade situation. Legislators who have access to government figures are worried that the country can not continue to import more than it exports. They argue that our balance of payments is not on an equitable basis.

The National Council of American Importers, Inc., has a new slant on the situation. The council recently issued a report for 1962 with a series of statistical tables attached. This report states:

> "A study of the table reveals that on a per capita basis the United States buys only a portion from the other countries of the world in comparison to what they buy from us. The table also shows that the United States ratio of exports and imports to the gross national product is very small compared to similar ratios in most other countries."

What the council of importers is trying to say, apparently, is that we can do more importing without damage to our economy or financial structure as a nation. Again in the words of the song, "It Ain't Necessarily So".

In 1962 Canada was the best customer of United States goods. Japan was our second largest customer with West Germany third, the United Kingdom fourth and Italy fifth. U. S. exports to Canada in 1962 increased by about $200 million over 1961 while U. S. imports from Canada increased by about $600 million. In trade with Japan we sold $300 million less and bought $300 million more than the previous year.

Per capita purchases and gross national product notwithstanding, this country is paying more for its imports than what is received for its exports. Imports are important—just as trade is important—but the ability to sell competitvely on the world market is of greater importance. Apparently our nation does not have that ability—no matter which way the figures lie.

Schooling or Education

Mere attendance at a school does not mean that a person is receiving an education, according to Lee Loevinger, commissioner of the U. S. Federal Communications commission. In speaking at the University of Minnesota, he said:

> "We must distinguish between schooling and education. Although they may be, and sometimes are related, they are by no means the same. Schooling offers the opportunity, but by no means compels nor inevitably results in learning. On the other hand, schooling does not infrequently result in increasing ignorance.
> "The ignorance resulting from schooling may, in order to warn us against it, be called "tutogenic ignorance," the special quality of which is that it is embraced with a certain degree of pride and stubbornness and is likely to be more difficult to dispel than simple or naturally occurring ignorance. The most prolific source of tutogenic ignorance is the illusion that schooling produces education and the consequent tendency to close the mind to real learning.
> "The only effective antidote to such tutogenic ignorance is a recognition that education is not a condition but a process. A college degree is not a certification that one has acquired an education but merely a hunting licence which entitles one to spend the rest of his life seeking an education.
> "Part of the problem of the modern world is that education has not increased with schooling and literacy. More people are going to school today than ever before, and most of them are learning to read and write and to practice some craft or trade.
> "However, this is not what I would call an education, in the sense of reasonable familiarity with the important aspects of contemporary culture. As society continues to accumulate data, the quantity of information that constitutes part of the culture increases and the difficulty of becoming educated increases."

Loevinger has an interesting view on the subject. He fails to indicate, however, just what he believes education to be. We have always considered the increasing of knowledge, in any form to be education. If this concept is wrong, and education consists rather of "important aspects of contemporary culture", then we have been holding to mistaken belief. Frankly, we prefer to think of education as increasing of knowledge.

"Let us never forget that the cultivation of the earth is the most important labor of man. When tillage begins, other arts follow. The farmers, therefore, are the founders of civilization.'

REPORT TO THE PEOPLE

by Governor
KARL ROLVAAG

One of the most serious problems we must face in our state in the coming year is that of traffic safety. As an initial step towards coming to grips with this problem in 1964, I have issued an Executive Order creating a Governor's Official Traffic Safety Coordinating Committee.

Eleven Members

It will be my privilege to act as chairman of this new committee. In addition to myself, the committee will be staffed by Lt. Gov. A. M. (Sandy) Kieth, Sec. of State Joseph Donovan, Atty. Gen. Walter F. Mondale, Supreme Court Associate Justice Thomas Gallagher, Plymouth Municipal Judge William Merlin, Railroad and Warehouse Commission Chairman, Ronald L. Anderson, Administration Commissioner Stephen T. Quigley, Educator Commissioner Erling O. Johnson, Highway Cmmissioner James C. Marshall, Insurance Commissioner Cyrus Magnusson, & Health Department Executive Officer, Robert N. Barr.

Coordinated Effort

In view of last year's unprecedented slaughter on our state's highways it is imperative that we develop a sound plan of action for the future, and convey this plan of action to the public. For this reason the committee will meet regularly during the year for a periodic review of the traffic safety situation and will plan and develop effective means of cooperative activities coordinated to promote effective traffic safety on the streets and highways of Minnesota.

Review Activities

This new committe will review traffic safety activites of state agencies, establish policies and priorities, and provide means of accomplishing program objectives through interdepartmental action. The committe will also work to obtain cooperation of the legislature, judiciary and municipal officials to provide a most effective coordination at all levels of government.

Previous Plans Faulty

It appears from pur past accident history that previous plans of action have not been fully effective or have not been implemented as well as they might have been. In an attempt to overcome some of these deficiencies, I propose to work closely with this blue ribbon committee to reduce, in every way possible, the terrible record of carnage written on our state's highways during the past year.

Big Job To Do

It is somewhat comforting to know that last year the state had nearly a 10 percent reduction in accidents – 6,000 fewer than in 1962, in spite of increased traffic on our highways. But it is clear that there is still a mighty big job to be done when nearly 800 citizens have been slaughtered in a one year period. I intend that the citizens of this state be kept informed regularly on the findings of this new committe, for every driver in Minnesota must be shown and convinced that it is his or her personal responsibility to support actively traffic safety programs, if these programs are to succeed. An informed public is one of the strongest forces we have in this constant battle.

Ford Wins Motor Trend's "Car of the Year" Award
January 8: Motor Trend magazine's "Car of the Year" Award goes to an engineering breakthrough! It honors all the '64s from Ford "For engineering advancement in the concept of Total Performance, proven in open competition."

Thunderbird, Falcon, Super Torque Ford, Fairlane (reading counterclockwise); winners of Motor Trend's "Car of the Year" Award
Here's what the Motor Trend Award means to you...
The editors of Motor Trend, America's largest general automotive magazine, watched Ford's total performance in open competition . . . saw competition-modified Fords win every 500-mile stock car race in the last year, saw Ford-built engines end an era at Indianapolis and sweep the sports car circuits.
Then they drove the 1964 Fords, Falcons, Fairlanes and Thunderbirds and discovered how the lessons of open competition have helped breed into them a new kind of total performance for the open road, for your kind of driving. And then they made their award!
The "Car of the Year" Award is an impressive testimonial, but see for yourself—take the wheel of a '64 from Ford. These cars speak for themselves with their ease of handling in a supermarket parking lot or their greater stability on a rain-slick blacktop.
Before you buy any new car this year, test-drive total performance in a Solid, Silent Super Torque Ford, now hundreds of pounds more car than anything in its field. Try America's only total performance compact, the Falcon V-8, totally new, totally changed. Or, any of the '64 Cars of the Year from Ford!
TRY TOTAL PERFORMANCE FOR A CHANGE!
FORD
FALCON • FAIRLANE • FORD • THUNDERBIRD
That's Total Performance!

Now is the time to do something about your egg income — to get the highest possible return from your flock. Take your cue from official Random Sample Tests conducted from California to Rhode Island in which Starcross 288 proved to be the top profit producer. Just look at the three year summary of Shaver superiority in Western New York Random Sample Tests.

	Net Income	Eggs Per Pullet Housed	Per Cent Eggs Large and Extra-Large
Shaver Starcross 288	$2.976	245.9	75.37
Test Average	2.418	222.5	70.70
Shaver Advantage	+.558	+23.4	+4.67

A New Layer—Starcross 288 was developed from strains with the best egg-producing and feed-conversion qualities. Poultry scientists took these desirable characteristics and bred them into one layer. The result is a bird that excelled in across-the-board comparisons of white egg layers.

Your egg income next fall and winter depends on the chicks you choose now. Stop in or phone the Swift Hatchery or your nearest Swift's Hatchery dealer and see these official egg laying test results for yourself.

Rep. Odin Langen Raps ARA Fund Allocation

Congressman Odin Langen rapped the Area Redevelopment Administration for directing sugarbeet acreage to one section of the country at the expense of another. He referred to an announcement Friday that allocations have been set aside that are sufficient for 29,500 acres of sugarbeets in Cayuga County, New York.

"This allocation," said Langen, "substantiates the criticisms I raised last summer about the Area Redevelopment Administration using taxpayer money for technical assistance to an area that even the Secretary of Agriculture admitted has not raised sugarbeets in many decades. But now we see clearly how the use of these ARA funds has made an area eligible at the expense of proven areas such as the Red River Valley of Minnesota and North Dakota, which have been raising beets successfully for 30 years and have been crying for acreage."

Langen noted that the Red River Valley has developed their own sugarbeet potential with local money. "But it must be discouraging to these farmers to see the government enter into direct competition with their efforts through the Area Redevelopment Administration. . .an agency that seems to specialize in spending tax dollars to assist one part of the country at the expense of another."

He added, "It is hoped that in making the 1966 allocations later this year, proper consideration will be given to such known sugarbeet growing areas as the Red River Valley. The farmers in the midwest will be watching with interest."

Lutheran Social Service Reports

Number of Adoptions Handled Rises to 404

Lutheran Social Service of Minnesota ended its first year of operation with a record number of 404 children being placed in adoptive homes. This is 108 more children than were placed in adoptive homes by the predecessor agencies together in 1962 and more than one-fourth of the total 1300 children placed by all adoption agencies in Minnesota in 1962.

James K. Merrill, director of the child welfare division, Lutheran Social Service, said, "The adoption program of LSS represents a bold and different approach to meeting the urgent and great need of hundreds of children born into our society without the assurance of loving care and affection that only parents can give.

These procedures are the result of an attitude of mutual responsibility between the agency and couples wishing to adopt. The elimination of arbitary requirements by the board of directors has permitted individual planning with families as to what is best for them.

Clayton Hagen, supervisor of the adoption unit, stressed the concern of the adoption workers to who needed them. He said, "I feel that the significant result of the past year's effort is that there are now 108 more children in adoptive homes instead of foster homes."

Hagen also pointed out that LSS had accepted more children by referral from county welfare departments than ever before.

Lutheran Social Service of Minnesota came into being on January 1, 1963, as the result of merger between the former Lutheran Welfare Society of Minnesota, the social service department of the Board of Christian Service, the Vasa Lutheran Children's Home, the Bethany Children's Home, and the Lake Park-Wild Rice Children's Home.

Pedestrians Told to Walk with Care

Safety Director Urges Caution at Crossings

"Pedestrians share responsibility with motorists for safe traffic behavior," Safety Director Garnet Hall of the Minnesota highway department emphasized today in commenting on winter traffic safety hazards.

"The smart pedestrian knows that his own conduct in winter traffic determines whether he will be a live pedestrian in the spring," Director Hall said.

He pointed out that more pedestrian fatalities occur in urban areas during the winter months than in any other season. The reasons, he said, are that in addition to the usual traffic hazards, the winter months bring slippery, snowy or icy road conditions, more hours of darkness and poor visibility.

"Pedestrians should observe caution in crossing streets, obey all traffic signs and signals and make sure they are seen by motorists by wearing something light in color as they step into the street," Hall warned. "And there should be no jaywalking or crossing between parked cars."

Pointing out that nearly half of all traffic fatalities in metropolitan areas are pedestrians, the director noted that a large percentage of these urban fatalities are people corssing between intersections.

"The safe walker knows that he cannot depend upon any law or traffic regulation to keep him safe at all times," he said. "In many cases the motorist has difficulty coming to a quick stop on ice or snow."

HEY!
MY PICTURE'S
IN THE PAPER

Sure it is! And you're looking at it right now.
Most people get their pictures in the paper because they've done something. But not I!
I haven't done anything. Not yet, that is . . .
But one of these days I'm going to do lots of things. Big things. Great things. Why, I might even be President of the United States some day.
Want to know why my picture's in the paper?
Because I'm one of millions of youngsters who needs to grow up with faith, fortitude, character.
And we boys and girls want you to come to Church next Sunday — and to bring us with you.

FARMING TODAY

Paul Stelmaschuk

Confinement is a growing trend in swine production. It has been catching hold over the past 15 years and for two main reasons: economics and sanitation.

The whole idea of confinement and modern housing systems for hogs will be discussed in detail at six Swine Feeders Days around Minnesota this winter. Ray Arthaud, extension livestock specialist at the University of Minnesota, expresses the following ideas on hog confinement:

It's not sound economics to devote to swine land would bring greater returns from crops or other livestock. Another factor is the possibility of saving labor. Water and feed are centrally located in a confinement system, meaning that water and feed hauling time can be reduced.

From the sanitation angle, confinement makes it easier to control worms and parasites. Dung, which is the carrier of these pests, is removed from the swine quarters. On pasture, the open soil and droppings pose a constant threat to swine, which may contract worms and parasites.

Success in a confinement system depends on good managefent. However, the possibility of a better health environment also presents the danger that disease will spread more rapidly.

Surfaces must be kept clean—scrubbing with lye water occasionally will help do the job. The confined area should be exposed to air and sunshine. Both cleaning methods are good germicidal preventaives.

Certain problems appear in confinement system more often than they would on pasture land. Manure disposal is a good example, particularly in complete confinement.

Slatted floor houses—complete or partial slatting—deals with this problem most effectively. Slats are 3 to 5 inches in width and separated by ¾ to 1 inch. They can be wood, cement or steel. Arthaud believes cement slatting may often be the best buy because of its low price and longevity.

Slatted floor confinement allows for manure to drop down into the pit under the slates. There it may lay a couple of weeks to a few months. Then it can be pumped out or drained to an outside lagoon.

Other types of disposal include the mechanical gutter cleaner which provides a vehicle for transporting manure to the spreader. Another solution is to flush the waste to a septic tank, perodically. The dunging alley which is cleaned by a tractor and scoop is also a common approach to the job.

Confinement system require a proper amount of space and ventilation. Research has determined that a hog in the slatted floor confinement needs five or six feet of floor space. The formula for ventilation is 15 cubic feet per 100 lbs. of pork for winter ventilation and double this amount for summer ventilation.

Tail biting is another disturbance that is more common in confinement than on pasture land. Swine have a tendency toward this type of action because they are under more stress and strain in close quarters.

The problem can sometimes be solved by attracting their attention away from themselves and other occupants. Play things often do the trick such as tires, innertubes or old feed sacks.

Nutrients supplied in the past through pasture have now become available under confinement. Various vitamin supplements are priced low enough so that farmers no longer need to depend on pasture, alfalfa or hay.

From a practical standpoint, farmers often use the same ratios of food although it would be possible to make some adjustments in vitamins and minerals and possibly proteins on good pasturage.

Finishing hogs don't need pasture. The objective is to increase weight and market as soon as possible. Animal husbandmen still feel there is a place for pasturing brood sows. This will enable them to take advantage of nutrients in the pasture, to restrict feed intake and hold their weight down.

Although the trend is toward confinement systems, Arthaud says that perhaps 25-30 per cent of the marketed hogs in Minnesota are raised on pasture during the pasture season.

About 15-20 per cent of Minnesota swine are cared for in strict confinement housing and 50-60 per cent through partial confinement housing.

Beef

A sharp drop in feeder cattle prices in December and higher expected slaughter prices on cattle next summer add up to improved profit prospects for cattle feeders; according to Paul Hasbargen, extension economist at the University of Minnesota.

He says the recent drop in feeders prices shows the full effect of a lack of interest among corn belt cattle feeders. Prices for good to choice yearlings have been running $20 to $23 per hunderd and $4 less for calves, compared to September levels.

Feeder cattle movement has been slow in recent months, Hasbargen points out. Shipment into the North Central states between July and October, 1963, were 15 per cent under a year ago.

Placements on feed have probably also been lower, Hasbargen says, meaning that cattle on feed January 1 may be somewhat lower in number, compared to 12 months ago.

Prices for fed cattle have fluctuated widely during the past year, because of fluctuations in feed lot activity. Hasbargen says the current slow-up in cattle feeding suggests that cattle prices will show a $5 to $7 bulge some time during 1964.

This time, the price movement will be to the deeder's advantage, Hasbargen concludes.

BY BILL DAHLQUIST

The President of Panama has been threatening to throw us out of the Canal Zone for some time and it is therefore reasonable to assume that last week's violence can be attributed to official encouragement. President Chiari demands four concessions before he will discuss the overall problems in negotiations seeking peaceful solutions.

The four demands that must be met before discussions can start are: Compensation for damages; the equal flying of Panamanian and American flags throughout the American controlled Canal Zone; the removal of American roadblocks between the zone and Panama City, and the removal of American troops from the border.

It should be easy for President Johnson to say no to these demands in a hurry. If the American operation has resulted in damages to Panamanian interests they can and should be submitted to an impartial board for recommendations, but they should not be settled at the point of a gun. Americans control the Canal Zone by treaty and the Americans alone have the responsibility for maintaining law and order within that Zone in order that ships of all nations that pass through the canal at all hours of day and night may travel that distance in safety.

Panama and much of Central America has benefited by the successful construction and operation of the canal. To yield to any demands made by the President of Panama at this time would merely lead to more demands. There is good reason to suspect that the trouble is being inspired by revolutionaries of the Castro stripe, and there is no justification for the hope that we will ever be able to settle our differences with them by any reasonable approach.

The faster and the firmer we say no to the President of Panama the quicker will order be restored in that area.

A study-committee of top-level scientists has concluded that cigaret smoking is a cause of lung cancer and several other deadly diseases, and is enough of a hazard to the national health to warrant "appropriate remedial action" by the government. Heavy cigaret smoking is the principal cause of cancer of the lungs and the larynx, the science panel concluded unanimously.

Following the release of this report the American Cancer Society called for a six-point follow up program that would not involve legislation in any way. The society recommended:

"Acceptance by the medical profession of its full responsibility for advising the public about the hazards of smoking.

"Increased research to develop methods to help adults who wish to quit smoking.

"More research to pinpoint cancer-causing substance in smoke.

"Consideration of discontinuing cigaret advertising aimed at young people.

"A study by economists, government officials and the tobacco industry on ways of cushioning the economic impact that a drop in cigaret consumption would bring about.

"Effective dissemination of the data in the report to increase public awareness of the dangers."

We have laws prohibiting the sale of cigarets to young people, and all will agree, I think, that the purpose of such laws is good. Unfortunately, we permit the installation of vending machines in places that are accessible to young people and where a youth can help himself to the forbidden product. The placing of vending machines should be more strictly regulated.

There is no reason to question the integrity of the scientists who conducted the studies. Their report was calm. They did not speak as a group of alarmists. They were dealing with what they recognized as facts. And the recommendations of the American Cancer Society make sense. The Society does not advocate a revolution.

In other words this matter of smoking cigarets or not smoking cigarets remains, for the time being at least, a matter of individual choice. Parents do have an obligation to their children, an obligation that calls for both good guidance and good example.

The report of the scientists refers particularly to the harmful effect to heavy smokers. Presumably smoking in moderation is not so dangerous. Presumably the logical conclusion is that if you can't be moderate in your smoking then do not smoke at all. Moderation seems to be a sensible rule to follow in doing all of the things we enjoy. If you can't moderate, abstain.

John C. Satterfield, president of the American Bar Association in 1961-62, thinks the civil rights bill now before Congress, should have a great deal more study before it is enacted into law. He fears the new broad powers it will give to the federal government and the loss of freedoms it will mean for the typica American citizen.

I assume that Mr. Satterfield is a capable lawyer and a respected citizen. In his report on what he refers to as the "Immoderate Bill" he points up a dozen questionable provisions in the proposed law that undoubtedly would, if he knows whereof he speaks, be unfair to the majority of the people.

I am not concerned about the majority being mistreated. The majority always manages somehow to prevail, but unfortunately it will be the minority groups that will suffer if the majority becomes embittered. The stupid dogooders who have been making the civil rights question a campaign issue are harming rather than helping the interests of the minority groups they profess to speak for.

Over a period of years we have made good progress in the direction of racial equality. Obviously there still are injustices, but few of the inequalities that still exist will be solved by legislation. For any one generation the progress has seemed slow. But there has been progress, and each year has brought us closer to reasonable standards of equality. A few statesmen are being helpful but the run-of-the-mill politicians are doing the minority groups and the country as a whole a great disservice.

Hodge-podge!

Library miscellany!

Interesting facts and unfamiliar figures from the 1963 harvest - just to close the old year to make way for the new!

You all know about the periodicals department at Carnegie. You all know that current issues of the most widely-read publications are prominently displayed for your reading convenience—not to mention pleasure! But did you know that the issues are on file, for reference-work-or-pleasure? We have them for five years back.

The John F. Kennedy books, both "by" and "about", are still much in demand and a waiting list is attached to each bookcard. If you are at all interested in reading "J. F. K., The Man and the Myth", or "Profiles in Courage" it is wise to call or come in so that your name can be placed on the list, too. "Profiles in Courage", always a popular book, has been requested by so many that another copy ordered and received, conveniently cuts the current waiting list in half!

"Another" copy of one volume or another is continuous work for your head librarian. Since the first edition of "Gone With the Wind" reached your library's shelf back around 1936, it has been necessary to order 13 more! The latest was just shelved because the Mitchell novel, an American classic, is just as much in demand today as it was when it was written. In fact, there is usually a waiting list.

Now to mention a few other stories which have captured and held the reading limelight and which your librarian has had to order and reorder many times. Remember "Black Beauty" by Sewell? Volume thirteen is being read with pleasure by junior cardholders. There have been eight copies of Sinclair Lewis' "Main Street" which have become worn and torn by you borrowers. "Little Women" readers have thumbed 18 copies into oblivion, and requests for the beloved story still are received. Bronte's "Jane Eyre" has been replaced eight times and Alcott's "Little Men" runs the author's first-mentioned a pretty close second, because number 11 is being loaned currently.

Along with requests for the old, and the new, too, come requests for newspapers. Your library keeps some three or four issues on hand of "The Grand Forks Herald," "Minneapolis Star", "St. Paul Pioneer Press" and "The Wall Street Journal". The "Thief River Falls Times" is always available and so is the "New York Times."

Did you know there are seven different sets of encyclopedia on your library's shelves? Did you know there is always a copy of "The World Almanac' for quick reference? Did you know that every book in the library, except the very newest acquisitions, has anywhere from three to seven or eight cards filed in the catalogue? (The reason the 'latest' are not in there is because they haven't been completed!)

The 1964 issue of "Scott's Standard Postage Stamp Catalogue" is now on the shelf for you who collect stamps for your hobby. And you fans of "Heloise"—that hints-for-the-housewife authority—may now have access to her new book, "Kitchen Hints". (Easy ways to save time, money and energy—and how to make your kitchen a palace instead of a prison!) Can you imagine finding all that information in ONE volume?

"Happiness Is a Warm Puppy" by Schulz! This is "must reading" for everyone—especially on a cold winter day, for it will make you feel so warm and happy! The author is a Minnesotan by birth and probably will become a millionaire several times over by the mere publication of this wee volume!

Your library shelves are crowded with the best entertainment, not to mention education—your money can buy! Come in and browse a bit!

Mr. and Mrs. Torkel Farland were Thursday afternoon visitors at the Ned Hunstads, and in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Brekkstran visited there.

Reverend and Mrs. Hagen of Moorehead were Saturday supper and over night guests of Mr. and Mrs. Si Narbo.

A week ago Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Fred Waterworth were luncheon guests at the home of Nora Rokke and her brother after the afternoon service at Bethania. Other visitors there were Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Rokke and John and Mr. and Mrs. Ingvald Rokke and family of Strandquist.

High-purity laser crystals of calcium tungstate are grown in crucibles made of iridium — one of the platinum-group of precious metals. Iridium is used because it can easily withstand the high temperatures, often more than 3200 degrees F. necessary for laser crystal growth.

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture

During dry growing seasons the retention of subsoil moisture can prove to be a critical factor in your farming operation. Tests conducted on corn fields over a four year period at the University of Minnesota's Rosemont Experimental station indicated better control of soil moisture under higher rainfall with deep cultivation, rather than plowing. This better moisture control may have been improved by plowing at deeper than normal levels to increase the water infiltration into the subsoil. Under dry conditions, however, this procedure may have allowed greater losses of soil mixture to the air. It is possible that cutting the corn stalks in a field chopper rather than with a stalk cutter will allow preparation of a suitable seed-bed by cultivation to a maximum depth of six inches. By doing this you may allow a greater retention of subsoil moisture, that critical factor in dry growing seasons.

A livestock watering pit on the George Peterson Farm near Hardwick proved its worth recently when Peterson's large dairy barn caught fire and burned to the ground. Firemen pumped water from the pond for 5 hours and saved three adjacent buildings including a corn crib, cattle shed and calf barn. During this heavy pumping the water level in the pond was lowered only about six inches. Peterson, a cooperator with the Rock Soil and Water Conservation District, built the pond several years ago for better grazing distribution and a water supply for his livestock.

"I don't know how we ever got along without trees," said Lloyd Zentgraf, Traverse Soil and Water Conservation District cooperator. When Zentgraf purchased his farm there was only one large cottonwood growing on the farmstead. After becoming a district cooperator in 1959, he began planning a complete windbreak for his farm. In 1960 he planted the first trees and now has completed the six-row windbreak with 3,000 trees to protect the farmstad from the cold, strong Red River Valley winter wind. He told James Wille, Soil Conservation Service Technician at Wheaton, that it was a sound and sure investment for his farm.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans' benefits may be obtained by visiting or writing the VA Contact Office at the Fargo VA Center, Fargo, North Dakota.

Q—Who is entitled to receive an invalid lift from the VA?

A—Veterans receiving regular aid and attendance support from the VA. In addition, the lift must be medically indicated for the veteran.

Q—Will the boys who are in the service now be entitled to government loans when they return to civilian life?

A—Not unless part of their service was before January 31, 1955, when such rights came to an end.

Q—I hear that dependent parents compensation was recently raised but I am still receiving $75 because of my son's death in World War I. When does this raise become effective?

A—The increase, effective last July, applied to Dpendency and Indemnity Compensation only. The older "death compensation" is paid for service - connected deaths occurring before 1957. You may change to the new Dependency and Indemnity Compensation if you wish but this will be advantageous only if your income from all other sources is not over $750 a year. The graduated rates of the newer law may pay less than your present compensation.

Ellingson Heads Cancer Crusade In Pennington Co.

Mrs. Edward Nelson Is Volunteer Activities Chairman for Campaign

M. J. Ellingson, Thief River Falls, has been named chairman of the 1964 cancer crusade in Pennington county, according to word received from the Minnesota Division of the American Cancer society. Mrs. Edward Nelson of this city is volunteer activities chairman.

"The death toll from cancer in Pennington county underscores the urgency of the fight against the disease by dedicated volunteers," Ellingson said. "In 1962, 16 persons died of cancer out of a total of 108 deaths from all causes. In 1964 an estimated 52 cancer cases will be under medical care and an estimated 35 new cases will be diagnosed for the first time in this county."

While control of cancer continues to be a major health problem, great progress has been made against the disease in a single generation. An encouraging factor is that although fewer than one in five persons was saved in 1937, one in three was saved in 1963.

"Our education and service programs save lives today and research will save lives tomorrow," Ellingson added. "Contributions of time and money by public spirited residents of our county help make this program possible. We are very appreciative of this assistance."

BABIES AND THE MOON

Q. Is it true that more babies are born when the moon is full than at other times?

A. No, but this is a popular and world-wide notion. To prove or disprove this belief, records of almost 10,000 births were reviewed. There was no evidence that this ancient belief is true. In fact, births at the new moon outnumbered deliveries at the full moon by 3 to 2. It's high time to discard the superstition that the moon influences the time of birth.

MUSIC LESSONS

Q. At what age should a child start taking music lessons?

A. It would probably depend on musical talent more than anything else. In general, the average child can not follow or reproduce complicated rhythm before the age of six or seven years. Younger children can reproduce only regular tappings or drum beats.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Miss Joyce Ramserran

With travel broadening our horizons and cosmopolitan adventures in eating becoming quite commonplace, we thought you might enjoy a typically East Indian dish, chicken curry, if you've succumbed to the lure of native cookery, or even if you are tempted, just this once, to give away to your imagination. W'd like to know your reaction, by the way.

Miss Ramserran, a native of Trinidad, an island off the coast of South America, contributed this recipe at our request for something a little bit unusual.

CHICKEN CURRY

3 tablespoons butter
¼ cup minced onion
1½ teaspoons curry powder
3 tablespoons flour
¾ teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon sugar
one-eighth teaspoon ground ginger
1 cup chicken broth, or one chicken bouillon cube dissolved in 1 cup hot water.
1 cup milk
2 cups cooked chicken, diced
4 teaspoons lemon juice
3 to 4 cups hot rice

Melt butter over low heat in a heavy saucepan. Saute onion and curry in melted butter. Blend in the flour and other seasonings. Cook over low heat until mixture is smooth and bubbly. Remove from heat. Stir in chicken broth and milk. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly, and boil one minute. Add chicken and lemon juice. Spoon mixture over hot rice. Yields four delicious servings.

Miss Ramserran adds that the serving platter may be garnished with sliced avacado, onion rings, pineapple chunks, tomato wedges, or ringed with parsley separately, in combination, or whatever your imagination dictates. "Anything goes with this," she said, adding that it is a regular feature at the family table in Trinidad, served with hot vegetable accompaniment.

A teacher of Spanish language in the local schools, this tropical Miss has lived in Minnesota for five years. Her family, with the exception of a married sister living in Canada, still resides in Trinidad. This hearty little "transplant" from the tropics has adapted beautifully to the rigors of our winter, and is an enthusiastic curler in that season, bowls in summer, and dotes on calypso music and reading, especially novels.

NW Bell Expects '64 Will Be Busy Year

"Taking care of the growing communications needs in Thief River Falls in 1964 will keep us even busier than in 1963," stated J. M. Wilson, manager of Northwestern Bell Telephone company here, in commenting on the 1963 operations of the company.

"During the past year we installed 132 new telephones here, bringing the year-end total to 4,078," Wilson said. "Thief River Falls telephone customers are using their phones more, too. An average of 20,000 local and long distance calls were made each day during 1963."

Northwestern Bell will spend more than $52 million during 1964 to take care of the general and special communications needs of its 753,000 Minnesota customers. Up nearly $4 million from 1963, the record 1964 expenditure will be used for new construction, replacement of unrepairable equipment and making new and additional services available.

Throughout the five-state area served by Northwestern Bell (Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Iowa and Nebraska), a record $123 million is earmarked for 1964 needs an increase of about $7 million over 1963.

During the past year, Northwestern Bell inaugurated dial service in 11 more of the Minnesota communities it serves and plans to give this service to five more communities in 1964. Seven Minnesota communities were added to the Direct Distance Dialing nationwide network in 1963 and more will be given this service in 1964.

The telephone company also will continue its program of constructing new buildings and additions and installing facilities to provide for expansion and improvement of telephone service. During the past year projects were completed to bring extended area service to 10 Northwestern Bell community areas.

Also during the year, Northwestern Bell added 46,000 telephones in Minnesota, bringing the year-end total to 1,240,000. An additional 48,000 phones are expected to be installed in 1964. The company has 8,700 employees in Minnesota, representing an annual payroll of $51,500,000.

Municipal Court Fines Show Drop On 1963 Records

Total Cases Increase By 450 from 1962 Due To Parking Tickets

Total fines paid in Thief River Falls municipal court during 1963 amounted to $15,087.70 or a drop of nearly $1,800 from 1962, according to the annual summary prepared by Mrs. Patricia Thompson, clerk. Total case load, however, was up about 450 cases from the previous year.

Accounting for the major increase was the rise in parking tickets issued, including those where no fine was involved. Parking tickets issued increased from 975 in 1962 to 1,503 in 1963. Total cases, increased from 1,658 a year ago, to 2,101 in 1963.

Total fines paid in 1963 amounted to $15,087.70 as compared with $16,822.00 in 1962. Of the total fines paid, $9,943.76 was paid to the city treasurer and $5,143.94 to others—including $3,080.50 to the county for highway patrol cases, $1,681 for state criminal cases and $367 for game and fish violations.

City receipts included $7,052 for violations of city ordinances, $1,420 for fees collected and paid to the city for state criminal cases and $1,462 for parking tickets.

The case load included 326 violations of city ordinances, eight violations of state statues brought by the police department, 1,503 parking tickets, 156 violations of state statutes brought by the highway patrol and 108 violations of state statutes brought by the sheriff and game warden.

The Library Corner

by Virginia Gjernes

What is a regional library?

A regional library is an organization . . it is not any one building in any one locale, but it is instead a central library with branch lending centers. All communities in the proposed four-county area (Pennington, Marshall, Kittson and Roseau) do not have a "station" or building to house materials, such as books, films, periodicals, catalogues, pamphlet files, reference books, etc., a 'portable" branch is the one and only logical, inexpensive way to serve those in remote, "buildingless" locales.

A regional library serves all the people in the whole of the designated area, not just a few people in a small portion of the area. Materials are constantly revolving from the "hub" of the operation and all the people may draw directly from the central library or they may draw through the branches.

Why should the designated four-county area have a regional library? In order to keep abreast of the times. In order to enjoy life to the fullest and in order to bring the world's culture right smack into our own living rooms. Few people can afford to invest thousands and thousands of dollars of their own money into building up and maintaining a private collection of books, periodicals, films, records, etc. Few people can afford to have a private library on their own premises.. but NO ONE can afford to be without a PUBLIC LIBRARY...not in this day and age. At the moment there are people who do not have easy access to any library... private or public..in the area.

Furthermore, funds are being offered to the people in the four-county area which will make it possible for them to have all the advantages of a REGIONAL LIBRARY without any of the disadvantages-said disadvantages being monetary in nature. The "free trial" offer will continue for a one to two-year period. It doesn't carry any "money back guarantee" for the very simple reason it isn't costing one single, solitary, red cent...not a thin dime!

The people in the designated area will have approximately two years to find out whether or not they want to keep the regional library...to find out whether having the "whole world of literature" at their fingertips is worth anything to them. They'll be able to take the affirmative and the negative...and try to balance the scale! (But it will never balance, of course...because the affirmatives will always outweigh the negatives.) The people in the area are being given a whole sack of candy, and they can nibble the sweetmeats or gobble the tidbits, and if they find the flavors are not to their liking...they can give back the sack and the morsels... so...they are definitely not going to be left "holding the bag"!

If you believe, as others do, that the proposed gift of a regional library should be accepted... then let your county commissioner know your feelings...or, if you wish you may attend the citizens meeting in Argyle on Wednesday, January 29, and voice your belief.

If you've any questions about this wonderful gift to you...call the library...the librarians on duty answer all kinds of questions about all kinds of things...and they'll be happy to answer any questions about this subject for you.

New Rule Studied for Freshmen at Bemidji College

State College Board Proposes Plan to Cut First-year Dropouts

Deferred admission and a 30-day pre-registration cut-off date for new students will be discussed at a special meeting of the Bemidji State college faculty senate to be called soon, according to Dr. C. R. Sattgast, BSC president.

The special meeting will be called by Dr. Harold Peters, senate president, and is necessary due to the action of the Minnesota State college board which approved the plans at its meeting in St. Paul Monday.

The deferred admission plan was asked by St. Cloud State college and would mean that incoming freshmen, whose entrance placement tests did not indicate adequate preparation, would be asked to delay their entrance into college for one term.

According to St. Cloud State officials, this would help curtail drop-outs, the rate of which was not too alarming at the present time, but was increasing each year.

At Bemidju State there are 170 fewer students on campus winter quarter than fall quarter, but approximately fifty of these left because of graduation and many reasons, other than academic, accounted for the remaining 100 to leave BSC.

The board also approved a plan whereby individual colleges could place a cut-off date on new registration at thirty days prior to the opening date of any quarter. This was to insure that adequate faculty and housing was available for incoming students.

Spending Pattern Has Changed Since 30's

Personal incomes and spending for all categories of family living have increased each year since the 1930's, but American families are changing the way they budget their dollars.

They're now spending a smaller proportion of their incomes for food, clothing, home furnishings and equipment and recreation. But shelter, fuel and utilities, transportation, medical and personal care and education are taking more of the family dollar than they did 10 years ago, according to Mary Ryan, extension consumer marketing specialist at the University of Minnesota.

Although urban families spent more for food in 1960 than in 1950, food accounted for slightly less than a fourth of their total expenditures as compared with 29.7 per cent in 1950. A change in family eating patterns in the last decade may account, in part at least, for the decline in the percentage of total expenditures for food.

For example, the average American ate more meat, poultry and fish but fewer flour and cereal products. Retail costs of the latter food group increased eight times more than prices of meat, poultry and fish.

Among important factors accounting for a decline in the proportion of the family living dollar going for clothing are the substitution for less expensive synthetic fibers for natural fibers and the trend toward more casual clothing, such as the popularity of mix and match outfits. Another factor is the slight increase in clothing prices compared with price advances for all goods and services.

The smaller share of the family dollar going for house furnishings and equipment may be attributed partly to the high level of purchase of these items in 1950 and the lower prices of appliances in the 1960's. Appliance prices in 1960 were about 15 per cent lower than in 1950.

A decline in the proportion of total spending reported for recreation may seem incongruous with higher incomes and the trend toward paid vacations for industrial workers, but it can be explained by the way figures have been classified, Miss Ryan says.

Automobile expenses incurred while the family is on vacation are included in the transportation category, which has increased. Expenditures for a summer cottage or a hotel or motel room while on vacation are classified as "shelter," while the costs of vacation meals come under "meals away from home." The recreation category includes primarily actual admissions for movies, cultural and sporting events.

The substantial increase in expenditures for automobile purchase and operation reflects in part the greater number of families owning automobiles and the greater use of the automobile. About four out of five households have a car available for their use, according to the 1960 census of housing, 19 per cent of all households have two cars and 3 per cent have three or more. Americans spend more than $1 out of every $10 for the purchase and operation of the automobile.

A decline in the proportion of total spending reported for recreation may seem incongruous with higher incomes and the trend towards longer paid vacations for industrial workers, but it can be explained by the way figures have been classified, Miss Ryan says.

Selective Service Ends College Test

Few Students Apply For Test on Deferment

The Selective Service College qualification test, used since 1951 to help local boards decide student deferment cases, has been suspended. No test will be offered for the 1963-64 school year.

Suspension of the test, usually given in April, was announced by Lt. Col. Murley A. Reep, state director of selective service for Minnesota. The decision to suspend the test was reached because of the small numbers of students who have applied for the test in recent years.

The score made on the test was made a part of the students' official selective service local board file. The score was weighed by the local board along with other information in deciding whether to defer a student?

With the end of the Korean conflict and reductions in the armed forces, the average age at which men were reached for induction rose. It has been around 23 for the past several years. Most students have been able to complete college before being reached for induction.

Millions of Americans have discovered this is so... beer is served in two out of three U.S. homes today.

Steins Pass "Sake"
An English-speaking magazine called "Tokyo Mail" says "Sake" is no longer Japan's most-sipped beverage. Ever since World War II, beer consumption has risen there, while sake drinking has decreased. I'll bet American troops and tourists helped to boost that trend.

Up-Snacker Spread
Cut a 2-inch top slice from a small Edam or Gouda cheese. Scoop out insides, keeping shell intact. Fine-chop cheese; cream it with 4 Tbsp. soft butter, 4 Tbsp. Roquefort cheese, 2 Tbsp. grated onion and ½ tsp. dry mustard. Gradually mix in ¾ cup beer. Refill shell, replace top and chill. Serve with thin slices of pumpernickel, and steins of beer.... $230 Million in GI Dividends Are Distributed Early

President Asks Early Insurance Distribution To Stimulate Economy

Payment of nearly $230 million in 1964 GI insurance dividends to some five million veterans has been completed in record time, according to John S. Gleason, Jr., administrator of veterans affairs.

President Lyndon Johnson last month ordered Gleason to make payment of the dividend as early as possible in January as a stimulant to the national economy. Distribution of the dividend checks by VA began January 2, and the last of the checks were placed in the mail January 10.

The fastest prior payment of dividends was made in January of 1963 when distribution was completed January 31. The first speed payment was directed by President Kennedy in 1961. Payments in that year were completed by March 17. In years prior to 1961, payments were made throughout the year on the anniversary date of the individual policies.

Of the total 1964 dividend distribution made this month, $214,000,000 was earmarked for 4,500,000 World War II veterans holding National Service Life Insurance (NSLI) policies. The remaining $15,000,000 went to about 225,000 World War I veterans holding United States Government Life Insurance (USGLI) policies.

Korean conflict veterans did not participate in the dividends since they hold lower-cost, non-participating policies that do not provide regular annual dividend payments.

Town-Country Art Show in St. Paul

Amateur Painters and Sculptors Are Eligible

Entry dates for amateur artists who plan to exhibit in the annual Minnesota town-country art show on the University of Minnesota's St. Paul campus are March 2 through Mar. 7, according to A. Russell Barton, coordinator.

The event, now in its 13th year, was formerly known as the rural art show. The change in name represents an attempt to describe the participants in the show more accurately, Barton explained.

Any amateur painter or sculptor, high school age or over, living in rural Minnesota or in a Minnesota town of 25,000 or less is eligible to exhibit original work. Previously the show was restricted to artists in communities of 15,000 or less.

Exhibits will be confined to recent original works (not copies) in all types of painting, sculpture and the graphic arts. Works should not have been exhibited at any previous Minnesota Rural Art Show. Each artist may enter one painting and one piece of sculpture, but not more than one in either medium.

Registration blanks are available from Minnesota Town-Country Art Show, 218 Agricultural Engineering, Institute of Agriculture, University of Minnesota, St. Paul 55101. An entry fee of $2 will be charged.

Merit award ribbons will be given to artists deserving special recognition and encouragement. The award exhibits, to be selected by a committee of qualified judges, will be shown at the American-Swedish Institute in Minneapolis in April.

Plan for Plastic Greenhouses Is Available at 'U'

Home gardeners who like to begin their activities early by starting seeds and various bedding plants may be interested in plans for a small, easily built greenhouse designed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The greenhouse (Plan No. 5946) is plastic covered and measures eight feet, six inches in width. It can be built in multiples of three feet in length. Strips of quarter-inch plywood form the arches.

With treated foundation boards and stakes, galvanized or brass screws and other anti-corrosion measures, the frame should last for several years, but the plastic cover may have to be replaced annually. Tests at the Agricultural Research Center, Beltsville, Md., showed no snow loading heavy enough to cause breaks in the plastic cover.

Plan No. 5046 may be obtained for 25 cents from Blueprint Room, Agricultural Engineering, Institute of Agriculture, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minnesota. Money must accompany the order for the plan.

Marshall County Homemakers Plan Sewing Lessons

Marshall county homemakers groups will receive lesson training on sewing machine attachments during the next two weeks, according to Miss Sandra Saronen, county home agent.

The lesson is designed to show how a machine can do more work if some things are checked before stitching begins, the home agent said. Tension adjustment for the thread and pressure on foot controls will be covered in the lessons.

Scheduled for this area are classes at Holt, Thursday, 1:30 in the Holt Lutheran church; Middle River, Friday, 1:30 p.m. in the Lutheran church; Grygla, January 29, 1 p.m. at Mrs. Allard Morken home; and Gatzke, January 29, 7:30 p.m. at Mrs. Clarence Lian home.

State Nursery Tree Seedlings Supply Exhausted

Only Scotch Pine and Few Hardwoods, Shrubs Remain on Inventory

The conservation department has announced that an original inventory of 26 million tree seedlings, offered for sale on September 1 have all been sold with the exception of two million Scotch pine and a few hardwood trees and shrubs.

Ray Clement, chief of forest nurseries for the department's forestry division, said orders for the trees began pouring into the division's office shortly after the opening announcement.

"It may be that many persons who were unable to obtain trees in past years because they waited too long before ordering them resolved to get their orders in early this year," Clement said. The result is that the supply of trees available has been exhausted sooner this year than in the past.

Aside from the Scotch pine, there remain only a few green ash, silver maple and some shrubs: honeysuckle, caragana, Amur maple and sand cherry. Shrubs are planted primarily for wind breaks and game food, Clement explained.

He said the original inventory included 13 million Norway pine, 350,000 white pine, 1,250,000 million black spruce, four million white spruce and varying amounts of other evergreens and hardwood species.

Trees from state-owned nurseries are sold for one cent each in minimum quantities of 500 for conservation purposes.

Sweetclover Variety Reasearch Conducted

Reluctance on the part of growers to use insecticides in the production of a green-manure crop has prompted the University of Minnesota entomology department to attempt development of a sweetclover variety resistant to the sweetclover weevil.

Speaking at the annual crop improvement day short course held January 15 on the St. Paul campers, Dr. Edward B. Radcliffe, research fellow in the entomology department, described efforts now underway to solve the sweetclover production problem. The weevil problem has reached such proportions that the production of sweetclover in our area has dropped drastically from previous harvest peaks.

"The research project," he said, "is attempting to locate sources of weevil resistance that can be incorporated into the commercial sweetclover varieties now available." This has meant an intensive screening program of nearly 200 varieties encompassing nine different species from 40 countries.

Radcliffe said that to date no appreciable resistance has been found in agriculturally important species. There has been, however, a discovery of resistance in some entries less well known. This year the research program hopes to screen another 200 types of sweetclover along with a reevaluation of the more promising entries found so far.

With the several sources of resistance now available, and the probability of more being located, Radcliffe said it is important that work begins soon on the plant breeding problems. He was referring to interspecific crosses between the resistant and commercial sweet clover species.

In summing up his presentation, the entomologist said, "If these problems can be resolved, the possibility of weevil-resistant sweet clovers appears likely to become a reality."

12 Lakes Opened For Promiscuous Fishing in State

All Types of Fish May Be Taken by Nearly Any Means To Prevent Waste

The following lakes have been reported open to promiscuous fishing by the Minnesota Conservation department up to and including the dates specified. Name of lake, county in which it is located and closing date includes:

Benton, Carver, Feb. 29;
Isabelle, Dakota, Feb. 29;
Rebecca, Dakota, Feb. 29;
Mud, Douglas, Jan. 31;
Albert Lea, Freeborn, Mar. 15;
Mustinka Slough, Grant, Feb. 15;
Dora, LeSueur, January 31;
Winsted Lake, McLeod, Jan. 31
Lower Sakatah, Rice, Mar. 1;
Connelly's Slough, Washington, Feb. 29;
Rausch Lake, Stearns, Feb. 15.

Hjalmar Swenson, supervisor of fisheries said, tests in these waters have indicated a depletion of oxygen so that the fish life is in danger of winterkill. These lakes are open at this time to the taking of fish in any quantity or in any manner, except with the use of seines, fyke nets, hoop nets or explosives, by residents of the state of Minnesota for personal use only, except that bullheads and rough fish may be sold.

In many cases the fisheries section carries on fish rescue operations and transfers game fish to other waters in the vicinity, but many of these waters are so shallow and muddy that it is not practical to carry on rescue operations. The promiscuous fishing law gives the residents of Minnesota an opportunity to make use of the fish that would otherwise be wasted. This type of fishing relieves many of the other waters of heavy fishing pressure. Lakes opened to promiscuous fishing will be posted with signs.

Oxygen Deficiency In Shallow Lakes Occurring Early

Fish Rescue Crews Had Removed 187,000 Fish by End of December in State

Oxygen deficiency is occuring in Minnesota lakes a little earlier than usual this year, according to Hjalmer Swenson, state fisheries supervisor.

He attributed the situation to the freeze up in some areas. The result was a heavy slush which froze and reduced the transparency of the ice. Cloudy weather, too, has reduced the sunlight which is needed to stimulate oxygen producing plants in lakes. These factors, coupled with low lake levels, are likely to spell trouble for fish as the winter progresses, Swenson said.

As of December 31, conservation department fish rescue crews had removed a total of 187,000 northern pike weighing 125,000 pounds from lakes threatening to "freeze out" due to oxygen deficiency. The late freeze up delayed rescue operations this year but with additional manpower being made available with funds from the federal accelerated public works program, Swenson believes fish rescue work will probably equal or exceed the production of other recent years.

Fish rescue activities are being carreed out in 40 to 50 different localities at the same time, he stated.

Some of the areas that have produced large numbers of rescued, northerns so far this winter are the Roseau waterfowl ponds-48,000; Dean lake in Crow Wing county-20,000; Rices lake federal wildlife refuge-8,000; Laura lake in Cass county-6,000; and Puposky lake in Beltrami county-9,000.

Swenson said rough fish control crews, which are seining carp from lakes in southern Minnesota, will begin rescuing game fish from some of these lakes when oxygen levels fall near the danger point.

Editorials . . .

"In a sinless and painless world the moral element would be lacking; the goodness would have no more significance in our conscious life than that load of atmosphere which we are always carrying around with us. We are thus brought to a striking conclusion, the essential soundness of which cannot be gainsaid. In a happy world there must be pain and sorrow, and in a moral world the knowledge of evil is indispensable.

"What would have been the moral value or significance of a race of human beings ignorant of sin, and doing beneficient acts with no more conciousness or volition than the deftly contrived machine that picks up raw material at one end, and turns out some finished product at the other? Certainly for strong and resolute men and women, an Eden would be at best a fool's paradise."

—Fiske

People in Glass Houses

Maybe people who live in glass houses should throw stones. According to the American Medical association, an estimated 40,000 people each year try to walk through glass doors, glass walls or picture windows. Almost 6,000 are injured so severely that they wind up in the hospital and a number have died from severe cuts and loss of blood. Residents of glass houses could throw stones first to be sure the door is open before they walk through it. It would be safer that way.

Labor's Love Lost

Big labor has its own proposal to solve the nation's problem of unemployment. The 35-hour work week is advocated to provide for more employees. The New York Times has this to say about the proposal:

"Thus far labor's only basic remedy for unemployment is the synthetic one of a 35-hour work week to be established through federal legislation. Such a cut in work schedules would merely drive up costs and thus make it harder for American goods to compete in domestic and world markets. Moreover, it is a retreat from the fuller use of our materials, manpower and productive facilities when poverty remains a crucial challenge in large sections of our own country and even larger sections of Asia, Africa and Latin America."

We doubt that labor would expect a 35-hour week at less than 40 hours of pay. We also fail to understand how the reduction of work week hours would be expected to provide more jobs. If all work weeks could be combined in a mass total and the reduced time parceled out to new workers, it would make some sense. But to take the few hours loss from seven to 10 workers to make a work week for a person now unemployed doesn't seem practical.

Estimates are that it takes $20,000 investment to create one new job. Government must therefore look to private enterprise to provide job opportunities. In the face of economic and other restrictions placed on business by the government through taxes and controls, the problems are compounded.

Federal income tax, for instance, amounts to 52 per cent of the profits of all private business of any size. A tax cut should help the employment situation. A tax cut without reduced government spending, however, should not be considered good economics.

It may be that the work week will eventually get around to the working man's paradise. That would be a three-day week consisting of Saturday, Sunday and pay day.

New Signs — Same Game

Writing in the January issue of "Conservation News", a publication sponsored by the National Wildlife Federation, Ernest Swift has some interesting comments on a problem which is becoming more than a pet peeve for sportsmen. Swift writes:

> "During the past fall months, thousands of migrant, non-resident hunters in their annual trek to the Dakotas, Montana or Wyoming found an increasing number of "No Trespass" signs on areas traditionally open to hunting.
> "Soil bank lands seem to pose the number one question. It is generally recognized that the soil bank has been shown to be beneficial to bird life in the prairie regions. Certainly there is no crop damage attendant to hunting, and the landowner gets a nice, fat subsidy from the federal government by way of the taxpayer.
> "Previously, there has never been any argument about the fact that landowners control the use of their land, unless zoned, nor argument that the states own the native wildlife. But new and interesting questions are now being raised as to the public's equity, if any, when the taxpayers help support the farmer. Should the taxpayer have the right to go on publicly-supported-lands and claim what he owns—in other words, lawfully hunt the wild game?
> "Other developments have become eyebrow raisers among sportsmen. Government agencies finance new rural recreation enterprises and promote such loans through the Farmers Home Administration. Again some sportsmen are asking, if the game on the land is wild game and under the jurisdiction of the state, why should their tax dollars be loaned to build up a private activity where they must also pay to shoot game in which they have an equity?"

Swift did not mention Minnesota in his list of states, but this state could well be added to the list. Increased posting of private lands is noticed each year in areas where upland game, waterfowl and big game are to be found. There are a number of reasons for posting land.

In this area in particular, where deer hunting is undoubtedly one of the major calls to hunters, there is valid reason for posting. Farmers don't like indiscriminate firing of large caliber rifles around their homesteads or livestock. Much of the posting, however, is purely selfish, particularly in upland game areas.

Land owners post their land against outside hunting so that they can take advantage of the state-owned game living there. They lease their land for a fee to private parties for personal profit. They have a "mad on" for sportsmen because some inconsiderate hunter left a gate open or drove across cut grain or tramped through a standing corn field.

It is quite well conceded that hunting will never again be what it was in Minnesota, but it can quite well be what it is now or a little bit better. We can't condem the folks who post their land, but we quite frequently can't understand their illogical reasoning. We admire those who realize that wild game belongs to the state and will permit their land to be used for game production and hunting. They sure are nice people.

The Report Is In So What!

After 14 months of extensive study and research, the surgeon general's committee on smoking and health has now delivered its long-awaited report. The report was just about what it was expected to be. It cited cigarette smoking as the major cause of lung cancer, a significant cause of cancer of the larynx, and associated it with a number of other cancers.

The report also indicated an association between cigarettes and heart and blood vessel disease and peptic ulcers—but did not establish a proof of cause. The committee stated that evidence of a health hazard is so strong that corrective action should be taken.

Some people were surprised with the strong denunciation of cigarette smoking expressed by the committee. Regulatory federal agencies gave assurance that the report would be studied closely and that there would be no foot-dragging in filling what the committee called a need for remedial action.

So now we have the report—to alert us, to warn us, to caution us, to perturb us, to provoke us, to annoy us, to anger us or to chasten us. In the face of action from pressure groups, some types of regulatory legislation will likely be forthcoming. But we are willing to wager a modest sum that the legislation will be more complicated and less effective than most legislation.

In their deliberations, legislators are not likely to forget that the tobacco industry is a powerful economic influence. In 1962, the latest year for which figures are available, federal excise taxes on tobacco aided the sagging federal treasury to the tune of $2,025,736,000. In addition the states received considerably more than a billion dollars in tax revenue from tobacco products.

Aside from taxes, the tobacco industry provides a multitude of jobs from the farmer to the buyer to the manufacturer to the salesman and so on down the line. Though a health hazard, as the report indicates, tobacco is too deeply rooted in our way of life to be regulated like narcotics or combatted like a disease germ.

Even the most avid smoker will admit that smoking is a stupid, wasteful and expensive habit that does no one any good whatsoever. It is as unnecessary as television, requires as much talent as breathing and is a much of a status symbol as a pool cue. It is offensive to many, repulsive to some and annoying to others. And now on top of it all—the report would lead us to believe—it is detrimental to health.

Why do people smoke? It's a good question. Why do people eat caviar, sleep on their stomachs, take walks in the woods, get up at 5 a. m., spring houseclean or bite their fingernails? Because they enjoy it, others do it, or it's a habit, are logical answers.

We'll bet the report won't make much difference in tobacco sales. If it prompts more extensive research, so much the better. But how do you legislate against people committing potential suicide?

Interesting Opinions . . .

"A bill was introduced in the last session of Congress to prevent the number of Agriculture Department employees from exceeding the number of farmers. Although it was not passed, many people said it had considerable merit." —E. J. Person, Ex. Sec., Minn. Republican Farm Council

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

A heavy lunch basket brought by an old couple to the county fair was being carried by the wife. Suddenly, in the midst of a thickening crowd, her grizzled mate reached for the handle. "It's burdensome, Pa," she said gratefully. "I know it," he grunted, "but there's always a chance of you gettin' lost."

Sidelines Observations

BY BILL DAHLQUIST

Australia will adopt the decimal system in its coinage in February of 1966, according to a New York Times dispatch from Melbourne. From then on the present pounds, shillings and pence will be converted to the decimal system of dollars and cents.

The need for such a change and its obvious advantages has been recognized for a long time. The retarding factor in actually making such a change is the confusion that comes with it, inevitably during the year of transformation. That is the factor that has been retarding similar action in Britain.

But we have a problem too—our long obsolete system of weights and measures. Our mathematicians and scientists are agreed that we should adopt the metoric system which is in common usage throughout the civilized world. But we, too, hate change, even when it obviously is for the best.

Robert Kennedy is off to the Far East to persuade Indonesian leader, President Sukarno, that he should be friendly to Malasia, a combination of former British colonies that have been encouraged by the British to band together into a Commonwealth nation. The young fellow may be able to perform the magic trick, but his record has not been impressive, and the Administration's backup in Panama isn't going to be helpful dealing with Sukarno.

Speaking of the confusion in Panama, Richard Wilson of the Minneapolis Tribune Washington Bureau, states that in Panama "we are faced with acute short-range problems and others of greater and longer significance." He states that in the past four months, prior to the recent disturbances, we have not even had an ambassador in Panama. Whether the governor of the Canal Zone or the Ambassador to Panama speaks for the American government still seems to be in doubt. He says:

"These confusions, however, are merely surface symptoms. The real trouble is that we do not face squarely the issue of who is to control the Panama Canal in the future and under what conditions.

"This is the long range implication which officials seem determined either to ignor or to hide from the American public. A Panama Canal under other than American control seems so remote or ludicrous as to be unworthy of serious consideration."

The first reaction of the administration to Panama's demand that we concede to four points before there would be any further consideration of possible new approaches to the problems of Canal ownership and management was very brave. There would be discussions first and then, maybe, some concessions. But the concessions came immediately in spite of the brave words.

Once again, in backing away from trouble, we moved into more trouble, and from a position of strength we are now forced to argue from a position of weakness. The situation in Panama has materially worsened.

The administration speaks up boldly of its determination to reduce taxation. Everybody loves tax reduction. That will make the wheels of industry hum.

Under the circumstances the announcement by the post office department that it has "won" the approval of the Interstate Commerce Committee to increase parcel post mailing rates substantially is rather surprising. The increase will average 13.1 per cent of the present rates according to the report.

Like all taxes paid largely by business, this tax will be in effect another general sales tax on the consumers.

MAIN STREET, U.S.A.

BY BERT MILLS

Washington Editor of "National Publisher"

Business is good and going to be better. A new surge of prosperity is expected this year by most forecasters, particularly if Congress votes a tax cut as predicted.

Confidence in the business outlook is so widespread and so strong that some observers are worried that all the rosy predictions will lead to over-confidence.

1963 was the third straight good year for business. New records were set in total production, employment, purchasing power and business profits. The advances were achieved with only a modest rise in the price level.

Retail sales last year rose about five per cent to a new peak. Government and business forecasters expect a comparable increase in 1964, particularly if every consumer has more spending money as the result of a tax cut.

The current boom has lasted longer than any in peacetime history. Since 1961, the gross national delimbece 1961, the gross national production has climbed. 20 per cent, industrial production 2 per cent, and personal income 16 per cent.

Two landmarks have just been passed. Gross national production has topped the 600 billion mark this month. And personal income per capita, considered possibly the best index of national well-being, has reached $2,500 a year. This in the average American's pocket represents 300 dollars more in the year than in 1961.

On top of all this bounty, Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges says flatly: "The American economy will continue to expand through 1964." The Chamber of Commerce of the United States agrees, even seeing "continued gains int 1966" if taxes are pared.

Some Clouds Seen

To be sure, there are some clouds on the economic horizon. Farm production set a record in 1963 but net farm income declined and is expected to slip a bit more this year.

It is ironic that as farm efficiency continues to improve due to increased management skills and technological improvement, farmers are not sharing proportionately in national prosperity. Net income of producers may decline as much as six per cent in 1964. Another drawback is the unemployment rate, which hovers between five and six per cent. Although more people have jobs now than ever before, the constantly rising population leaves a reservoir of unemployed. Political programs have failed to make any sizable dent in the jobless total.

The President's Council of economic advisers, whose judgment has been known to be affected by political considerations upon occasion, thinks an 11 billion dollar tax cut would lead to the creation of two to three million new jobs. Union economists consider this estimate too high.

Athird drag on the economy is the balance of payments deficit. The U. S. spends more abroad than it receives from overseas despite strenuous government efforts. This problem is one of the major headaches of the Johnson administration.

Consumer Confidence High

A major factor influencing business conditions is the attitude of the man on the street. If people are optimistic, they tend to spend. That applies to industry as well as to individuals.

In these areas, the signs are good. Plant and equipment investment by business in 1964 is expected to expand five to ten per cent. Construction enjoyed a record year in 1963 and the uptrend

The automobile industry had its second greatest year in 1963, and anticipates its third straight seven million car year in 1964. This never happened before but Detroit is distinctly optimistic over automotive prospects.

Consumer attitudes are measured regularly by the university of Michigan's survey research center. Its latest study showed the public to be generally optimistic, reporting that "few people see any prospects of a recession in the near future."

1963 turned out to be a better year than had been predicted. If the same proves true in 1964, it will indeed be a Happy New Year.

Prowler Quint Takes E. Grand Forks 62-48

Coach Jack Junker's Prowlers turned in a 23-point fourth period lead to pull away from Coach Larry Selk's ever-trying Grand Forks club and score a 62 to 48 win over the Green Wave in a game played on the local court Friday night.

This weekend the Prowlers will meet a pair of North Dakota's Class A teams. On Friday night, Prowlers will meet the Fargo Central Midgets; and on Saturday night, in a game that is to be played in the North Dakota fieldhouse, coach Junker's squad will meet the Grand Forks Central Redskins.

In Friday night's district conference game played here, East Grand Forks, on some fine outside shooting by guard Gary Raymond, and several field goals by Rich Hangsleben, gained a 17 to 12 first period lead. And coach Selk's squad, with Brad Genereau contributing a pair of field goals and two free throws, held the lead at the end of the second period, 27 to 24. The Prowlers did knot the game at 17-all early in the second period on a pair of free throws by Ken Larson, and a field goal and free throw by Bob Olson. But a pair of two-pointers by Genereau and a field goal by Louie Lopez pushed the East Siders again into the lead.

In an evenly-played third period, and which found the Prowlers outpointing the visitors, 15 to 11, and gaining a one-point lead on Rick Jensen's field goal at the period's close, the locals took a 39 to 38 lead.

In the fourth period, the Prowlers erupted for 23 points, with Olson scoring five field goals to spark the attack, to take a commanding lead. East Grand Forks kept pace with the Prowlers during the opening minutes of the period, trailing by one point, 45 to 44, with five minutes to play, but three quick field goals by Olson and a field goal and a free throw by Rich Nelson and the Prowlers were on their way to a well-earned, 62 to 48, win.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

A Pair of Big Ones

Coach George Schlieff's hockey Prowlers and coach Al Shaff's wrestling Prowlers will be facing a pair of "toughies" this week. The local squads will have the advantage, though, of meeting these opposing highly-ranked squads in home surroundings.

On Tuesday night, on the Arena ice, coach Myron Gunstrom's Warroad Warriors, rated number 12 in the Pioneer Press' Hockey Service standings, wil meet the Prowlers, who are rated 14. This game can be rightly termed "crucial" as far as Region Eight hockey is concerned, and it's probable that the winner will gain rating as the Region number one team.

And on Wednesday night, in the high school gymnasium, the Bemidji Lumberjack wrestlers, the Region Eight defending champions, will meet coach Shaff's Prowlers. And the Prowlers, individually, are primed to meet the Jacks, and a victory over a Bemidji Lumberjack will provide nearly as much satisfaction as winning a regional title.

Oh yes, don't forget that the St. Paul Johnson hockey squad, the state's lone undefeated high school team, will be here on Saturday night. And as a preliminary to that game, the Prowler 'B' squad will play the Bemidji Lumberjack hockey team.

Those Surprising Pirates

I had picked the Ada Vikings, and Dave Cirks, to outplay the Crookston Pirates, and Bill Reitmeier, in that basketball game played at Crookston on Saturday night. But Al Droen's Crookston club, with another of their come-from-behind efforts, edged out the Vikings, 56 to 54. It was the first loss in nine starts for the Ada squad, one of the title favorites in District 30; and it was the eleventh straight win for the Pirates of District 31.

It is becoming apparent that the Crookston club will be a problem for teams in District 31 and Region Eight. Saturday's night win over the previously unbeaten Ada Vikings will do much to build up the confidence of the Pirates. Coach Droen's squad will probably get the feeling that they are a "team of destiny", and the impetus, or inspiration, of such a belief will make the Pirates tough indeed.

And one of the reasons for the remarkable play of the Crookston club this season is the rapid development of burly Bill Reitmeier. He is only in his second year of organized basketball, but his improvement from game to game has been amazing. And at six-feet five-inches, and plenty of poundage, he is the "big" man that the Crookston club needed.

The Pirates will be here on Friday night, Jan. 31, and this fame should jam-pack the gymnasium.

Otto the Trapper

Otto Disse, father of Dr. Jim Disse, turned in a trapping feat last week when he trapped a female timber wolf. Otto, who lives in a hunting cabin just north of the Malcolm corner, caught the wolf, which weighed in at 75 pounds, about twelve or thirteen miles north of the Malcolm corner.

Otto can be rightly proud of making this catch. Now if Jim could only trap a fox or a rabbit or a shrew or something, he could talk to his dad as a professional. It takes skill to trap a timber wolf, doesn't it, Otto?

It Will be Remedied

One of the minor irritations for opposing basketball coaches when they bring their teams into the high school gymnasium here for a game is the lack of a restraining line at the end lines. And when the Prowlers employ a zone press, the irritation isn't so minor.

Coach Larry Selk of East Grand Forks complained that his guard, Louie Lopez, who possesses a strong throwing arm, was unable to heave the long pass down the court because of lack of room behind the end line, and the fact that the pressing Prowlers were moving in too close. A restraining line, 36 inches inside the end line, is recommended, and coach Jack Junker of the Prowlers informed coach Selk that this line would be put in.

And it is a fact that the lack of such a line has caused considerable bickering in bygone years, and it will be a relief to have this restraining line painted in. East Grand Forks' Selk didn't imply that the lack of restraining line was the reason that his East Siders dropped a 62 to 48 decision to the Prowlers, but he did maintain that it added to the effectiveness of the Prowlers' zone press. Selk stated that the Prowlers, with Bob Olson, Rich Nelson, Kenny Larson, and Mark Anderson in the lineup, were too big and too effective in controlling the boards. And that was perhaps a true statement.

Prowler Sextet Trims Baudette

In a Region Eight hockey conference game played on Baudette's outdoor rink on Saturday night, coach George Schlieff's Prowlers marked up a 4 to 1 win over the Bears. The win preserved the Prowlers undefeated status in the conference standings (the Prowlers do have a tie game, with Williams) and moved the locals into first place in the regional standings.

On Monday night, Jan. 20, the Prowlers will meet the East Grand Forks Green Wave on the ice sheet in the Winter Sports Building in Grand Forks; and on Tuesday night, on the Arena ice here, the locals will meet the Warroad Warriors.

In a preliminary game played on Saturday night, the Prowlers B squad, on third-period goals by Doug Brandt, John Olson, and Billy Poole, edged out the Baudette B squad, 3 to 1.

In the varsity game, the Prowlers opened the scoring at the 7:48 mark when Don Mathieu, on an assist from Monte LeMoine, beat goalie Roger Koster. That Prowler lead was short-lived as seconds later, from in close, Steve Hanson scored for Baudette at the 8:03 mark. In the final minute of the period, at the 11:14 mark, Mathieu, with Elroy Froiland and John Weigelt being credited with assists, scored the go-ahead tally for the Prowlers.

After a scoreless second period, the Prowlers erupted for a pair of goals in the third period, with Froiland and Paul Peterson scoring, to boost the Prowlers' winning margin to 4 to 1.

The Prowlers played a strong defensive game, being especially effective when they were skating shorthanded. During the game the Prowlers were assessed five penalties, while the Bears were charged with one infraction.

Prowler Grapplers Rally Over Warren

Region 8 Champion Bemidji Lumberjacks Wrestle Here Jan. 22

Picking up 16 points in the last four events on the program, coach Al Shaff's Prowler wrestlers overcame the 18 to 11 lead that the Warren Ponies had gained in the earlier matches and scored a 27 to 18 victory in a district conference wrestling match held here Wednesday evening.

On Wednesday, January 22, the Region Eight wrestling champion Bemidji Lumberjacks will invade the local gymnasium for A and B squad competition against the Prowlers.

In Wednesday night's interesting matches between the Warren Ponies and the Prowlers, the visitors, showing strength in the lighter weights, moved into an 18 to 11 lead entering the 154-lb. class competition. In a 154-lb. match, the Prowlers' Dean Kaushagen edged out Warren's Rick Bro, 2 to 0, adding three points to the Prowlers total.

Joe Taylor, wrestling in the 165-lb. division, pinned the Ponies' Don Anderson in 3:48, and coach Shaff's squad had a one-point lead, 19 to 18. Tom Miller was given a default in the 175-lb. class when Warren did not have an entrant. And in a heavyweight match, the Prowlers' Ellsworth Senum, by a 5 to 0 score, gained a decision over the Ponies' Paul Short.

Pennington Co. Gets $259,891 Highway Funds

Highway Dept. Lists Allotments to All Counties in State

Pennington county today was allotted $259,891 of state-collected highway funds to 1964, it was announced by the Minnesota highway department in St. Paul.

This county's allotment is divided into the regular account, of which $102,995 will be used for maintenance and $154,492 for construction; and the municipal account, of which $962 used for maintenance and $1,442 for construction.

An estimated gross of $121,062,000 will be paid into the highway users tax distribution fund in fiscal 1964, made up of state motor vehicle license fees and fuel tax imposed by the state.

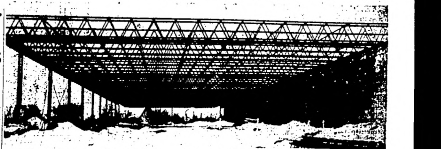
After paying for the service performed by the motor vehicle division, the petroleum division and other state departments in the amount of $2,480,941, there will be left $118,581,059.

Distribution as set up by law is a three-fold apportionment: 62 per cent goes to the trunk highway fund; 29 per cent of the county state aid highway fund; and 9 per cent to the municipal state aid fund, shared by 77 municipalities of 5,000 population or over.

The county gross allotment is also increased by a number of increments such as interest on investments.

The counties this year will receive $34,655,816 as compared to $29,496,290 in 1963. The municipalities will receive $10,967,128 this year as compared to $9,154,021 in 1963.

Allotments to other counties in this area include $610,774; Red Lake, $203,849; Roseau, $458,953; Kittson, $354,673; Polk, $831,788; and Beltrami, $430,686.



STEEL spanning one of the sections of the new elementary school now under construction in Thief River Falls creates an interesting pattern. With generally good winter weather for construction, considerable progress has been made on the building. If weather continues favorable, it is expected that brick-laying will begin early in March. Priority in construction has been given to the elementary building which is to be ready for the start of the 1964-65 school term. It will be connected by an enclosed passageway to the junior high school building which is to be ready for use about January 1, 1965.

Thief River Falls students will be given a second chance to take any oral polio vaccine they may have missed, according to Mrs. Margaret Race, school nurse. In December more than 400 students took advantage of the special arrangements made through local medical clinics.

Each oral vaccine dosage gives protection against only one type of polio, therefore it is necessary to have all three types of Sabin vaccine for complete protection, Mrs. Race said. For the benefit of those who still have not had all three types, the local clinics will have vaccine available next week.

Permit slips have been sent home with elementary and high school students. Definite arrangements can not be made with the clinics until these permits are signed by parents and returned to school. Quantity of vaccine to be ordered will be determined by the number of requests received.

Parents are urged to return the permission slips immediately with a one dollar fee. If a child did not receive a permit slip or lost it, parents may send a note with his money. The note must be signed and state which vaccine is needed.

Top of the Nation Dairy Unit Meets

Seven directorts for one year terms were elected by the Top of the Nation Dairy association Tuesday at the annual meeting held in the Rex Cafe. The association sponsors the Top of the Nation Dairy sale each fall in Thief River Falls—a sale with the highest entry standards of any dairy sale in the United States.

Elected directors were Clyde Christensen and Walter Steinhauer, Thief River Falls; Donald Craigmile, Hallock; Donald Walker, Red Lake Falls; Ernest Nelson, Fertile, Conrad Zak, Angus; and Sheldon Erickson, Badger.

At a reorganizational meeting of the board, Clyde Christenson was reelected president and Donald Craigmile, vice president. Stuart McLeod and Kenneth Onken, ex-officio board members, were respectively named secretary and treasurer.

Fred Sorensen was selected as sales manager for the 1964 sale with Dean Workman of Borup chosen as auctioneer. Membership in the association is comprised of delegates from seven Dairy Herd Improvement associations in the area. The associations provide one delegate for each five members or fraction thereof, with these delegates electing the Top of the Nation board. The 1964 sale will be held on October 22. Next meeting of the board will be in late July.

Written comments from Dr. E. C. Frederick, 1963 sale manager, were read to the association members as Dr. Frederick was unable to attend. The report summarized the activities of the sale manager prior to the sale and provided an outline to be followed in future years.

In his suggestions for the future, Dr. Frederick noted that the importance of the Top of the Nation sale should be stressed at every DHIA meeting in northwestern Minnesota. He suggested that animals to be consigned to the sale be bred no earlier than December 10 nor later than February 10. He also suggested the continuance of a sale follow-up survey.

"The Top of the Nation Dairy association and sale should be continued," Dr. Frederick added. 'It has the potential of growing into a giant and doing much good for the dairy industry. May it do so, and help the dairymen of northwestern Minnesota become the top dairymen of the nation."
